Barnes and the will succeed Jim Barnes at the White- club severed relations in a most friendly marsh Valley Country Club the first of spirit, April. Ever since Thomas H. Halton, chairman of the green committee, learned by telegram at Tampa, Fla., from Albert E. Berry, president of Whitemarsh, that the United States Golf Association has taken with reference to a number of bothersome problems, most of which of bothersome problems, most of which going to quit, the club has been on a still hunt for a successor. There were scores of applications sent in from projections and caddle masters, and after Mr. Halton and his associates had gone over the list carefully and seen most of the applicants Talman was selected. He was virtually the first professional Plymouth ever had, as his predecessor was a clubmaker and devoted fittle time to teaching. He came originally from Aronimink, where he was an assistant pro. He is in the draft age and is only twenty-four years old.

The has had very little tournament experience, but he is noted for being one of the longest driving professionals in this section of the country. He holds the course record of sixty-eight strokes at Plymouth. The members of the Norristown club speak of his teaching ability in the highest terms and he is also an expert clubmaker. He has been very popular with the club members, and while they regret to see him go they realize that he will have a greater opportunity at Whitemarsh.

Talman has developed a number of excellent goifers at Plymouth, but the most prominent of his pupils is Phil Corson, one of the very best of the younger goifers of this city.

Among the applicants for the job was one of the local professionals who has a national reputation, but his application was not considered seriously, as Whitemarsh did not feel that it would be right to deprive its neighbor club of his services. There were conferences with the chairman of the green committee of the other club and while he was willing that the pro should change berths Whitemarsh thought it best to turn down the application rather than have any adverse comment made.
