

Evening Public Ledger

Philadelphia, Thursday, April 11, 1918.

WARTIME ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN AT HOME AND ABROAD ILLUMINATE THE DAY'S PICTURE NEWS

SALUTE THE CHAMPION Liberty Bond salesgirl in the entire Girl Scouts organization, one Pauline Henkel, of New York, who, although only twelve years old, has been commissioned a colonel for her patriotic activities.
Kodak & Herbert

THE SHAD SEASON is with us again, as all lovers of that delectable fish need not be reminded. Still, it is necessary to note that the shad have now put in their appearance in our own Delaware, all of which accounts for this repairing of nets in the neighborhood of Gloucester City, N. J.

WAS SHERMAN REALLY RIGHT? In any event, it will be admitted that there is a brighter side to war, especially in the Bois de Boulogne, in Paris, where American soldiers are frequent and altogether welcome strollers.
International Film Service

MEET "MISS SMILES," so called by soldiers in France. Before her marriage to Captain T. H. Hutchinson, senior, Y. M. C. A. officer of the Canadian forces, whom she met abroad, "Miss Smiles" was a New York girl.
Photo from Paul Thomson

SECRETARY OF WAR BAKER'S duties were assumed by Benedict Crowell, his first assistant in the War Department. Mr. Crowell's chief assistant is the lady shown on the right, his wife, who has come to Washington with their two children.
Harris & Evans

HERE COMES THE NET, with its treasure of sparkling shad, which soon will be gracing the dinner tables of many Philadelphia homes. And with what regret one considers the possibility, that in a very few years, the days of shad fishing at Gloucester City may be ended, an outcome of ignorance of the laws of conservation and replenishment, which is exhausting the supply of the great food fish.

NOW THEY'RE DIGGING TRENCHES, those women, and we men scarcely know what to look for next. The Italian women are the first to go thus to work digging reserve trenches, rearward of the battleline in Italy, and to all appearances they seem to be making a good job of it.
Kodak & Herbert

HERE'S A THRILL for every Philadelphia fishing fan, who for weeks has been hearing the call of pond and stream. Fellow-fisherman, meet Brother (General) George W. Wingate, who is about to net one of the speckled beauties at Vail Pond, near the Wyandanch Gun Club, at Smithtown, L. I.
International Film Service

WITH AUTHORITY GRANTED by King Albert, Miss H. A. C. Van der Flier has come all the way from Holland to New York to raise funds for the Belgian orphans who are being cared for in her native land. This she is doing through a bazaar now being held in the Waldorf-Astoria.
Underwood & Underwood