PARTICIPANTS IN HORSE SHOW

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Talks of Coming Horse Show-Also of Fete at Chapin Memorial Home-William Taylor, Jr., Engaged to Southern Girl

REALLY, I expect very big things of the War-Rellef Horse Show at Devon, don't you? For one thing, with Doctor Ashton, Mr. Wanamaker, Mr. du Pont and Mrs. Victor Mather on the committee it's sure to be a success, and then the Emergency Aid has taken it under its wing and has promised to help as hard as it can! And the E. A.'s will be there in their trim costumes and the E. A. A.'s will sell programs and help around generally as they always do.

Believe me, those girls know what work means these days, and it's a good thing! One little member I happen to have in mind used to spend most of her time before that organization was started wondering what she would do with her life; why was she born and how would she ever fill her life and all the rest of that nonsense, you know. And now she's so busy working she's forgotten all about her "sensitive nature" and "artistic temperament."

Then Mrs. Archibald Barklie is getting up the buffet luncheon which will be served during the three days of the show, and she and her committee will officiate at the lunch-counter themselves.

Any of you who remember the success of the Red Cross carnival held last year at the Bryn Mawr Polo Club will also re member that much of that success was due to Mrs. Barklie's splendid chairmanship. She is a great executive.

There are to be several side issues during the show, such as flower booths, candy and tobacco booths run by Constance Vauclain, Brownie Warburton and Gretchen Clay.

And the luncheon committee includes, besides Mrs. Barklie, Mrs. Sam Riddle, Mrs. George Kendrick, 3d, Miss Ellen Lathrop Hopkins, secretary; Mrs. Parry Harrison, Mrs. Ned Browning, Mrs. William Wright, Mrs. John Norris, Mrs. Sam Bell, Jr., Mrs. John Barnes Townsend, Mrs. Henry Earnshaw, Mrs. Barklie Henry, Mrs. Adolp! Rosengarten, Mrs. Ned Rocerts, Mrs. Ben Tilghman, Mrs. B. F. Clyde, Mrs. Tom Newhall, Mrs. Walter Jeffords, Mrs. Charles O'Donnell Lee, Mrs. Campbell Madeira and Mrs. Altemus.

THE show will take place, rain or shine, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, say the four members of the main committee.

R. Penn Smith will be manager of the show, and this announcement will certainly meet with the approbation of the many exhibitors at the show. Mr. Smith's familiar figure insures that the show will be run off on schedule time, which is always a consideration of importance to the exhibitors and one that invariably appeases the impatience of the spectators.

THE Chapin Memorial Home for Aged Blind will hold its eighth annual June fete next Thursday afternoon. I have told you of this home several times. I think, and the annual fete is one of the big times of the year there. I can assure you, for the men and women inmates of the house.

The board of managers and the ladies' auxiliary of the home give the June fete and supper is served from 5 until 7 on the lawn of the home at 6713 Woodland

The graduates of the Overbrook School for the Blind will furnish the music and the members of the auxiliary and the board will receive the guests.

in the Chapin Home and several younger members of the Social Set have taken up the work. This year after have had a series of monthly teas for the old women at the home, at which the dear old souls are encouraged to dance and sing and speak pieces. Josephine and Dorothy elather gave one in May, and what do you think Suzanne Levick Schoff is planning right now? Why, a vaudeville performance in the men's annex of the home, at which all talented members will appear in various roles. The fete on Thursday will last from 3 until 10 o'clock.

WHAT did I tell you about another Phil-adelphia man's engagement coming out soon? Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maynard, Jr. of Knoxville, Tenn., you see, announced the engagement of their daughter, Pauline, to Second Lieutenant William J. Taylor U. S. N. A., of this city, who is a son of Major and Mrs. William Taylor.

Bill's father is already "over there." He went over with Base Hospital No. 10 in May a year ago. Bell's mother was Miss Emily Newbold, and his sister. Marian Taylor, came out about three years ago and has peen extremely popular. His two brothers are Clement Newbold Taylor and Francis H. Taylor. I do not know the little brideto-be, but I hear she is most attractive and the families are very much pleased.

