Stories galore about John L. Sullivan have been published since his recent death. Scores of histories of the "champion of champions" have been rushed into print.

No one can recite the narrative of his wonderful career from boyhood until he lost the world's battle in 1892 better than John L. himself.

William H. Rocab, Sports Editor of the Public Ledger, is the possessor of Sullivan's life history from the latter's own lips. It is a thrilling tale. No one who is interested in boxing or in physical training should miss it. It is being published in daily installments on the sporting page of the morning

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE WILL HAVE BALL TEAM

40 Candidates to Hold First Practice on School Campus This Afternoon

KINSMAN IN SERVICE

St. Joseph's College will be represented this spring on the diamond. This was decided several days ago. It was first thought that there would not be sufficient material for a team owing to the number of Crinson and Gray students in the various branches of the service, including many of last year's baseball team.

After canvassing the student body in reference to having a nine, a call for candidates was issued on Wednesday. More than forty men responded to Manager Benita's appeal. Of this number only a few were on last year's squad, "Lucky" Bush, a southpaw who held the strong Penn Freshmen team to two hits; Martiney, a shortstop; Benita second baseman, and Donnelly, an out-fielder.

Star Battery

Among the new men were Benetti and McAlone, who established a great record last spring on an upstate school team. Benetti pitched and McAlone caught. This first practice will be held this afternoon on the college campus. This will be the scene of the workouts until a suitable athletic field is obtained.

Wrestling at Central

The annual interschool wrestling championships of the Central High School, which are conducted each year by Dr. Matthew O'Brien, will be held next week in the Central gym. Preliminary on Wednesday and finale on Friday.

In order to give every boy an equal opportunity to win a medal the classes have been divided into the following weight classes: 85-95, 95-105, 105-115, 115-125, 125-135, 135-145, 145-155. All over 155 will compete in the heavy weight class.

Life History of Terry McGovern

PART NINE Takes Final Count

TERRY met his Waterloo at Hartford, Conn., on Thursday, May 19, 1907. His battle with Young Corbett was fought in the open air before an immense crowd which was betting four and five to one on the champion. But the Denver pugilist knocked him out with a stiff punch to the jaw.

In the first round Terry tore in his usual style, but an uppercut sent him to the floor. He was on his feet before the final count. He was bleeding at the mouth, but by hanging on he managed to last the round. The second round was a tarry of oil for a while. He fought with as much strength and aggressiveness as he had in any other fight.

He had landed two punches to the jaw and several on the body and had Corbett hanging on the ropes when Charlie White, the referee, pulled him away. Terry, lacking his old quickness to fight himself, stood on his heels with chin high in the air. Also a flash Corbett swung his right to the jaw, and there was a new champion. On March 21 of the following year Corbett knocked out Terry in the eleventh round at San Francisco. Terry later met Corbett in a six-round bout in this city in 1908.

but he never had a chance, and, although he lasted the six rounds, it was Corbett's right.

In 1903 he defeated Joe Bernstein, Billy Maynard, Lew Ryall and Eddie Hanlon. A year later he knocked out

Tommy Murphy and lost a ten-round fight on points to Jimmy Britt. His last fight was against Spike Robson, and then Harris and Humphreys forced him to retire.

The End.
