The proclamation refers to the fact that there may be a period of unrest following the war and that each citizen should be "financially, physically and mentally prepared," and says:

"I hereby call upon all citizens, and other persons who reside in Pennsylvania, to observe national thrift day, the beginning of the Young Men's Christian Association's thrift week program, and begin during this week to increase the knowledge and practice of a broad conception of thrift, a thrift not only economic, but also social, educational, physical and religious, and to co-sperate in every way within their power with this great movement."

In his letter to the President the Governor says the closing days have brought "slight relief and continued distress" and affected homes and industries. Schools and churches have been without fuel and the outlook is "discovery in the president should refuse coal".
