Big Garden Party Will Be Given at Alba Johnson Home in Rosemont-Nancy Tells Interesting Things About People

COMETHING original in the way of a garden party is being planned to take ace on Saturday afternoon, June 8, when the beautiful gardens of Castana, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Alba B. Johnson, at Rosemont, will be transformed into a bit of old Devonshire.

Needless to say, a worthy charity will benefit; in fact, in this case it is two orthy charities, the social service of Jefferson Hospital and the convalescent home for men, Ivycroft Farm, at Wayne while the committee in charge of the entertainment, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Houston Greene, includes Mrs. Alba B. Johnson, Mrs. Daniel Baugh, Mrs. Franklin Baker, Jr., Mrs. Walter Bryant, Mrs. Joseph Priestley Button, Miss Mary E. Converse, Mrs. Howard A. Davis, Mrs. John Chalmers De Costa, Mrs. F. X. Dercum, Mrs. J. Leslie Davis, Mrs. James Forney, Miss Lila Fisher, Mrs. Edwin E. Graham, Miss Alice Gilpin, Miss Gertrude Goff, Mrs. Quincy A. Gillmore, Mrs. Clarence H. Geist, Miss Anne Hinchman, Mrs. Frank G. Kennedy, Jr., Mrs. E. J. Klopp, Mrs. Horatio Gates Lloyd, Mrs. David Lewis, Mrs. B. B. Vincent Lyon, Mrs. Charles M. Lea, Mrs. Walter Lee, Mrs. Edward J. Lavino, Mrs. Thomas McCrae, Miss Anna J. Magee, Mrs. J. R. McAllister, Mrs. John S. Muckle, Mrs. D. G. Metheny, Mrs. James W. Oakford, Miss Mary Pierce, Miss Olive Pardee, Mrs. Hollister Sturgis Mrs. Edward A. Schmidt and Mrs. J. Parsons Schaeffer.

For those who have been to Devonshire in early summer and have had ten at one of the delightful tea houses or quaint inns no word of explanation is necessary, but for those to whom this is a novelty a visit to this Devonshire tea is the best explanation that can be made. For here, in the beautiful sunken garden on the Johnson estate or in the walled and shaded garden, now brilliant with its many-colored annuals and flanked by sloping lawns, will be a veritable old English tea party. There will be Devonshire tea and real Devonshire cream; this rich-clotted cream is most essential for the strawberries, cakes and other good things that go to make up a Devonshire party.

There will also be two moving-picture shows for the young of all ages, while music for dancing on the lawn will be furnished by the Lot'o'Pep Orchestra. For those who wish to play cards, tables will be arranged, while sweet lavender and flowers will be sold by a number of young

The entire affair has been planned by the social service committee of the Jefferson Hospital. The social service has become essential to the modern hospital. It inquires into the means, the needs, and the home surroundings of each patient. If there is destitution at home it is relieved. If there is work to be found for the discharged patient it finds it. It helps the tired wife and cares for the children. Many times after surgical operations men are discharged as cured by the hospital who are too weak to return immediately to work and to whom a few weeks' rest in the country at Ivycroft Farm is invaluable. Then there are wounded soldiers returning, and cardiac cases, and typhoid convalescents to whom Ivycroft is a veritable Garden of Eden. The pleasant afternoon to be spent at Castana will in this way be converted into health and happiness for others to whom it means a better preparation for victory in the renewed struggle for existence.

THE Comtesse de Bryas's talk at the Independence Square Auxiliary of the American Red Cross on Monday will certainly be extremely interesting, methinks. The Comtesse will come from New York and stop in this city with her cousin, Mrs. Edwin Swift Balch, of 1505 Spruce street, on Monday.

She has had all sorts of experience in France, where she was with Miss Anne Morgan with the American commission for devastated France, and she founded the society known as Le Bon Gite, which provided a shelter for the children and refugees of northern France. Besides this. she and her sister worked in the hospital at St. Jean de Lux, near Biarritz, as nurses. She is extremely interesting and has much to tell of her experience and work and in the most charming way. The Comtesse has been asked to take up some special Covernment work by George Creel, of Washington, and I understand will leave here next week for a trip to the West. The talk to the workers of the Red Cross, at 608 Chestnut street, will be given at 3 o'clock, the usual hour on Monday afternoon, and, believe me, it wil' be good.

IN THESE days one has to watch one's step in everything. And lest we grownuppers forget, there are always the youngsters to remind us. You see, it's a bit difficult these days to get just the proper maid in the proper place. Well, the wee bird told me about a young couple who had moved to the country recently. They have a fine quiverful of kiddles, headed by two boys. The second boy is thirteen years old, and the other evening some friends of "Mother's" having been asked to sup, young John felt the lack of cookle and her husband, who had departed the day before. For mother, you see, still wanted the friends for supper, and being one of the most hospitable souls on earth, had decided to have a slam-bang good supper, including frozen strawberries made of the berries grown on the farm.

So John was pressed into service, and faithfully did he freeze said berries. While the family was enjoying the fruit of his labors the bell rang and a man and wife applied in answer to an advertisement. That morning another couple had applied, coming out from town in a motor, and the family had only just recovered, so "father," whose sense of humor is keen and who saldom misses a trick, remarked to mother." as she departed to interview the "Who will you give as reference?" ded as a parting shaft, "Don't forget them what make of car they use?" brows he remarked cautiously. "You better be careful, they might hear you and not NANCY WYNNE.

"I saw that first in an Indiana paper," said Doctor La Wall, "but a short time ago a friend of mine in Washington told mine in Grant in the daughter had been asked to accept position in one of the cantonments. Unquestionably there is going to be a tramendous demand for women as druggists, and bacteriologists. There is already, only the public doesn't know it. For example, don't imagine many persons know there are already about thirty women pharmacists it Philadelphia; eight or nine of them. I believe, run and own their shops and are propering. Every year we graduate a large number from the College of Pharmacy, and there is never any trouble in finding work for them, with very good pay, too.

for them, with very good pay, too.

"Women make excellent druggists," went on Doctor La Wall with real enthusiasm. For one thing, if women are accurate at all they are very accurate, and if they're careless they don't get far enough along to do any damage. For myself, I think that they are going very far in this field. If more women realized what their chances are here they wouldn't be eternally sticking at stenogare going very far in this field. If more women realized what their chances are here they wouldn't be eternally sticking at stenography and typewriting.

"My wife heips me in all my work. She is a graduate of the College of Pharmacy, and is the best sort of assistant imaginable.

"A short time ago druggists wouldn't take women assistants, having for one thing the idea that they'd trot off and marry, and kept that project in the back of their heads the whole time. Now I've had druggists come and beg me to get them some girl. One of them would have paid $25 a week." Doctor La Wall also said that women were at the head of the prescription depariments of nearly all the big hospitals here and also in several well-known drug stores. "Not many women study bacteriology I don't know why, except that it requires a most precise knowledge of mathematics and of using the microscope. About two, I think, graduated last year from the college. To prove to you, however, that in this thay are capable of going very far, I'll mention, Miss Mary Pennington, who is a widely recognized authority.