T HAVE heard of devotion, but listen to this: She was sitting on the porch last Tuesday, way out in Ohio (whither her family had gone for business reasons), and she was reading a letter som 'the only min in the world." And in it he said he was to have his first leave since he had arrived at Camp Meade on Saturday, and it would be about thirty-six hours; and oh! how he wished she was going to be near And believe me SHE wished so, too.

And then she remembered that Grandma lived in Baltimore. Grandma had lived in Baltimore for many years while granddaughter lived in Philadelphia; but, bless you, she was too busy in this little old then to go down and stop with Grandma. However, strange though it may seem, she was seize: now with a audden and almost uncontrollable desire to visit Grandnia.

And as she sat there thinking of how long it had been since she had seen her dear grandmother, who should come riding up in one car, followed by another car, but the husband of one of her friends from this fair city.

Out he got and said: "Come on, you've got to come back with us. There's a whole bunch of us traveling together and Mary (that's his wife) will never forgive me if I don't bring you home to stay." can't; there's no chaperon," deand off started daughter with a small bag and topcoat. She called back to Mother, "Send me some clothes and money and I'll go on and stay a while with dear old Grandma."

"Why, that's lovely," said Mother, and so went smiling back to the house. When L- reached the rest of the party she found a chaperon in the form of a bride of a few weeks and the bride's father and some one else's brother and another's siser and Mary's husband's dog.

Well, they started - three automobiles strong. They got mixed up with an army motortruck in the mountains of Pennsylvania and picked up a real chaperon in the form of a friend who'd been married six months and lived in Pittsburgh, and they finally arrived in this city at 4 o'clock on Friday rfternoon.

Then lo and behold you, L-- never even stopped to see Mary, but called up her friend Peg and said, "If you can come to the station I'll see you for a few minutes, but I must take the train to Baltimore at 5:15." Peg pretty nearly dropped, as she had thought of her as out West on her delightful porch. However, she fled to the

"Oh, L--, do stay and have dinner with me; why. I haven't seen you for ages."

"Well, you see, I'd love to but I must go to Grandma's." "Well, but you could take the 6 or 7 o'clock train." "Oh. no. I couldn't; no, indeed, thank you ever so much. Yes, I'd adore to go for a soda, but I might miss the train, and Jack's leave starts tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and it would be awful if I wasn't there, you

"But, L---, it takes only a few hours to go to Baltimore." "Oh, yes, I know, and I'd love to see the girls and all, but it would be AWFUL not to be there when Jack's leave starts," replied she, racing through the train gate, "and besides, I haven't seen Grandma for ages."

"STOP THIEF" ALL THIS WEEK

Philopatrian Players Will Present Farce Comedy at Broad Street Theatre Tonight

"Stop Thief" is the vehicle which the Philopatrian Players will utilize during the week's presentation at the South Broad Street Theatre, beginning this evening. In previous years Manager James J. Skelly has very successfully offered many of the big Broadway hits. For this twenty-sixth season the Cohan and Harris farcial comedy was selected and promises to put the Philopatrians a peg ahead of any former record. Those who enjoyed "Stop Thief" when Mary Ryan played here in the leading role are sure to be delightfully surprised by the fessional interpretation which the Philo-to be delightfully surprised by the professional interpretation which the Philopatrians will give to it.

The cast includes Mr. Jack Doogan, Mr. James J. Skelly. Mr. James Cluney. Mr. Hugh B. Dunlap. Mr. William Carr. Mr. George Wills, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. Martin Hickey. Doctor Willoughby, Mr. James Masterson. the Rev. Mr. Spelvin, Mr. John Campbell. Mr. Joe Thompson, Mr. John McCann, Mr. Jamison, Mr. John O'Donnell, Mr. Nell. Miss Gene Carr. McCullough, Mrs. Carr. Miss Mary Hirst. Miss Madge Carr. Miss Flora Apeldorn. Miss Joan Carr. Miss Madeleine Barthmaier, Miss Caroline Carr and Miss Beatrice Ginty. Police officers. Mr. Carroll Dugan, Mr. Henry Noonan, Mr. William Kennedy. and Mr. Edward Ryan, chauffeur.

