Education for Service Does a boy ever think of nocial service in choosing a vocation? Professor Moore, of Reed College, Portland, Oregon, sent a series of questions to eight hundred young men and older boys in nine cities in an effort to dis-cover the attitude of the younger gen-eration toward social problems. The learned that it had not pecurred to many young men that it was important to consider something beside making a living. They seemed to be unaware of the existence of social and comonic instances of them who were aware of the problems did not seem to think that they could assist in solving them. The order to remove the ignorance of these young men Professor Reed set out to prepare a book which should show what typical men in various trades and pro-fessions had done to improve the order to ditions about them. After some this toroductory chapters he tells briefly the story of the achievements of a physician, a teacher, lawyer, an engineer, prison warden, a rallroad president, and many men in many other occupations.

The men warden, a railroad president, and many men in many other occupations. The men whom he has selected as his examples are well known. Some of them are dead and some are still work. The book is the first of the kind that has been prepared. There have been many self-help books intended to

FOSTER ON AUCTION Author of "Pirate Bridge' THIS IS THE ONLY TEXT-BOOK GIVING ALL THE LATEST RULES AND CONVENTIONS.

The secret of success in modern Auction is to know EXACTLY what any hand is worth as a trick-winner. Mr. Foster explains an entirely original and remarkably simple system of translating any combinations of cards into the number of tricks they will win in play; as a bid, an assist, or a double; at any declaration, in any position at the table. The chapters on Assisting Bids will be a revelation to many who now consider themselves experts. Both theory and proof are allowed to emerge easily and naturally from 130 deals from actual play in important duplicate matches.
