

DAYLIGHT SAVING IS ON TONIGHT

State House Bell to Notify All to Push Clocks Ahead

LAW IN EFFECT AT 2 A. M. Nation - Wide Conservation Measure Becomes Operative Tomorrow Morning

New Law Saves Time, Food, Health, Work, Coal, Money

Among things the daylight-saving law is counted on to do are: Give millions of productive workers in the country several years more work by adding an hour to each one's day.

Philadelphia will begin the national daylight-saving plan tonight at 10 o'clock, when all clocks and watches will be pushed ahead one hour in accordance with Mayor Smith's proclamation suggested by the Executive Council.

The daylight saving regulation will remain in effect until the last Sunday in October. It is expected that the jump in the time will have so many advantages that it will be permanent.

The daylight saving regulation will increase the health of communities by increasing the amount of recreation during baseball, tennis and other day-light sports.

Business organizations of all kinds, the churches and other institutions will follow the order to the letter. Railroad officials say this will mean no difference in the train schedule.

As for the railroads, they are concerned, the only difference will be that trains actually in transit at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the official change of time takes place, will arrive an hour late at their destination.
