> He Beateth It to Ye Club After Ye Game The curfew tolls the knell of parting day, The housewife fumes and casses hubby strong, For hubby's gone to view the baseball play And dinner's cold-the help how van along.

From out you concrete temple pours the croud, The ball park sexton sets the key and lack; The fan, surprised, ejaculates out loud: "Gosh ding it all, it's almost eight a'clack."

The thought of wife's reception looms in view, Presaging trouble to the luckless dub-He forthwith jumps into the old kerchoo And merrily doth beat it to the club.

A BARREL of ink has been spilled upon the subject of the passing of the American redskin. The sob stuff has been forthcoming both in poetry and prose and everybody has had a chance to lament the going of the original United States inhabitant. "Lo" may have been "poor," but he has baen a rich subject for the human interest chronielers.

Not only has the Indian been disappearing generally, but he has been going in baseball until the departure of Chief Bender painfully suggests the fact that for the first time in many, many years there will not be a big league Indian playing as a fegular. The Indian used to be the big fad in baseball. This was some time before the Cuban became a diamond novelty. Big league teams used to hotly bid for the red men who had done big things at Carlisle or on some bush league outfit.

The best known big league Indian players of modern times were Big hief Meyers and Big Chief Bender. Meyers came from Dartmouth College o the Giants after a period of working up with Harrisburg, Lancaster, Butte and St. Paul. He was McGraw's leading backstop for seven straight ars, beginning in 1909, and the last two seasons was on the staff of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Now he has passed out of the big ring and has been offered an uncertain berth with his old friend and battery mate. George Wiltse, who is booked to manage the new International League team at Buffalo. Meyers came from California and now is in his thirty-sixth year.

Chief Bender spent his entire professional diamond career with the two big league teams of this city with the exception of one fitful session in the Federal League with Baltimore. He came to Connie Mack straight from Carlisle in 1903 and went inclue consecutive sensons. He wound up with a sensational come-back with the Phillies last year and has refired to make munitions, having refused to sign the contract tendered him this year. Sender came from a Minnesota reservation and is the same age as Meyers. The present situation leaves only two Indians players in the big leagues. and neither of these is a regular. One of these is Jim Thorpe, who is hanging around the Giant camp to pinch for the outfield role, and the other is Ben Tincup, who has a slender tonure as yet upon a utility pitching berth with the Phils.

 $\mathbf{T}^{\text{HE}}_{\text{who made a flashy splash as a member of the Cleveland outfield}$ many years ago. He soon blew up from constitutional Indian weakness and passed entirely from the scene.

This Schaefer Is One Irrepressible Bird

ANY bug who thinks he is familiar with big league line-ups will please A take a squint at this list of players and guess which team they reprewrat; Williams, first base; Schaefer, second base; Halt, shortstop; Ouslow tand Wood, left field. The correct answer is Cleveland, these names appearmu in the line-up of Thursday's game at Detroit, in which the Indiana soundly trounced the home squad.

The main feature of the pastime was the playing of these substitutes. every one of whom doing something to bring through a decisive victory. Kid Schaefer at second was all over the lot, grabbing grounders and making hallelujah throws, this juvenile phenom being none other than the erstwhile Germany, now disporting the war title of "Duke" instead of the opprob-tous Teutonic cognomen. Duke looked after six swell chances without a bobble and was so all-fired kittenish that he stole a base.

Halt, subbing at short for Ray Chapman, accepted four chances with-

The Cleveland team at present is on a war basis sure enough. Uncle am's toll from that club was big enough, but since the season started it as required a young hospital to take care of crippled soldiers. Sleep Helps Hitters, States Sam Crawford

OLD SAM CRAWFORD of the mighty wallop, whose grudge against the fences has been of long standing in big league circles and who now is usting the pill for Los Angeles, in the Coast League, prescribes repose as all who would hit the ball. The old player imparted recently to a Salt take interviewer his personal views in the matter of hit-promoting in the following:

"You ask to what I attribute my ability as a hitter. Condition, I think, tore than anything else. Of course, I have always believed that a batter s born and not made. A natural hitter will undoubtedly become a better batter with coaching, but he must have some ability first.

"If a man keeps in good physical condition his eye is bound to be clear. To attain condition I, before everything else, advocate sleep. Early to bed and early to rise is one of the greatest and most useful of all proverbs in my estimation. Even if one does not feel sleepy it is a good thing to go to red early and rest. While stretched out on a bed all of the muscles are relaxed. They are given a chance to rebuild the strength which has to ie used during the day."

It Sometimes Happens That Way in Baseball

THE following original and sage utterances are from the scintillant quill - of one James P. Sinnott, under the general head, "You will notice that"-

First. When a ball player makes a great play in the field, retiring the third man in an inning, eight out of ten times he is the first man up when his side comes to bat.

Second. An infielder makes most of his wild throws when he has a lot of time and hells the ball before letting it go.

Third. Outfielders drop two high files that are right in their hands to one hard drive that they will mlas.

Fourth An umpire invariably calls a man out who slides to first base m an infield hit.

To which might be added:

Pifth. When a player is stalling he passes the buck to the umpire, pridtle or the spitball.

sixth. The best player on an opposing team always is a discard of the other outfit.

Seventh. The original baseball bromide-a strikeout after a testimonial ersenhoe or baby burgy.

Giants Not to Be Fast on Their Feet

PUBLICE is a feeling of doubt as to one feature of Glant play this season, mit it relates to speed. James P. Marsans doubtless figured like Zaek Wheat and Dick Rudolph—that the club had to have him. But the performances up to date of Elmer Miller, a late-ma-turing exotic in the Yankee garden, may give this person the call. Miller so far, has been one of the most aggressive and effective members of the Vanke' wrate. effective members of the Yanks' wreck-ing crew. Formerly he had the good-in fielding in large gobs, but was painher of the Memphis team with Muddy Ruel. Vick already is there with every-thing but experience and also twice when in fielding in large good, but was pairs thing but experience and also twice on a fully shy with the billet. In the first ten games of the season Miller has hit safely in all but two. He is smaximal through grand. It would not be surprissafely in all but two. He is smashing well over .300, and folks who are bui-ning at this mark are not being re-noved these days for recovering clip-les, especially if they have been dilly-dailying with the management. He swaating in addition has been hard and clean.
