There Will Be No Army Professionals

WHE question was recently brought to the notice of the A. A. E. regardne the status of athletes who are with the army and are competing for th prizes. Under the general ruling of the union this would automatically it such a competitor in the professional class.

A. U. officials have declared, however, that no matter what a man while in the American army his status after the war will remain as before he entered the service, regardless of what he might have won money or other prizes in athletic competition.

Naturally, the A. A. U. could not afford to declare an American fighter sional for simply doing what the officers want them to do to keep ing. If the organization should have decided differently it would we taken the step that would have meant its end.

Ascamateur athlete now in France recently wrote this letter; We've just had an athletic meet. I went in five events; wen two firsts, ad and a third. The prizes were all cash and I cleaned up forty-two

1 suppose if the A. A. U. heard of this they'd declare me a pro. It "I worry me."

IT'S a cinch to beat the Athleties these days if you only know the system. The Tigers got next to it yesterday and grabbed the ball game by a two-run margin and came within two games of winning a flock of straw lids. Perhaps the thoughts of 1918 kellys spurred the literate gang to play above their heads, but we contend it had nothing to do with it. They worked the system and got away with it.

Here is the dope All you have to do it to cut down the number of home runs and the rest is case. Vesterday entry one bleacher wallop war made, and the As lost. It to I The Tigers didn't need the three counters, as two would have done just as well, but they wanted a margin of safety in case some obstrueprous guy leaned headly on twister and lifted it out of the pack. The White Sox worked that same sum, and have will be went out and scored five of the common or garden variety. The system is perfectly simple. If you know how to work it.
