Federal Agents Hunt for Makers of Counterfeit Money

WORKMANSHIP IS GOOD

Counterfeit quarters and half dollars in considerable numbers are circulating in Philadelphia and nearby towns, according to Federal officials here, who have been asigned to an investigation. These officials believe that makers of the spurious coins have made this city their headquarters.

Not in many years has such a good counterfeit of the twenty-five-cent plece appeared as that now in circulation. said operatives of the United States Secret Service today. So far the "phony" quarters all have been imitations of the coinage before 1917, when the twenty-five-cent piece of the new to aid the counterfeiters, the Secret Service believes, as the general public seems less likely to be suspicious of the tact with the fingers.

Not so with the counterfeit quarters.

Their weight is only a fraction less than that of the sound coins, and they are almost perfectly stamped. In the old days of counterfeiting in this country spurious silver money was made in molds, which left the edges, which should have been grooted, round and smooth. The latest in quarters exidently are stamped from temarkably accurate copies of the Government dies, and only on very close examination does the victim find cause for suspicion as
