JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Maxine Elliott Entertained at Stotesbury Home. Nancy Wynne Discusses Drexel-Thompson Wedding; Romance That Remains and Income Taxes

MRS. STOTESBURY is going to give Maxime Eillott a tea this afternoon at 5 o'clock at her home, 1925 Walnut street. Mrs. Stotesbury just returned from Washington on Tuesday, where she'd been busy with the navy auxiliary, and went up to the opera that night. She was looking very handsome in a darkish gown and small diamond orgament in her hair. The Bagleys, from Washington, were in the box with her and Mr. Stotesbury, and Fannie Mitchell, too.

Miss Elliott has done quite a good deal for the war work and is interested in everything that has to do with our ultimate victory. Besides all this, she is certainly one of the prettlest women on the stage today and it will certainly be a treat to meet her.

S DIELIZABETH THOMPSON and John Direct have decided to be married on April 27. Fve been expecting the news for some time, for when their engagement was announced 'twas said that the wedding would probably take place in the spring.

John has been living in New York with his parents for some years, and though he has come back to Philadelphia for a number of his family's parties he is disfinctly a New Yorker. I have not seen him since he grew to full man's estate, but he was a good-looking youngster and an extremely nice one and from all the fine things I have heard about him, I have no reason to think that he has changed in any respect. In fact, I understand Elizabeth is about to marry a mighty fine fellow.

He was not passed for the army, some physical defect, I believe, which kept him from being a good soldier, so he entered heart and soul into Y. M. C. A. work and has done splendid things.

I am sorry to hear Mrs. Drexel, who is out in Canta Barbara, is too ill to come East for the wedding. I do not mean that she is dangerously ill, but she has had a severe sickness, and it is not judged wise for her to take the trip. She was Miss Alice Troth, of this city, you know, a sister of Miss Emily Troth, and of course Mr. Drexel is a brother of George W. Childs Drexel, of Anthony J. Drexel, now living in England, and of Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer.' So you see, Elizabeth and John will have many Philadelphia relatives besides the Brinton and Thompson side of their family. For Elizabeth's mother, Mrs. de Forest Grant, was Miss Emilia G, Brinton.

Mr. Thompson died about four years ago; in fact during Elizabeth's debutante year, and later Mrs. Thompson, she having married, Mr. de Forest Grant, and her son and daughter, drinton and Elizabeth. moved to New Yo is The acdding will take place at the Grant boine at 70 East Fifty-fourth street. I have not heard all about the attendants yet, but I'll tell you when I do.

You know there's going be that de-lightful Armenian entertainment this Atternoon at the Art Alliance, 1823 Walnut street. The Art Alliance and the Armenian committee of the Emergency Aid are giving the affair conjointly and the young violinist, Haig Gudenian, is to play and Lena Weber to sing.

I heard a whisper yesterday that there is to be a fine surprise at the tea. It would not do to breathe what, for it may rumor only. One thing, however, 1 am sure is not rumor, and that is the Oriental aweets that are to be served with Persian coffee and tea. I know they are to be there, and what is more they are to be good, for didn't I see some getting ready yesterday, when I heard the other delight ful rumor. At the tea a number of the girls of the Emergency Aid Aides will receive in their jaunty little costumes. Among them Gladys Fox, Sarah Dolan; Lisa Norris, Hatty Geyelin, Mrs. John B. Thayer 3d, Kitty Brinton, Gretchen Clay, Harriet Deaver, Rebecca Thomson, Hannah Wright, Margaret Dunlap and Olivia Gaz-her at the present time. Miss Richards is a granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral Joseph Lannin, United States mays. About forty guests have been invited, mostly the children from the naval set.

Mrs. I. Schute, wife of Lieutenant Schute, United States navy, with her children, has given up her home on South Lambert street and will leave shortly for Virginia, United S

Mrs. B. Frank Dubois, of 2508 South Cleveland forrace, entertained the members of the Red Cross bridge club on Tuesday afternoon at her home. This club is composed mostly of members of the naval set.

A surprise party was given on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Mary Tress, 1825 South Fifth street. The decorations of red and blue were attractive and appropriate for and blue were attractive and appropriate for the occasion. Among those present were Miss Cecilia Butter, Miss Katherine Neidelman, Miss Lenora Biron, Miss Bessle Sneta, Miss Rose Melnick, Miss Diana Smolen, Mr. Sam-uel Prince, Mr. William Prince, Mr. Jouis Tress, Miss Leah Meranze, Miss Molly Ken-dall, Mr. Nathaniel Kaplan and Mr. Edward L. THEY were h ving the best time. You I know, you hear that after the honeymoon is over and the prosaic everyday life begins a lot of the romance goes out of love. Well, "tell that to the marines," as the saying goes, for didn't I see a man you and I both know and his wife, whom you and I also know, at the theatre just night before last. And they have been married nearly four years and they had left at home to nurse's care the dearest round bundle of a little girl of two you ever have seen, and didn't he when the lights went down, thinking himself inobserved, lean over and put a lot of man into romance by kissing his wife right then and there. Even she was surprised, though she knows how much in love with her ... is.

So her fascination for him is strong as ever. As one other small wif, said to m recenty: "You got to keep them guessin'. The ten-day campaign of the Philadelphia School for Christian Workers to raise $150, 000 is gradually reaching its goal. At today's luncheon of the team captains, held in day's luncheon of the team captains, held in the Clover Room of the Believue-Stratford. $5683 had been added, making the grand total to date $30,768. The championship banner for the most collections, was awarded to Miss Agnes Allen, Captain of Team No. 10, who collected $1761 today. The campaigners were addressed by Robert V. Veach, D. D., former religious worker of Camp Dix, and who is now preparing to sail for France. In his talk he lauded the prin-cipie of their work, and the necessity for the ciple of their work, and the necessity for the assistance of deaconesses. "There is nothing more fascinating,' he said, "than the Bible if well understood, and

and, that he black if we understand, and I do not know of anything more essential in this war, than the work of this school."
