30TH DAY OF BATTLE

Blocked in the center in his Flanders drive, Hindenburg continues to flail away at the northern and southern flanks of his wedge.

The only result of this pressure, however, is an enormously growing enemy casualty list, it is shown by Marshal Haig's official report. The communique indicates that the German assaults are being thrown back everywhere and that many of them are being broken up by artillery fire before they can get under way.

The French are assuming a more dominant part in the west front fighting. Not only have their reserves appeared in great force on the Flanders battlefield, but they are taking the initiative before
