Heavy Daily Roll Includes 39 New England Soldiers Missing

THREE KILLED IN ACTION

Washington, May 15.—Today's casualty list is one of the heaviest yet reported by General Pershing, containing a total of 120 names. Thirty-nine of the men are New England soldiers missing in action. For the fourth day the heaviest "Missing in Action" was one of the heaviest, thirty-nine being reported today, and making a total of 148 for four days.

The other casualties are three killed in action, three deaths from wounds, five from disease, one from accident, seven from other causes, six wounded severely and forty-eight wounded slightly and eight wounded in action.

The separate list of eight "wounded in action," as apart from the other wounded, it was explained, was due to the fact that no information has been received as to the severity of the wounds of these eight.

When this information has been received the men will be properly classified, it was stated.

GERMANS HOPE TO REACH COAST AND END FIGHTING THIS SUMMER

Special Cable to Evening Public Ledger Copyright, 1918, by New York Times Co.

Copenhagen, May 15.—The Berlin correspondent of the Politiken states that a prominent German politician in an interview said the offensive on the western front had not turned out as expected. Too many lives had been lost, and Hindenburg's train was stopped, but he still believed the German army would succeed in making its way to the north coast.

From there the German cannon would be able to blockade the channel and reach the south coast of England. This probably would make it easier to bring about an armistice and peace negotiations in which Germany would not aim at conquests. Then the war would be over.

The politician then stated that Germany did not want anything but the return of her colonies and supremacy in Madagascar. He meant that an armistice would take place this summer.

GENERAL MAURICE MAKES HIS REPLY TO PREMIER DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

After the short personal explanation which follows I do not intend to reopen the question unless and until I am asked authoritatively to do so. Obviously a newspaper controversy as to the correctness of facts stated in my letter of May 6, which I was and am prepared to substantiate before a tribunal appointed by Parliament, is inadvisable as proof depends upon the production of confidential information. I feel, however, that I owe my readers a word of explanation on two comments which the Prime Minister made on my conduct, and these I can answer without disclosing secrets.

The first is as to my presence at Versailles at the session in which the question of taking over the line was discussed. I accompanied the British representatives to Versailles, and I was present at the first meeting of this session of the supreme council. During the meetings held after the first I was in a corridor outside the council chamber, and in the intervals between the meetings was engaged on work in connection with questions under examination. I hold, therefore, that my statement that I was at Versailles at the time is just.

1871 INDEMNITY GOLD USED TO AID SINN FEIN

London, May 14.—The Evening Standard tonight devotes three columns of its editorial page to a significant matter, it says:

"The mystery dinner," which was attended by "rejected officers" and others, previous to the last attack on the Premier, "is the talk of the town." It then sketches briefly the history of the Bonnet Rouge affair, adding: "In England exactly the same kind of propaganda has been carried on." It refers to organizers of "alien origin" and asks, "Why have they not been very much occupied with their duties, and was part of the time in France. I had no leisure to do more than glance at the Prime Minister's speech, and did not refer to it in my statement on the subject in Palestine, but that did not seem to me by itself to warrant my calling attention to it at a time when every one was very much occupied with other matters."

I left the war office on April 20, on leave, and then for the first time read the full report of the speech. While I was on leave I heard of Bonar Law's answer to the question in the House on April 23. I returned to London on April 29 by arrangement to make my official farewell at the War Office, and afterward saw the "Hansard" report for April 23. It was then, on April 29, that I formed a definite opinion that Bonar Law's replies and those statements of the Prime Minister which I have questioned, taken together, put upon the soldiers a responsibility which in my judgment should be borne by the ministers, and it appeared to me a matter of urgency to correct that impression as far as I could, and in my speech, in his speech of May 3 (Hansard, Vol. 195, p. 2, 348, line 13 et seq.).

AMERICAN PLANE FALLS IN FRANCE; TWO MEN KILLED

Accident Happens While Making Observations—Fired Upon by Germans

With the American Army in France, May 15.

An American observation plane late today fell through the clouds to earth a mile inside the American lines in the sector northwest of Toul, killing a pilot and the observer.

How the plane happened to fall is a mystery. While making observations it was fired upon by German "archies," but ascended in back of a large fleecy cloud. A few minutes later ground observers saw the plane suddenly tumbling through the air.

Quiet prevailed on all the fronts today occupied by Americans. There was very little artillery and aerial activity. Infantry action was confined to the usual patrol work and failed to develop any contact with the enemy.

MAURICE STATEMENT RENEWS EXCITEMENT

Special Cable to Evening Public Ledger Copyright, 1918, by New York Times Co.

London, May 15.—The Daily Chronicle circulated General Maurice's statement to the whole English press, irrespective of party affiliations. This fact created no little excitement in journalistic circles.

The Chronicle has been a supporter of the Lloyd George government during periods when his tenure of power has been so much the balance of the sheet or two might have turned the scale.

The circulation turned on the point whether the Chronicle had engaged Maurice's services simply because of his qualifications for military correspondence, or whether his engagement indicated that the Chronicle in some measure approved his side in the controversy with the Prime Minister.

On this question, which may very well be critical for the Lloyd George government, it is of interest to note the Chronicle's leading article. In part it reads:

"Lloyd George laid stress on Maurice not having been present in the Versailles council chamber when the question of extending the British line was discussed. General Maurice had never claimed that he was, but he now makes it plain that he was in the very closest touch with the council's sittings.