Manager Skelly announces that he has been especially fortunate in replacing two former players—Mr. Joseph Mooney and Mr. Charles Allen—who are now in the service. The newcomers are Mr. John McCann, a member of St. John's Dramatic Club, Manayunk, and Mr. James Masterson. of Visitation Dramatic Club. As in other years, the proceeds of the week's performances will be donated to meet the pressing needs of the Convent of St. Magdalen. Germantown. This institution has had exceptionally heavy burdens placed upon it, and the Sisters of the Good Shepherd are relying on the Philopatrian Players to, provide funds to carry on properly the work among homeless boys and girls. All denominations are taken in by this institution.

As an aid to those raising war funds, the Philopatrian Players have donated two boxes at this evening's performance to the War-Chest fund. War-savings stamps will be purchased with the box office cash receipts on opening night. In addition, men in uniform will be admitted without charge at the initial series.

WOMEN ARTISTS DENY "BACK SEATS IN WAR"

Members of Philadelphia School of Design Repudiate New York Mayor's Remark

The remark made by Mayor Hylan,

The remark made by Mayor Hylan, of New York, that the artist must "take a back seat in the war" was received with a good deal of indignation by members of the Philadelphia School of Design.

In repudiation, it has been pointed out that artists, so far from taking a "back seat" have flung themselves into the war with the greatest zeal, at the same time sacrificing more of future prospects than the average young business man.

Nor is it the men artists alone who have refused to take a "back seat." Women are working as draftsmen at Hog Island, at the Baldwin Locomotive Works and in the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia Electric Company.

sylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia Elec-tric Company.

Other artists have entered camouflage corps and the medical drafting corps, where their skill in drawing is used to draw the pictures of wounds in the French hospitals. But these are the artists who are able to carry on their work and their patriotic duty at the same time. To think that artists are fit only for these few branches of the service or that they are in any way abirling the real business of war is an enshirking the real business of war is an en-tirely wrong and unfair idea, it is asserted by various members of the art school It has been said that the common attitude of the normal American toward the artist is of a sort of good-natured contempt —art in women appears to be regarded as harmless nonsense and in men a form of sing tdlocy. amusing idlocy.

In Europe, it is said, even in Germany, every effort was made by the fighting countries to protect their artists with the same care that they protected their treasures of art; artists were not called into the army until it was absolutely necessary. In America artists have had no desire to be exempt from the slightest portion of their patriotic duty, nor have they been; thus members of Philadelphia art schools rather bitterly resent the position to which Mayor Hylan assigned them.

Mias Emily Sartain, of the School of Design, brought out these points in a recent address and enumerated several instances address and enumerated several instances of the carnest war work which the girl students of that school have done.

Graduates have given up positions that have been offered to them so that they could do drafting at various shipping plants; many of the girls have offered themselves for any sort of work in Europe, and are making every effort to develop their physical strength to the utmost, so that they should making the strength to the utmost, so that they should be of the greatest possible use in any task assigned them. They have worked for the Red Cross, and not the least of their work has been the painting of the posters of food conservation. War-savings stamps, Liberty Loan and other patriotic drives.

Woman's Permanent Emergency Association of Germantown Marks Anniversary

Yesterday was the twenty-ninth anniverary of the Woman's Permanent Emergency Association of Germantown. Since 1889 this organization has been in existence and ready to help in any sudden need. In 1889 a call for help came from Johnstown at the time of the flood. A group of women met together and sent off fifty-five cases of bedding and clothing to the stricken city. They continued to work all summer, sending off supplies of all kinds. The Men's Citizens' Relief Association, realizing the efficiency of the organization and the need of just such an institution, suggested that it be kept as a body for future emergencies. The officers of the emergency committee became the officers of the permanent organization, and Mrs Chariton Henry was president until 1992, as first vice president until 1996 and as honorary president until her death last year. The need of the organization was proved at various times. Money and boxes were sent by the association to various parts of the country where there was need. In 1898 three weeks of hard work was done for the reconcentrados of Cuba. $700 being spent for the purpose. In June of the same year work was started for the soldiers in the Spanish-American War, and a committee of women was at work every day in the sewing rooms Chariton Henry was president until 1902, as was at work every day in the sewing rooms

