WIDOWS SUFFER BY RENT BOOSTS

Mothers of Soldiers Complain They Are Profiteers' Victims

MUST PAY OR GET OUT

Mrs. Catherine Langman, of 2027 South Rosewood street, is a widow. She has a son fighting in France with General Pershing's army.

The landlord who owns her home has boosted her rent. Mrs. Langman was ordered to pay the increased rent within thirty days or get out.

Another widow, Mrs. Bradet Elliott, of 5048 Edgewood street, files a service flag. Her son is at Camp Greene preparing to go "over there" to help General Pershing.

Mrs. Maggie Millet, who lives in Leiperville, is a widow with two sons, one a soldier. She takes in boarders, two of whom work in the shipyards at Chester.

These instances of alleged profiteering are among several hundred received by the West Philadelphia Citizens' Committee for Housing, which has been investigating rent-raising in various parts of the city.

Only a Few of Many. The committee met yesterday to hear complaints and map out a program to prevent "rent gouging."

The committee decided to await the first eviction for nonpayment of the increased rents and then it plans to make a test case in the courts.

Mr. Bernheiser exhibited stacks of letters he had received from various parts of the city.

"Here," he said, "are our proofs to show that the Philadelphia Realty Board's report that there is no profiteering was only a whitewash."

Mr. Bernheiser further declared that the first instance of eviction that came to his attention, where it is shown that profiteering was behind it, would be made a test case.

The board stated it would be pleased to have a committee from the real estate board or the Chamber of Commerce call upon it, and it would prove that the claims of rampant profiteering in West Philadelphia were founded on facts.

SOUGHT FOR ROBBERY CHURCH

Thief Preys on Work for Red Cross in Germantown

The Red Cross claims to know the "meanest man in the world." They have asked the police to stop the robbery of Germantown churches.

Mr. Bernheiser further declared that the first instance of eviction that came to his attention, where it is shown that profiteering was behind it, would be made a test case.

He has visited four churches recently, and in one was greeted by the shrieks of frightened women.

He held for court after shortage of $184 is discovered.

Raymond C. Davis, Red cross clerk for the American Express Company, of 1127 Chestnut street, was held in $400 bail for court on a charge of embezzlement.

MOTHERS OF SOLDIERS. Mortimer Park Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heron L. Crane, of Upal and Greene streets, Germantown, who fell to his death while flying at an aviation training camp in England.

UNFURL HONOR FLAGS

Emblems of 612 Men in Service

Service flags have been unfurled at three additional Catholic churches in the city in honor of 612 men who are in the service.

The celebrations were held at the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Twenty-fourth and Spruce streets; St. Dominic's Church, on Spruce and Chestnut streets; and St. Dominic's Church, on Spruce and Chestnut streets.

There were two celebrations yesterday at the Church of St. Francis Xavier, 290 soldiers and sailors attending a military mass in the morning.

MASS FOR WAR HERO

St. Charles's Catholic Parish Honors John Malloy

Solemn requiem mass was sung at St. Charles's Catholic Church, Twentieth and Christian streets today for John Malloy of 2113 Bridge street.

John Malloy, who had enlisted in the emergency corps of the English army last August, was killed in action on the western front.

Malloy was twenty-nine years old.

ART SHOW FOR WAR RELIEF

Modern French Paintings in Exhibition Depict Hun Atrocities

One of the most important exhibitions of modern French paintings ever shown in this country will be opened Friday in the Roberts mansion, 1201 Walnut street.

There are more than 500 paintings in the collection, including a number of authentic pictures of German atrocities, painted by order of the French Government and based on official reports.

The exhibition is a sensation. It is held at the residence of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbit, which it created a sensation.

Railroads entering Philadelphia benefit by the budget of Director General McAdoo as follows: Pennsylvania—For additions and betterments, $23,688,947; for equipment, $21,918,663; for extensions, $5,331,210.

Philadelphia and Reading For additions and betterments, $13,386,387; for equipment, $11,532,276.

Baltimore and Ohio—For additions and betterments, $16,023,171; for equipment, $27,336,132; for extensions, $10,000,000.

Central Railroad of New Jersey—For additions and betterments, $1,157,617; for equipment, $8,768,800.

A budget for the railroads of the United States, totaling $957,951,574, has been tentatively approved by W. C. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads, to provide for additions and betterments, equipment and extension plans for the calendar year 1918.

The sum allowed the roads, cut down from their estimated needs of $1,287,200,116, is approximately equal to the amount that they absorbed at the same purposes in the three years preceding 1918, when they were under private ownership.

Some of the money, included in the budget, was placed under the management of the financial officers of the railroads themselves, which were reviewed by John Skelton Will, director of finances of the United States railroad administration.

