Army Doctors Believe Brigadier General Could Not Stand War's Hardships

Camp Meade, Admiral, Md., May 28.

Approximately 2700 soldiers at this camp have received the benefits of free dental work this month.

The value of this work as estimated by the officer dentists amounts to more than $10,000, for they hold that the minimum charge per patient if the soldiers were compelled to have their work done by private practitioners would be no less than $4.

These figures show how Uncle Sam is caring for his fighting men, and also throws a little light on an angle of Camp Meade's activity that receives scant publicity.

Several months ago it became apparent to Lieutenant Colonel F. L. K. Lafiamme, dental corps director, that the dental facilities at the base hospital were inadequate to handle the ever-increasing number of patients, and to meet their needs here recommended the establishment of two infirmaries. These buildings have been constructed, and infirmary No. 1 has been in use for one month. Fifteen skilled operators under the command of Captain Daniel Bowers, of Pittsburgh, have been at work, and an average of 140 men have been treated every day since the first of May. The dentists have extracted 1129 teeth, set forty-seven plates and made 1644 lastament fillings.

"Every soldier," says Captain Bowers, "must have a clean mouth before he enters the trenches, for decayed teeth, old roots and yawning cavities are seats of infection and subject the men to the dangers of pneumonia, measles, rheumatism and other diseases. The line of treatment is virtually the same in this department of the army as in civil practice, except that more stringent efforts are made in the removal of septic conditions of the mouth. Army surgeons have traced many diseases directly to mouth infections, hence the necessity of safeguarding the health of the men by putting their mouths in a prophylatic condition."

Little Gold Work

No gold work other than the repairing of crowns and bridges is done for the men, but the soldier who is discharged from the dental infirmary can feel certain that his mouth is free of disease germs and will not prove a source of trouble when he goes "over there."

Another indication that the Liberty Division is getting ready for overseas duty came to the surface today, when it was learned that Brigadier General E. E. Hatch, commander of the 158th Infantry Brigade, had been relieved of that command and reduced to the rank of colonel. Army surgeons in Washington are responsible for this move, because after examining the general they disqualified him for overseas duty.

General Hatch is in the late fifties and, according to the army surgeons, is unable to stand the physical hardships that are borne by men of his rank on the western front. The 158th Infantry Brigade comprises the 315th and 316th Infantry Regiments and 312th Machine Gun Battalion. Colonel O. B. Rosenbaum, commander of the 315th Infantry, is in temporary command of the brigade.

General Hatch is a native of Maine and has seen more than thirty years' service in the regular army. He had endeared himself to the officers and men in his brigade, and the lowering of his brigade commander's flag caused much sorrow.

"Made in France"

W. F. Rochester, director of dramatics, last night convinced the men in the 315th Infantry that he is in earnest by taking a piano to the rifle range in order to conduct a rehearsal of "Made in France."

This is one of the shows that will be staged by the regiment when it lands in France, and Rochester is anxious to have the soldier players know their parts before leaving Little Penn.

Last night the regiment was on the rifle range. The actors thought that they were immune from rehearsals, but at 7:30 an autotruck hooked into the field camp. "I am here," said Rochester, "and have brought a piano. We will have a rehearsal," and a rehearsal was staged very promptly. A feature of the piece will be a riot in which eight soldiers bury Kaiser Bill and prepare for the funeral of the Crown Prince.

Sergeant William Nicoley, of the 101st Ordnance Depot Company, has been transferred to Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., and Wagoner Bernard J. Pfeister, of the 304th Sanitary Train, has been transferred to the office of the division surgeon.

No passes will be issued the men on Memorial Day.

To Make Coke By-Products

Fairmont, W. Va., May 28.—The Fairmont By-Products Corporation is making plans for the manufacture of coke and the recovery of by-products from the high-grade gas coal from the Fairmont fields. The company has been chartered with an authorized capital of $500,000. Its ultimate plans contemplate an investment of $5,500,000 for building 110 by-product coke ovens and $750,000 for constructing an industrial city.

N. Y. Central Must Refund $9245

Harrisburg, May 28.—The Public Service Commission has ordered the New York Central Railroad to make reparation to the New York and Pennsylvania Company, Lock Haven, $9245.29, as reparation for overcharges for the movement of coal from the Munson and Hawk River districts to Bald Eagle Junction. The order is the result of litigation before the commission in which it was claimed that the charges were too high. The sum covers claims in the year ending August 24 last.

Mays Landing Trebles Quota

Mays Landing, N. J., May 28.—Mays Landing residents again showed their patriotism by greatly exceeding their quota in the Red Cross campaign. The allotment was $1800, but by Saturday night more than $5000 had been subscribed. At the Bethlehem Loading Company's plant more than $3000 was received. Many employes gave a day's wages. The Bethlehem Company and Water Power Company each contributed $1000.
