It's really going to be quite marvelous this evening. I understand that no expense has been spared to make it a splendid success. The selection is Percy Mackaye's poetic drama, "Jeanne d'Arc."

It is to be given on the new achord grounds at Rydal, with the woods as a background, and more than seventy-five pupils will take part in the coronation scene alone, when King Charles, Jeanne d'Arc and all the King's followers will be mounted on horseback for the pageant. The banners used will be exact reproductions of the shields of the old towns of Effective music has been especially written for this play by the American commer, Frederick Converse, while the eld French ballada are an attractive feature as well as the pensant dance. The cast is composed of King Charles of France, Harriet Lowther, Jean de Metz, Jeanne's escort to the King, Fift Widener, Due d'Alencon, Aline Weigh; Sion: La Tremouille, Caraline Coffin, Katherine de la Ecchelle, Lorna Mallinson: "Gerard, a wounded soldier Thelma Slean, Jacques d'Arc, father of Jeanne, Charlotte Fray: Pierre d'Arc. her brother, Pauline Carr, Jeanne d'Arc. Martha Dibert.

The committee in charge of the enter tainment is composed of Mrs. George Elkins, Mrs. John Gilbert, Mrs. Robert Sewell and Mrz. George Horace Lorimer.

The entertainment is given as a fore runner, as it were, of the big Abincton Hospital fete, which will be held on the Huntingdon Valley Country Club grounds June 5, and the proceeds will be added tecther moneys, received at the fete, all going to gether to build an isolation ward for the nospital.

The hospital, by the way, fully equipped and furnished with a full retigue of nursea and dwiters, has been accepted by the tiny ernment and will be used for wounded menreturning from the frost.

WE HAD a very interesting time that afternoon at the Independence Square Red Cross nuxiliary, when Sergeant A. H. Baldeck, of the Princess Pat Begiment. spoke to the workers. I had not heard him, but he certainly was splendid.

SPEAKING of the Independence Square Red Cross, dol you know that Mrs. William G. Enepowd in going to give a garden party on her beautiful country place in Cynwyd, on the afternoon of June 4. for the benefit of the canteen work of the auxiliary? Well, she is, and has all sorts of wonderful plans going for it. I have not heard very much of it as yet, but I understand there are to be steat stunts at sunset. Mos. Sheppard is in charge of the auxiliary canteen fork, you know,

STRAWBERRY reason again. But this year we have to eat them without powdered sugar; indeed, we feel pather fortunate if we have any augur. Perhaps it's just as well for one family that I know of in a certain nearby suburb, for this is what happened to them one time: They are a large family, and little youngest has to run a good many errands. For instance "Oh, Marian, run up to my room and get my pine." "My room" being only up to the third floor, and so on. So, one year, in the good old dava when we had sugar and wheat and all those things, the exit of the maids was simultaneous with the entrance of strawberry season, and Marian had a big time waiting on the table and bringing things from the kitchen. of course, somebody forgot to fill the sugar bow; before dinner, and little sister was again called upon to go get some powdered sugar "in that glass jar on the second shelf in the dresser." The second shelf was too high for her to reach without getting on a chair, and, anyhow, there was a glass jar filled with powdered stuff on the first shelf; so she got that down, filled the howl and carried it carefully back to the table. The strawberries were big and wonderful-looking, but, somehow, hey didn't taste right. They weren't sweet enough, or something. "Sweet enough!" Mother had a suden "hunch." Hurrying into the kitchen she verificit it. "My heavena! the child got the wrong jur and has wasted a half pound of perfectly good cream of tartar!" NANCY WYNNE.
