CENES OF WAR ABROAD AND NEWS HAPPENINGS HERE AT HOME REVIEWED IN GRAPHIC FASHION

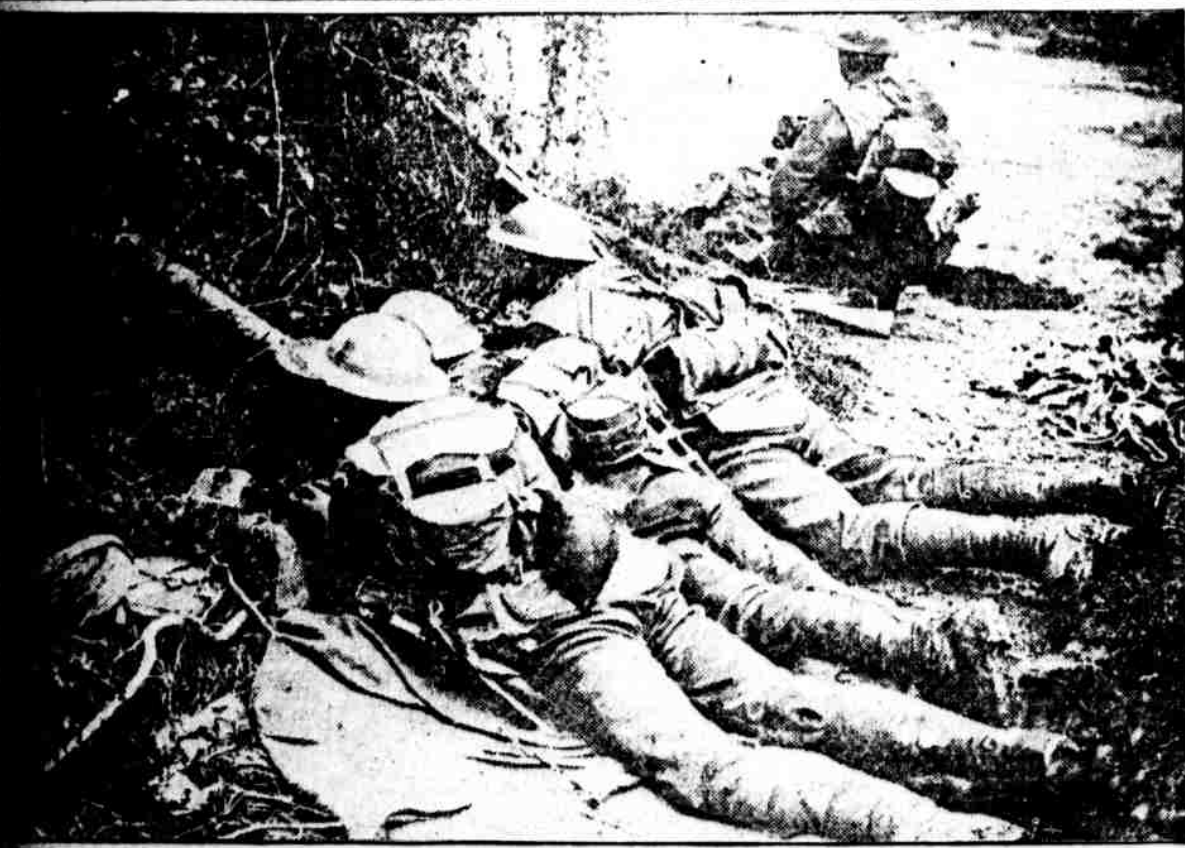

WOMAN'S PLACE no longer is necessarily "in the home," but in the munitions factory as well; at least this is the belief of these young women, who are among the hundreds who are being instructed in important duties at the Government's bag-loading plant at Washington Park, New Jersey.

A FRATERNAL BLESSING accompanied the French youth shown above who, when departing for the training camp with the recently summoned class of 1918, is met by his soldier brother and introduced by him to the regulation trench helmet.

IN THE PHOTOGRAPH above and that to the right some of our Philadelphia Scouts are shown practicing first aid for the wounded and making flapjacks with meager camp equipment.

BROTHERS IN ARMS NOW, a poilu and a Yankee soldier are mutually interested in a German rifle dug up in a Picardy trench.

GERMAN massed attacks make it necessary for the Allies to give ground to avoid the same heavy losses the enemy seems willing to sustain. Pictured to the left are British machine gunners awaiting these assaults.

FOOD FOR THE GUNS is just as vitally necessary during an offensive as food for the men who are doing the fighting.

These British Tommies were so battle-weary when relieved of their
