JERSEY REPUBLICAN CLUBS PLEDGE FEALTY

Five Hundred Delegates Hear Patriotic Addresses by National Leaders

TWO OUT FOR GOVERNOR

Booms of Ex-Senator Read, of Camden, and Chairman Bugbee Launched

Trenton, May 25.

The New Jersey State League of Republican Clubs convened here in annual session this afternoon, the event being marked by the formal launching of two gubernatorial booms, those of William J. Read, of Camden, ex-State Senator and State Treasurer, and Newton A. K. Bugbee, of Trenton, Republican State chairman and State Comptroller.

Seventy-five Camden Republicans tendered a dinner to Mr. Read prior to the opening of the convention and at the same time in another section of the same building, the Mercer County delegation entertained Mr. Bubgee. It was at these functions that the booms were started.

The convention is attended by nearly 500 representatives from 300 organizations embracing 75,000 members in all sections of the State. It was opened by Edward C. Brennan, of West New York, who introduced State Chairman Bugbee. The latter urged the party workers to perfect their organizations and pleaded for harmony in the ranks. Mr. Bugbee also mentioned the spirited primary campaign for United States Senator and urged that bitterness be eliminated. Among those who heard this admontion were Governor Edge, ex-Senator Austin Colgate and George L. Record, aspirants for the toga.

Republican principles and party aspirations were dwelt upon by Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, a candidate for the nomination for Congress from the fourth district.

Marvin A. Riley, of Trenton, was secretary of the convention.

Governor Edge, State Comptroller Bugbee, State Treasurer Read, ex-Senator Colgate, ex-Governor Stokes, ex-Governor Murphy and United States Senators Baird and Frelinghuysen were named as members of an advisory committee to aid the league in its organization plans.

Chairman Hays's Message

Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, sent a message pleading for party loyalty and solidification, and pledged the party to the Federal Administration's program of winning the war. Labor constitutes the country's greatest a set, he said, and is the salvation of the country in the present crisis, and the Republican party is the natural friend of labor. He also said that the protective tariff made the wages of the laborer the highest in the world, and in the future labor must receive in the United States fair representations in the councils of the nation.

"There are no yesterdays in Republican politics," said Chairman Hays in his message. "I don't care how a man voted in 1912, 1914 or 1916, nor his reasons for so doing. We are all one today; we have work to do for the good of the country, and it takes us all to do it. And I insist that all who are engaged in this work are entitled to the same consideration—the man who has not always voted with us and the man who has always voted with us, because he may not have had any reason for doing otherwise.

"All Republicans in the country, all those who ever voted the Republican ticket, all well-wishers of good government, regardless of past party affiliations, are urged to aid. Our policy is assimilation and not elimination. There is far more involved in the matter than party success."

In his discussion of labor, its splendid opportunities for loyal service, Chairman Hays said:

"We must have such industrial peace now as will make certain that every atom of brain and every ounce of brawn goes where needed most to help the common cause. And that is not a charge on labor only. We must have less profiteering and more volunteering in this country. The manufacturers who would take advantage of his country's emergency to profit unduly or force concessions unduly from labor is just as culpable as the laborer who would take advantage of his employer's emergency and his country's necessities to force unfair concessions.

"And that lawless individual that puts the spiles in the spruce logs, and that lawless individual calling himself an I. W. W., that goes about the country thinking only of himself and seeking whom he can destroy, that man is a traitor to his country absolutely and nothing else, and should be treated as such. For a traitor there is but one effective medicine—taken standing against the wall. Let him have it.

"Not as at Collinsville, Illinois. That must not be. Lynching, under any circumstances or conditions, is a crime. It is a crime against judgment and justice, reason and righteousness. It is an assault on our most sacred institutions. It is an affront to the accumulated wisdom of past ages. It is a condemnation of christianity. To resort to it can be justified on no grounds. It merits the execriation and detestation of every high-minded citizen, and must be forever prevented in this country."

Governor Edge's Speech

Governor Edge, in a spirited address, said:

"Republicans are justly proud of the fact that the party has stood the acid test of patriotism. In nation and in State, as a whole, the party voluntarily, eagerly and immediately has contributed its potential forces to the support of all measures, all movements, in furtherance of the prosecution of war, regardless of the party inception or party source of such movements. Much of that legislation most vitally important to the winning of the war was secured from Congress only with the intelligent and persistent support of Republicans, whose loyalty ran deeper than party label. New Jersey, while under an administration politically different from the national administration, has steered clear of the partisan abyss and carried out the orders of the military commander-in-chief with as much promptness and efficiency as a single-track purpose and a loyal heart could command.

"Custom, crude and thoughtless though it was, has ordained that the party on the 'outs' should mobilize with the fault-finders and the arch-critics. What a splendid tribute, then, to the lofty purpose, the, patriotic ideals, the resourcefulness and the sound judgment of the Republican party that it should tear away the camouflage of political custom and get behind the national administration in the great common cause without partisan nagging or hare-brained antagonism.

"Political sniping won't win the war, and we do not mobilize for that purpose. Americanism, unity, the complete elimination of party lines in so far as the war and all its related problems are concerned—these epitomize the tenets and purposes of our club organization. With them as a guide and inspiration we are well fitted to consider any and all governmental problems in their relation to the traditions and idealism of the Republican party.

The Resolutions

The resolutions adopted amid a whirl of enthusiasm declare there should be no politics in the carrying on of the war; that all loyal Americans should stand shoulder to shoulder, regardless of political affiliations, for anything that will help the cause of America and international justice, and that any person who subordinates this cause for any other is a traitor.

They point with pride to Republican State administrations of the last few years in sharp contrast with the inefficiency of their Democratic predecessors; commend the Republican members of the United States Senate and House for eliminating partisan politics and giving their fullest support to the Administration on war legislation; criticized Democrats in Congress for refusing to co-operate with the President on vital measures affecting the winning of the war, and Vice President Marshall for his speeches in the Wisconsin senatorial campaign, and praise the recent Republican Legislature for its work, and the Delaware River bridge and Hudson tunnel propositions are heartily indorsed.
