Germans Were Close

Fortunately I had bid in seventy rown loaves, having heard that there might be a searcity; the coffee was so over the fire, ready for breakfast, o gave them each a mugful and a loaf, it was very sad to see those peor fellows limp and hobble out in a large body. The station was nearly a mile away, it was wet and dark and they were unfit to walk. Earlier in the evening one of our doctors came round and told us that doctors came round and told us that our party were leaving for England the following day, as the Germans were not far away. He told us that Ostend meant to make a big fight; the British navy would fire over the ity upon the besieging Germans, and was not safe for civilians to stay, ut we had thrown in our lot with the Belgians and meent to stick to acm, so we declined to leave. After the patients had departed we eplaced our mattreas and went to Suddenly we were rudely awakened by the door burating open and a tall Garde Civique should out

We have made a start on the long hard road to Victory.

Our men are fighting at the front in France.

Our American industries have accomplished prodigious results in building up a war machine to furnish munitions and supplies.

But we have only begun.

We must do more and more.

This is not a war of armies but of nations in which every citizen must do his part.

Every worker in our industries is truly fighting in this war. Every man, woman and child who gives of substance and savings is adding to the national power.

The foundation of all our vast war-making machine is the Liberty Loan.

Money is needed to build more and more ships; to furnish food and guns and powder and transport and airplanes; to raise and equip new armies.

We must oversubscribe this Third Liberty Loan and do it quickly.

We must show the courage that is in us.

We must show a cheerful willingness to make sacrifices for our boys in the trenches.
