IRISH SITUATION BELIEVED BETTER

London Awaits Result of Lord French's Appointment as Ruler

Special Cable to Evening Public Ledger Copyright, 1918, by the New York Times Co. London, May 7. New phases of the Irish situation are arousing considerable interest, and Peasants Withhold Grain on the whole are believed to be making for betterment. The selection of Lord French for the Lord Lieutenancy was a surprise. and London is anxiously awaiting news on how Ireland will take it. Its SITUATION PERPLEXING military flavor is offset by the appointtary, the latter having voted against the application of conscription until home rule had been extended to Ireland.

The purely political developments of the situation are particularly interesting. Irish newspapers and one English paper, the Manchester Guardian, today printed a letter from Sir Horace Plunkett which is, broadly, a summons to the British Government to abandon its "twofold Irish policy of conscription and home rule." They cannot achieve both, says Plunkett, who proceeds to say:

"There is one and only one alternative to the disastrous policy upon which the cabinet has embarked, and that is to set up at once a responsible Government in Ireland. The report of the Irish convention has shown that it could do this with the support of a large body of Irish Nationalist and Unionist opinion.

"They should pass through Parliament without delay the necessary legislation as a war measure. The moment the bill is passed an Irish executive, broadly representative and composed of responsible men who would not shirk the burden of their brief authority, should be appointed and should have the task of setting up a Parliament as quickly as possible, of promoting voluntary recruiting and generally of carrying on.

"The Irish people, given their own instrument of government, would quickly show the world what is their real attitude to this war. It may then dawn upon Englishmen that we have

by an atmosphere of suspicion. It has been publicly stated in the press that of the peasant proprietors, who form the new measure will satisfy neither the bulk of the population of the bulk of the population of the bulk of the population of the Lish Nationalists nor the English Liberaria. One of the most striking incidents in the career of the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland occurred in March, 1914, when he was chief of the Leiperial General Staff. There had been in trouble in Ulster, and troops at the Curragh camp had been ordered to Belfast.

A great number of officers resigned, and General Paget, who was in command of the division stationed at Curragh, urged on the Government that officers who had family connections in Ulster should not be sent there with their regiments. The officers who resigned were ordered to rejoin their regiments, and General Gough, who had been involved in the affair, was reinstated without any condition except that a would do his duty as an officer.

General Paget came to London, and sollowing his wisit, a pledge was given as in officers, which General ranch, as chief of the Imperial staff, that he could not support, and there. Special Cable to Evening Public Ledger

Amsterdam, May 7.—It would appear from an account of events leading up to the assumption of power by General Skoropauski as hetman that the government instituted in the Ukraine in succession to the Rada Government is a virtual dictatorship by this descendant of an old hetman of the Cossack republic. "The entire comedy was staged on April 29 at Kiev, in the congress of Ukrainian peasants, who expressed their desire for a dictatorship. At this moment Skoropauski, attired in a Circassian uniform entered a box in the hall, amid great enthusiasm. The general then walked to the stage, where, bowing his acknowledgment of the loud applause, he proclaimed himself hetman of the Ukraine in these words:

"Only a strong government can help us. I shall rely upon your oath."

Coincidentally with Plunkett's letter there is published another from Harold Spender, a well-known Liberal journalist, who asks:

To bring the discussion from the ab-stract to the concrete it is thought here that the Germans have been surprised at the Allies getting together and stay-ing together on the question of Foch's command.
