

Evening Public Ledger

Philadelphia, Friday, March 15, 1918

A PAGE OF PHOTOGRAPHS PORTRAYING THE DAY'S NEWS OF PHILADELPHIA AND ELSEWHERE

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE to provide for a family like this? And these are just a few of the sons of Uncle Sam who have to be fed up three times a day to a degree that keeps Herbert Hoover constantly worrying about the nation's larder. Imagine, also, eating out of doors, under a clear sky, most of the days of the year, with fresh air and sunshine as appetizers! The above photograph was made just one minute after the first call for dinner at the Balboa Park Naval Training Station, San Diego, Cal.

Western Newspaper Union.

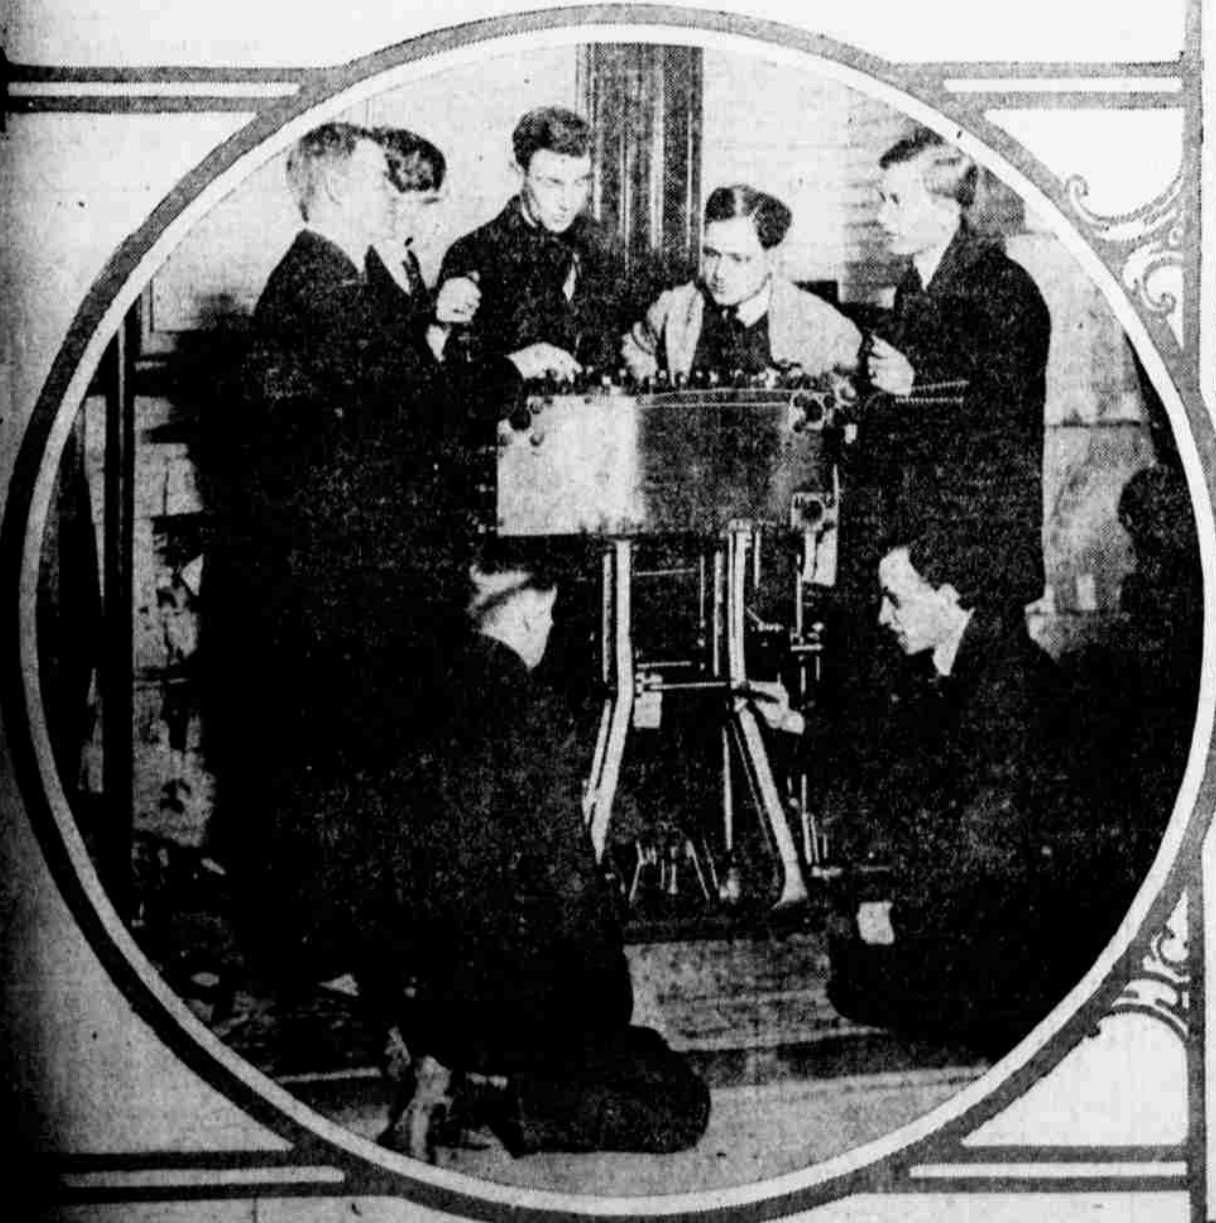

OVER THE TOP and a foot or so to spare. It takes agility and brawn to meet all the requirements of the Marine Corps, and the training field for recruits at the Mare Island Navy Yard looks quite like Franklin Field when the track season is in full swing. If jumping will get them anywhere, the lads in the photograph should be in Berlin during the first heat.

Western Newspaper Union.

AS A SHEER PARADISE for kiddies the international doll show at the studio of the Rosenbach Company, 1320 Walnut street, can scarcely be surpassed. There are dolls of every conceivable manner and description among the exhibit of more than five hundred specimens. Some of them have the most enviable history, and none can be classed as ordinary. By the way, the three dollies above are all Philadelphians—Quakers, to be exact.

JUST A FEW DAYS after this last living photograph of Vernon Castle was taken by a fellow-airman in Texas the much-talked-of dancer fell to his death in an airplane. On his shoulder was the pet monkey of which the dancer was so fond.

JUST IMAGINE YOURSELF sporting a shawl like this. If you were to order one made, it would cost you the neat sum of $1400—that is, if the price of the materials used for it have not gone up since yesterday. What is more, you would have to be content to wait a while for delivery, for it took six industrious women working ten hours a day six months to make the shawl shown above.