ZACH IS BACK IN THE FOLD; NO MORE WHEATLESS DAYS FOR THE BROOKLYN DODGERS

MAJOR MOGULS DECIDE TO ATTEMPT TO KNIFE NEW INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Plan to Play Scheduled Games on Sunday at Harrison Park, N. J., Flagrant Violation of Recognized Territorial Rights of Minor Organization

FIGHE fine Italian hand of Ban Johnson and his fellows of the National Commission has drawn the peniard preparatory to a trial state at the new International League. They bave set next Sunday as the date for the first of a proposed series of scheduled major league games at Harrison Park, N. J. On the coming Subbath the Phillies and Brooklyn will dead what may prove to be the deathblow to the game's new baseball organization, fathered by John H. Farrell. On the following Sunday the Yankers meet the Red Sox.

If the game is a joyceous, which is not provable, for the reason that it must be supported by fans of Newark, the International League will be deprived of its chief source of recenve. Sunday Itell. It may continue to run along and lose money or, with its back by the soull it may turn on the Organized Octopus and as an outlaw league fight to a fields. On the other hand, if the game does not prove a success Farrell and his contrades, who have made an honest effort to develop a league for the patrons of the game, may be allowed to proceed without nucleatation from the magnitude

Once upon a time it was suggested that the International Leader por a class in the Bronx. This move was bitterly empowed by the major league clubs in New York, who used the argument that the lesser league would be Infringing on their territorial rights. Thus was a fair and logical argument plan was abandoned. But now the roon has fallen on the other safe The National Commission has decided that in order to get back some of the $10,000 a year which it has to pay for Harrison bank a will stude a few contests over on the Jersey side regardless of the territorial and other rights of the International League.

THE major leagues are doing this and may get away with it for the more reason that they wield the power in organized looses ball. King Ban can do no wrong, hence it is a great thing from the viewpoint of those who benefit.

What the Invasion May Bring on Baseball

BUT in the final analysis will the invasion of International League Deep tory be a henefit to the majore? For example, suppose the smaller league should have to took up the sponge or operate as an outlast league It would seem that in view of the fact that the majors depend upon the minors for the development of their players, they would be threwing more away with one hand while taking it in with the other; provided, of comes they were taking any in.

The minor_leagues have dwindled from about 200 last year to fewer than twenty today. This means that the field for selection baseball talent has been reduced out of all proportion to the average useds of the major league clubs. In the event that the way continues for several years and at least no more smaller leagues spring up, the majors will be majors in name only. They will not be of what is commonly known as major league

When this is taken into consideration it appears that it is a west and short-sighted policy on the part of the impler league solens to attempt to so anything that would stifle with promises to be an successful in organization as the new international League.

Fans in New York appear to be a hit disgusted with the work of Ping Bodie. Ping has by no means played up to his advance notices, and unless there is rapid improvement he may be given time to get into better playing shape by resting while the afternoon games are being played. Like many others in the majors today, Ping very likely would not be any closer to them than reading the box scores if the Kniser had not started this war.

Local Schools Will Not Compete in Penn Scholastics

FOR the first time in many years the hig three in local scholostic track and field sports. Central High, West Philadelphia High and Northways High-will not be represented by full squade or even teams to the abound Middle Atlantic States interscholastic champanable frack and field most which will be held this Saturday at Franklin Field.

There are several reasons for the withdrawal of the lawal high schools from the annual Penn scholastic carrival. In the first place, through a misunderstanding the field and Blue authorities scheduled their meet for the same day that Swarthmore stages its annual games for the achoologies. The Garnet institution always has held its meet on the first Saturday in May and the schoolboy managers have this date reserved year after year and a nectically could receive by the area limit of the of the schools which compete in the Penn meet. Most of the leading proschools in the East haven't an age limit, while only those who are under nineteen years of age are eligible to represent a local high school. This advantage of several years' experience and growth natally has been too great a handicap for the Philadelphia schools to overcome. . . .

IN AN effort to obtain the entries of the local schools, the Penn interscholastic management has advanced the starting time of the meet from 1:30 to 10 a, m. This, however, won't help very much, for no schoolboy is capable of competing in two meets on the same days

Throckmorton Championship Possibility

ALTHOUGH he is only twenty years old, there are a number of lawn tennis experts throughout the country who believe that Harold A. Throckmorton, the slender New Jersey youth who plays with all the slambang of a const crack, will be the next national champion. Of course, the war is responsible for Throckmorton even being in the running. Still, for a youth of his tender years he has shown remarkable ability to improve his game, and when the big event is pulled off on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, Long Island, Throckmorton will be heard

Last fall Throckmurson played a number of matches in Philadelphia, He was a member of the traveling fled Cross benefit galaxy of stars who toured the country giving exhibition matches. This was the same troupe with which Molla Blurstedt, Mary Browne, Frederick A. Alexander, Strachen and Howard Voshell, the Brooklyn Jeft-hander, played.

During those matches and on the trips taken by the players Throckmorton was given a great deal of excellent instruction by Alexander. whose playing, by the way, was one of the features of the matches. Throckporton is a youth who has not completely formed all tennis habits. Conesquently be is in a position to rectify any fundamental errors with which he may have begun his career on the courts. --

Zach Wheat Won't Help Phils Much

THERE is no denying that the return of Zach Wheat to the runks of the Brooklyn chib from the Holdout League will be of lasting benefit to the Didgers, the trailing aroutus of the National League. But his presence is set going to help the Phillies appreciably in the present series. Our wellmown Moranites have been going none too well as it is, and meeting the looklyns, who are all buoyed up by winning a hall game now and then plus the presence of Wheat, they are facing a short but hard row.

While it may take Zach a few days to get back into the swing of the no. It is certain that his mere presence is going to help the hitherto Trolley Evaders wonderfully. Robby has not been any stronger in outfield recently than the law allows. A little more punch on the we which Wheat will undoubtedly give, and a trifle more steadiness on steletise are sure to give Brooklyn a number of victories where it would erwise have gone down to more or less ignominious defeat.

The fact that Zach has given up pig-raising to play baseball indicates despite his assertion that he would never play again, he will be there variety of ways to aid his old comrades in their effort to make the and safe for the metropolitan district.

Myers has been hitting well and fielding better in the garden, hence e thely that Rubby will bring him in to bolster up the infield, which is not ed the best in the league by several jumps. All of which goes to that Zach's presence in the Brooklyn line-up will be of double assist to Hobinson, in that he not only strengthens an outfield position, but the infield as well, by liberating Myers from chasing duty.

. . . HIS reminds us that John Colby Coombs is still in the vigor of me pitchinghood. While it takes the Kennehunk citizen longer et is condition now than it formerly did, when the warm gine it is a moral certainty that John will come through to elements to warrant his being considered one of the of the pitching, tall. And all because John pitches with the n ne dies with ide sent.
