

A FORETASTE OF THE COMING WEEK'S THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By FONTAINE FOX

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

I made one good resolve today—
Just food will win the war 'tis said
So I've resolved that all this year
I'll feed my dog on whole wheat bread.

Dedicated to Mr. Hoover
Mary had a little lamb
But at the price of meat
I'd just as lief admit right now
She had my dinner beat.
—The Purple Cow.

One Use
The Cadet Captain—What is alignment for?
Weary Rookie—For people who can't write straight without one.
—The Purple Cow.

So to Speak

Petrarch—The Abbess was handing our prior an awful line this morning.
Dante—Stringing the Venerable Bede, eh?

SCHOOL DAYS

The young lady across the way says the Revolution began in 1776 and the Civil War in 1861 and we entered the war with Germany in 1917, but she never could remember the date of the War of 1812.

CHRISTMAS IN "MERRIE ENGLAND"

A Fair Indication
"Did some one take your order?"
"I'm afraid so. I've been here an hour and nothing has showed up yet."
—Widow.

Prodigy
"Has he a good memory?"
"Why, he can remember when people waltzed."
—Lamb.

The Young Lady Across the Way

John Drew and Margaret Hillington, coming to the Adelphi in "The Gay Lord Ques."

"Toot-Toot," with Louise Groody and Earl Benham, will arrive at the Forrest.

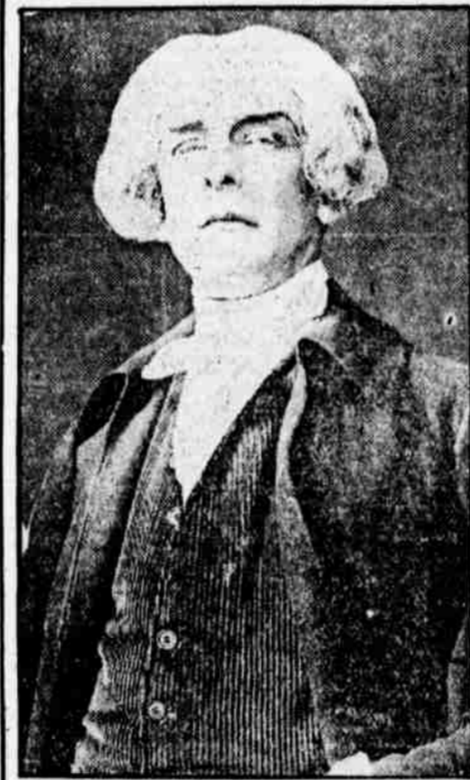

Julian Eltinge's impersonations will furnish a headliner at Keith's.

Helen Lorayne will entertain burlesque lovers at the Casino.

De Wolf Hopper appearing in the "Passing Show of 1917" at the Chestnut Street Opera House.

Carl Anthony as Thomas Jefferson in "Hamilton," now at the Broad.

Visitors at the Globe will find Dick Knowles and Moe White leading the bill.

William Hodge and Clara Moores as they appear in "A Cure for Curables" at the Lyric.

Roberta Arnold and Orlando Daly in a scene from "Up Stairs and Down," coming to the Garrick.