My goodness, how these shells came down! Furnes had more than two lumdred shells in three-quarters of an hour between 4 and 5 p. m. on Christmas Day. Afterward the newspapers said there was an armistic and oulte Christian good feeling between said there was an armistice and outse Christian good feeling between the two armies on Christmas!

All the Munro party dined with us that night, We had a real old-fashioned Christmas dinner. All the staff had received luge hampers of great things, which were shared with the patients, who had a midday feast. We sait down to turkey goose, sucking-rig, Christmas puddings all affanc, mince ples and desceil. Boxes of crackers were piled up and the old priest went down in his ceilar and brought up some of his best wines. Soon every one was pulling crackers, trading idiote mottoes, arrayed in ridealous headdresses blowing in whistles and every kind of "musical" toy. In the midst of all this revelry the great gate-bell clanged and stretcher after stretcher strivelt doctors hastily sprang from the table, still wearing clown's paper cups, and the half-caten dinner by forgotien while the aftermath of the bombarding arrived in our the-aire. lombarding arrived in our theatre. So we passed from sunshine to gloom, gathering honey where we might and dropoing the cup raised halfway to the lips when duty called.
