A SURVEY OF THE SCHOOLS

Pay of Teachers Insufficient and Inequitably Distributed—Based on Antiquated Theories. Has Board Courage to Act?—Teachers' Devoted Spirit—Politics in the Schools

Teachers' complaints were expected to predominate in the numerous interviews with teachers which were planned as an important part of this investigation. These were the question of salaries and the issue of politics in the schools. It is a tribute to our teachers that in the great majority of cases they let their personal concern of earning a fair livelihood at their profession remain casual or incidental and with the successful spirit which has made teaching a venerated calling through the ages, devoted their comment and criticism to the betterment of the schools.

subjects of various kinds and see to it that the children grasp and assimilate them in no easy matter. Teaching is most delicate and far more difficult than most people can imagine.

SPIRITUAL VS. ECONOMIC

One principal declared that the reason teachers were quitting school work was not so much economic as spiritual. BIGGER OPPORTUNITIES FOR WOMEN

"The advance of feminism has put women on an earning capacity not with men in many lines of activity. We simply don't think women are worth less than men any more—except in the inherited and false tradition that handicraft and business line is now wide open to women. They have too many other opportunities for careers now to be attracted to teaching. It is a matter of pride for women to go into the army, navy and air force. It is not a matter of pride for them to go into the army, navy and air force."
