Clarence Mitchell, the Robins' pitcher, delights in feeling unsusperting charfeurs with his restitite initation in a tire blowout. While the team was in the South they had many occasions to motor to and from the hall parks, and ditchell always made it a point to sit in the rear of the automobile. When another ear would whize by the pitcher would whistle through his teeth and claphia hands sharply. I smally the passing driver, thinking he had punctured a tire, would bring his car to a full vian anget out and insucet his tires. Mitchell and the rest of the Robins would then enjoy a heavy lands.

are sound investments and can be demonstrated on all three scores from the actual experience of owners. The first 100 Pierce-Arrows in commercial use are all running today and have averaged over 75,000 miles. No Pierce-Arrow has ever worn out

FOR INSTANCE: The first Pierce-Arrow sold July 11, 1911 to Arbuckle Bros, was sold two years ago to Brainerd Bros, who operate it daily and say it is as good as new although it has run over 100,000 miles. Arbuckle Bros. bought five in 1917 and twenty-five since. They now operate 29. The greater speed of the Pierce-Arrow enables it to carry a larger aggregate load in a given time, make more trips than any other truck.

FOR INSTANCE:

The output of Gera Mills, near Passaic, N. J., is hauled daily to their showrooms in New York. A a-ton Pierce-Arrow makes 3 trips daily in 9 hours, hauling 15 tons each way. It replaced 3-ton trucks which required 2 hours longer for three trips, carrying 9 tons. It does 90% more work in the same time and effects a big saving.

Rarely can you find a Pierce-Arrow truck on the second hand market. Occasionally trucks bought for emergency work are sold when the operation is completed. Sometimes unusual conditions force a sale. When a Pierce-Arrow is offered it is instantly snapped up at a good price.
