LIVE PHOTOGRAPHS OF BIG NEWS HAPPENINGS, THE WAR AND PERSONS YOU READ ABOUT

HERE THEY COME, many thousands strong, fresh from their hazardous voyage through the submarine-infested Atlantic. See how proudly they step out, these Sammees, happy to leave shipboard for the virgin soil of France, which they have come to defend. Sea legs won't bother them again till the Germans shout, "Enough!"

YOU'LL BUY LIBERTY BONDS because these women want you to. That's reason enough, but just for good measure it might be added their cause is a great and a just one. When the photographer arrived at Liberty Loan campaign headquarters in the Lincoln Building Mrs. Joseph Snellenberg, chairman of the speakers' bureau, was in the act of turning over an important paper to Mrs. Walter Thomson, chairman of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee for Philadelphia.

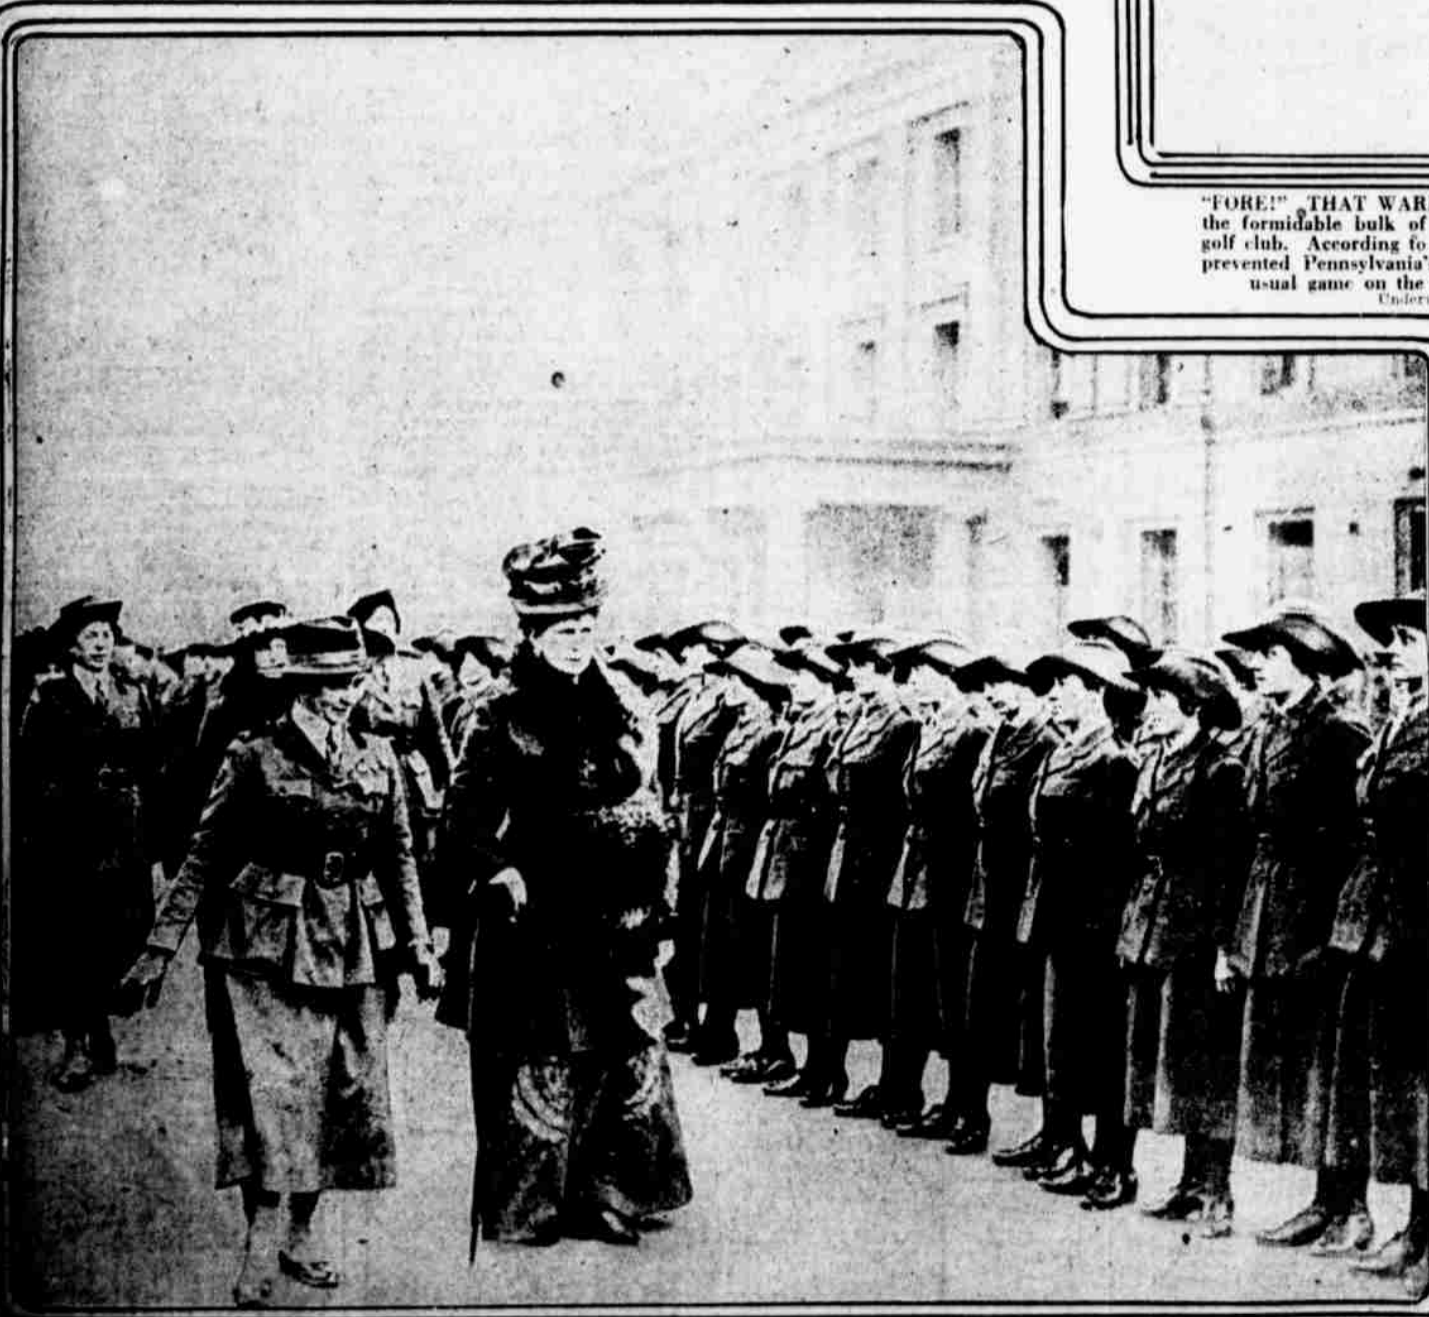

WARS MAY COME and wars may go, but the babies will be with us forever. And, by the way, their appearance in the public squares is the first incontestable sign of spring. The bench-warmers (note "His Leisureness" in the photograph) run them a close second. Some one left a newspaper on a bench, and then—oh, bliss for the news!

"FORE!" THAT WARNING had better be respected when the formidable bulk of Governor Brumbaugh is behind a golf club. According to all reports, political worries haven't prevented Pennsylvania's chief executive from playing his usual game on the links at Pinehurst, North Carolina.

HERE'S A NEW SUBJECT for a Millet. If the great Frenchman were alive today and his master eye were to fall upon this scene he perhaps would immortalize the courage and devotion of the peasant women, who carry their work of reclaiming the shell-torn soil to the barbed wire surrounding a French battery position itself. And what a target they would make for a Boche gunner!

HEADS UP, GIRLS! Here comes the Queen! And to judge by the snapshots of them, the King and Queen are the official "inspectors" of Great Britain. They are always inspecting something or other which has to do with the war. On this particular occasion Queen Mary is "inspecting" the Women's Reserve Ambulance Corps of forty officers, fifty noncoms and 500 privates.

MEN WHO GO DOWN TO THE SEA in ships are always in danger of waking up some fine morning to find themselves high and dry on the shore. That wasn't exactly the experience of the crew of the steamship Susquehanna, which went aground in a storm off Tom's River, New Jersey, but the fact remains that they paid an unexpected visit to the Jersey shore. At this writing attempts are being made to refloat the Susquehanna.
