SCHOOLMEN SEEK WAY TO ASSIST FARMERS

Suggestion That Students Be Released for Agricultural Work Is Discussed

Ways of releasing college and high school students from their studies this spring and next fall so that they will be able to engage in farm work without prejudicing their education occupied the attention of Pennsylvania's college and university heads at a special meeting at the University of Pennsylvania yesterday.

The meeting was presided over by George Leslie Ormaka, president of Ursinus. Virtually every institution of higher learning in the State was represented in the discussion, which, the delegates said, concerns the most vital topic facing colleges and high schools at present.

Students below the draft age are to be released for farm work something will have to be done to overcome the loss in schooling, the educators agreed. Various suggestions were made in this respect.

An arrangement that has been made between the Philadelphia high schools and the University of Pennsylvania, disclosed yesterday for the first time, seemed to meet with general approval. It was explained on behalf of the University by Dr. George G. Chambers, director of admissions.

Arrements Reached With High Schools. Doctor Chambers said the University of Pennsylvania had decided to accept the entrance requirements of all high school students who have done less than the required amount of scholastic work if the deficiency is due to their leaving their studies for farm work.

Doctor Frazer stated, by way of emphasizing the seriousness of the war situation, that eventually 10,000,000 men will be sent to France, Nathan C. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, promptly took issue with the statement, saying it was a wild exaggeration.

DEBATE ON SINGLE TAX

James F. Morton to Affirm Proposition Opposed by Johns Hopkins Man

One of the most perplexing problems of wartime is the choosing of the best method to be used in raising revenue. How far should our country depend upon the issuing of bonds and how far upon the raising of taxes? This is the question to be debated in the program of the University Extension Society this week by James F. Morton, Jr., field secretary of the New York State Tax League, and Jacob H. Hollander, of Johns Hopkins University.

Following is the complete weekly program: Monday, 8 o'clock, Witherspoon Hall—Debate on the Single Tax, The Just Method of Raising War Revenue. James F. Morton, Jr., and Jacob H. Hollander, debaters.

Wednesday, 4 o'clock, Witherspoon Hall—Louis Wilkinson, "The Message of Russia," "Gorky: The Tragedy of Blind Souls." Thursday, 8 o'clock, Witherspoon Hall—Frederic Poole, costume recital, "The Yellow Jacket" (presented through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Coburn).

Thursday, 8 o'clock, Association Hall, Germantown—Debate: The Bacon-Shakespeare Controversy. The Bacon-Shakespeare Society of the Bacon Society of America, and Louis Wilkinson, author and lecturer, debaters.

More Tschaikowsky. Sacha Jacobinoff Plays Violin Concerto With Philadelphia Orchestra in Academy. The third violinist to exploit the Tschaikowsky D major concerto here this season is Sacha Jacobinoff, soloist on the Philadelphia orchestra program given yesterday afternoon in the Academy of Music.

Contrasts. As we sat eating our picnic luncheon I heard a shrill cry, I slipped from my perch at the rustic table, and I saw little Tod doubled over. From his arm blood flowed.
