THE MARTIAL NOTE PREVAILS IN THE DAY'S PICTORIAL MEDLEY

Persons who contend that the war is not altogether destructive will find support for their views in this photograph of one of the classes for enlisted men, both American and Allied, at the suffrage headquarters, 1725 Walnut street. Some of the French sailors are receiving instruction in English, while the Americans are receiving their first lessons in French. Still others of the enlisted men are learning to knit.

American marines billeted at a French farmhouse repay the hospitality of their host by cleaning up the grounds. Committee on Public Information.

A new garment for our Sammees is the "kid waistcoat," made from cast-off gloves. Its virtues are its warmth, durability and the fact that it is made from waste materials.

The mighty triumvirate of France, Great Britain and America is symbolized by these three standard bearers photographed on French soil. Committee on Public Information.

The Pan-American Union is the recipient of this bust statue of Elihu Root, considered a remarkable likeness of the American statesman. Harris & Ewing.

Among the Red Cross nurses administering to the wants of sick and wounded Americans in France is Miss Isabel Lyons, whose home is in Burlington, New Jersey.

The suggestion may not seem inviting to civilians, but when the mercury is down to zero an invitation to this heated dugout at the training camp of one of our medical divisions is not to be scoffed at. "Snore Inn" is the name of this particular rendezvous.

Expensive Expressions

—Penn Punch Bowl, CHICKEN FEED

Some Sickness

Willie—Ma-ma, have I ever had the adults?
Ma—What do you mean?
Willie—It says on my medicine "one teaspoonful for adults."—Widow.

Expensive, Nevertheless

"I saw a fellow today who was tickled all over because he had a note to meet."
"That's a funny thing to be pleased about."
"Wait a minute. It was a note to meet a girl."—Judge.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

Now Willyum my dog has stopped speaking to me—I gave him a tool chest for Christmas you see.

"WHAT'S THE STAKES?"

—London Opinion. Tommy (who holds a "Nap" hand—after the interruption)—"Well anyway, let's play the blinks' hand out."

Preparedness

Stude (out on a date)—I came to call on your daughter.
Father—Yes, I will wake her up.
Stude (much agitated)—Why, I don't understand. She expects me, doesn't she?
Father—Sure, she always sleeps all day when she expects you at night.—Awgwan.

So to Speak

—Penn State Froth, A LONG DISTANCE CALL

Tricky Kaiser

Old Lady—This is a terrible war, doctor.
Doctor—It is, indeed.
Old Lady—It's a pity some one don't catch that there old Kruger!
Doctor—Ah! You mean the Kaiser.
Old Lady—Av—changed his name, has he, deceitful old varmint!—Tit-Bits.

The Aviator's Nightmare

—Princeton Tiger. "Hey Boy—get out and crank up!"

Something Better

A little boy was on his knees recently one night, and auntie, staying at the house, was present. "It is a pleasure," she said to him afterward, "to hear you saying your prayers so well. You speak so earnestly and seriously, and mean what you say, and care about it."
"Ah," he answered, "ah, but, auntie, you should hear me gargle!"—Tit-Bits.

The Young Lady Across the Way

We asked the young lady across the way if she thought monogamy would be universally practiced after the war, and she said things doubtless would be pretty bad, but she didn't believe it would come to that.