The large trunk lines, especially in the eastern portion of the country, and more especially the two Pennsylvanias, were granted the largest amounts.

The New York Central which was allowed more than $70,000,000 comes next on the list, figures ranging from there down to $120,000.

Railroads were ordered, when the call for estimates was issued, to be economical in their demands as possible, and to present unnecessary expenditures.

Blackmail and Threats Charged. Nicola Toland, South Third street, Camden, was placed under $1000 bail today charged with blackmailing and threatening to kill Giuseppe Mangano.

A LESSON IN LIAISON.

The hardest thing in modern warfare is to keep each unit of a battle line advised of what the units on the right and left are doing.

Liaison means trying to do that, so that one company or battalion will not advance or retire alone, leaving its own or its neighbor's flank open to attack or in danger of being surrounded.

Your sales brigade, book-keeping battalion, or purchasing platoon needs liaison on the battle lines of competition.

Your files should supply it. If they do not you are not getting the service files should give.

Get an Amberg Analysis. It will tell you if your methods of filing fit your methods of organization. Also how to apply the hard fast laws of filing which gives liaison when rightly applied.

Amberg cabinets, wood and steel, are standard—and the indexes fit any make of cabinet.

AIR MAIL DELIVERIES MAY BE DOUBLED HERE

Two Flights Each Way Now Considered by Postoffice Department

This city may soon have more frequent air mail deliveries.

An extension of the service between Washington, Philadelphia and New York and a doubling up of planes to insure prompt delivery is now proposed by the Postoffice Department and the army signal corps.

Postal officials believe two mails each way a day would improve and expedite the mail with business men of the East. It would provide for exchange of business letters for some day between here and New York at Washington and would mean the saving of a day's time on letters mailed in New York and Philadelphia for the South and West.

When the military mail is doubled, the postal department will have a total of 1500 planes for the calendar year.

THE NOISELESS TYPEWRITER

You'll miss typewriter noise like you miss a headache. THE first morning with the Noiseless in your office seems blessedly unreal.

Then the telephone rings. Mr. Blank wants to talk to you. "Please speak louder!" he shouts. "I can't hear you for these infernal typewriters."

Meanwhile your own office is running with a smooth, quiet efficiency that amazes you. There is more cheerfulness, less nervous irritation. More work seems to get done in less time.

We'll gladly put the Noiseless in any office for demonstration. Simply telephone or write for appointment. No obligation is involved.

MAJOR GENERAL P. C. MARCH He will wear four-shoulder stars and get free hand as chief of staff, according to President's plan.

March Will Be Raised to General's Rank

Continued from Page One. Spanish-American War. He graduated from the artillery school with 22nd rank in 1888 and was assigned to the 3rd Artillery in 1889. He served for the 3rd Artillery in 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918.

During the Spanish-American War, he was frequently mentioned in the official reports for distinguished gallantry in action. He commanded the American forces in "The Battle of the Clouds," in which General Del Pilar was killed.

During the war with Mexico, he was promoted to major general. He was captured by the Mexicans and held in a prison camp. He was later released and returned to the United States.

Shortly after America's entry into the present war, General March was placed in command of the artillery forces in France. In February of this year he was promoted to lieutenant general and staff, replacing General Taylor H. Bliss.

General March was born in Philadelphia, Pa., on January 15, 1845. He was the son of John P. March, a prominent merchant and banker.

CONDUCTOR FATALLY HURT

John McCormack Dies From Contusion of Brain

John McCormack, 437 North Pine street, a trolley conductor on the Philadelphia street cars, was caught between cars at the Belmont barn today and suffered a fractured skull and contusion of the brain, from which he died at the Presbyterian Hospital.

The cause of the accident was the collision of the cars with a building.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from contusion of the brain.

The funeral will be held at the residence of the family.

IN SESSION HERE

Boys Come From All Sections of Country to Adopt Plans for Helping Nation

Young America met in Philadelphia today. Future statesmen, admirals and generals, perhaps, are among the 1000 boys attending the national convention of the Boys' Club, which opened this morning at Houston Hall, University of Pennsylvania.

The convention closes Wednesday, and during the three days it is in progress, "How to Help Uncle Sam" will be the chief subject of discussion.

Most of the delegates arrived this morning. They came from every nook and corner of the United States, and brought with them practical plans for helping the country.

President Wilson and other high officials have already commended members of the Boys' Club for the aid they have given the various movements in connection with the war.

Many well-known athletes will attend the convention and are scheduled for brief addresses during the convention. "The Older Boy and His Part in the War" is the general theme of today's discussion.

Addresses will be delivered at tomorrow's session by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York; Provost Smith of the University; City Stationer E. J. Cattell; William S. Hall, president of the Boys' Club; and Charles C. Wright, head of the organization in this city.