"The fact that the Prime Minister's complaint that General Maurice deferred his criticism so long, and then counsel chamber in the newspaper, which General Maurice was actually present and heard the speech of April 9.

"This, it will be seen, General Maurice

SENATORS WILL GET FACTS OF DIPLOMACY

New Entente Cordiale Established Between Lansing and Hitchcock's Committee

Washington, May 15.—Secretary of State Lansing and the Senate are getting together on the nation's foreign affairs.

Following out a policy of letting the Senate in on the confidential war facts, the Administration has agreed to a plan of Lansing-Senate Foreign Committee conferences at regular intervals. Senator Hitchcock, new chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, made arrangements for this innovation.

Secretary Lansing has met the committee in a spirit of hearty co-operation, members said, and has dealt frankly with matters which heretofore the Senate sought to know, but frequently without success.

While Chairman Hitchcock's relations with the White House have not always been the most cordial, he took the necessary steps to produce a warmer feeling when he conferred with the President yesterday in connection with his formal presentation as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, vice the late Senator Stone.

The Allied-American draft treaties furnished an opportunity for asking Lansing to appear before the committee, and from that starting point other important problems such as Mexico, Turkey and Bulgaria could be considered. Senators say it is vital that they have a close official and personal touch with the State Department, particularly as the Senate acts on foreign treaties. This will be especially true in forthcoming problems of cementing trade and international relations between the United States and the South and Central American nations.

HALF-HEARTED IN WAR AID FOE, SAYS BISHOP

Those Who Would Weaken Opposition to Germany Share Guilt of Murder, Kinsman Declares

Wilmington, Del., May 15.—"Anyone, no matter what his motives, who weakens opposition to the Hun shares the guilt of the murder, rape and robbery which the Hun, if unchecked, would bring on all the world," Bishop F. J. Kinsman opened the diocesan convention of the Episcopal Church in Delaware at Smyrna today.

"If the world is to be fit to live in this menial must be removed forever. If we are fit to live we must do our best to remove it," the bishop said. "As we value peace, freedom, righteousness, religion, we must fight the Germans. They have brought on this war because they are determined that the world shall be war-ridden. We are not to be a curse and are determined that the world shall be rid of it forever.

"We must defeat the Germans that war lords shall not have their way while there are free peoples to fight them."

This amendment is designed to offset the embargo placed by the War Department against parcel post packages to the soldiers abroad.

TRASPONGO AUSTRIACO AFFONDATA DA UNA SQUADRIGLIA DI TORPEDINIERE ITALIANE

VANI TENTATIVI NEMICI

Roma, 15 maggio.

Il Ministero della Marina annuncia che, durante la notte di domenica una squadra di torpediniere italiane hanno distrutto un trasporto nemico nel Mare Adriatico vicino Penarda del Porto di Durazzo.

Il trasporto era scortato da torpediniere, ma gli austriaci non riuscirono ad opporre una efficace difesa e le navi italiane tornarono alla loro base senza subire perdite né danni.

Dalle notizie giunte dalla fronte di battaglia, confermate dal comunicato in base al rapporto del Quartier Generale Italiano, si rileva che gli austro-ungheresi hanno un tentativo di riconquistare le perdute posizioni di Monte Corone. I sommergibili italiani sono stati operati contro il detto monte e contro le linee italiane a Dossò Casina e nelle Valli Balcone ed Ornic, ma il nemico fu prevenuto ed arrestato dal violento fuoco dei cannoni e delle mitragliatrici italiane.

Riparti d'invasione italiani ed englesi, operanti nel settore di Asago, si spinsero fin nel villaggio di Pedescala e nelle trincee nemiche. Fronte ad Ave, causando agli austro-ungheresi perdite considerevoli.

Violenti duelli di artiglieria si verificarono lungo le posizioni nella regione del Tonale, nella Valle Lagarina, sul Monte Asolone e nell'area a nord di Montello.

Gli aviatori italiani spiegarono una grande attività e durante gli scontri aerei che si verificarono in conseguenza delle loro ripetute incursioni sulle linee nemiche, abbatterono ben undici aeroplani austriaci, con apparecchi ed equipaggiamenti di ricambio costruiti dal nemico nelle vicinanze di Asago.

Ecco il testo del comunicato ufficiale pubblicato, ieri, dal Ministero della Guerra in Roma:

Tentativi nemici per rinnovare gli attacchi contro Monte Corone per raggiungere le nostre linee a Dossò Casina e nelle Valli Balcone ed Ornic, fallirono completamente.

Pattuglie italiane ed inglesi effettuarono una incursione nel villaggio di Pedescala e nelle trincee di fronte ad Ave, infliggendo gravi perdite al nemico.

Vivaci duelli di artiglieria si verificarono nella regione del Tonale nella Valle Lagarina, sul Monte Asolone e a nord di Montello.

Undici aeroplani nemici furono abbattuti.

Guardians of the Nation

Danger and disaster make us realize how efficient is the telephone operator. Always her post to protect life and property, there are countless instances of her steadfastness in emergency.

But it takes day-by-day devotion to the nary task to make the heroine in time of stress.

In peace or war 100,000 Bell Telephone operators "man" the country's switchboards, rendering a faithful and honorable service to more than 12,000 specially trained operators meeting the Government needs today.

Surely the telephone operator is worthy of deep consideration, for upon her success or failure depends our success in the struggle.