Money and clothing were sent to Galves ton in 1900, to Jacksonville in 1901 and to San Francisco in 1906. In 1912 help was sent to Dayton, O. at the time of the flood. and various calls from Belgium have been answered since 1914. From October, 1914, until January 1, 1917, 192 boxes, containing 28,241 new and partly worn garments, were sent to the people of Europe. In November, 1917, the headquarters of the association was moved from the Site and Relic Society, in ernon Park, to the Fairfax Apartments, Wayne avenue and School House lane. The workroom is open on Monday from 10 until 5 o'clock and on Wednesday from 10 until 1 o'clock

The present officers of the association are Mrs. James Starr, Jr., president; Misa Charlesanna Huston, first vice president; Mrs. John H. Dye, second vice president; Miss Anna M. Johnson, recording secretary; Miss M. E. Rumney, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Walter Penn Shipley, treasurer. The chairmen of the various committees are: Sewing, Miss Mary Allison and Mrs. T Linton Alburger; purchasing, Mrs. Edward Mellor; packing, Mrs. John H. Dye; cutting-cut, Mrs. Edward Mellor; surgical dressings. Mrs. Edward V. Kane; wool and knitting, Mrs. Joseph Ross; room, Miss Mary Huston; publicity, Miss S. B. McIlhenny.

Members of the executive committee are Miss Mary Allison, Mrs Harold E. Gilling-ham, Mrs. William H. Haines, Mrs. Robert B. Haines, Jr., Miss Mary Huston, Mrs. Ed-ward V. Kane, Mrs. Edward Meilor, Miss Selina B. McIlhenny, Mrs. Robert T. Mickle. Mrs. Edward J. Moore, Mrs. E. Stanley Per-kins and Mrs. Joseph Ross.

PLAN AMUSEMENTS FOR ARSENAL GIRLS

Religious Societies and Schools Co-operating With Committee on Recreation

Plans to provide amusement for the girl arsenal workers are well under way. The move is under the auspices of the committee on recreation for women and girls affected by war conditions, which is the official body working under the War Department on train-

The religious societies and schools are co-operating and many halls and churches of South Philadelphia have been put at the disposal of the committee. Queen Memoria Hall, of Hope Presbyterian Church, where the girls may have "gym" classes and socia meetings of all kinds, has been lent, and the Marshall School will keep open all summer, with the services of a trained supervisor for outdoor recreation.

No definite plans have been formulated, as the girls are to plan their own fun, but the ideas follow the range of swimming, dra-matics, folk and social dancing, gymnastics. sewing, cooking and language classes, tennis and first aid.

The girls of the Schuylkill Arsenal have taken enthusiastically to the idea and today a rally will be held, when the program for a rally will be held, when the program for the summer will be decided upon.

Thursday a big rally for the Frankford girls will be held in the gymnasium of the high school. Music will be provided and the girls' chorus of the high school will sing.

This work is under the special leadership of Miss Helen H. Porterfield, chairman of the Pennsylvania Association of Women Work-

"Jack" Writes to the Evening Women of Cheltenham, Abs Public Ledger to Tell of Appreciation

An enlisted man of some unnamed branch of the American military service, who signs himself simply "Jack." has written the following letter to the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER from the Rotary Army and Navy Club here, telling how "we boys" appreciate the hos-pitality extended them in Philadelphia:

"Dear Editor—Pardon my presumption, but I feel that the good people of Philadelphia should know to some extent how we boys feel toward Philadelphia and our appreciation of the bladelphia and our appreciation of the kindness and hospitality of its people—hospitality that has made Philadel-phia the best little burg on the map for the man lucky enough to be wearing Uncle Sam's

This sentiment is often expressed in greetings exchanged between 'us fellows' something like this:

something like this:
"Hey, Jack! Got a light? Thanks! How do you like the village?"
"Fine! They treat you right here. Hope
I don't get shanghaied out of here soon."

This is invariably the feeling expresses by hundreds of the fellows every day.

But one of the things that we appreciate most, and which is not found in every city is the opening of the homes of private famllies here to the enlisted men and the warm hospitality shown us there, which soon maker us forget our awkwardness and embarrass ment and enables us to enjoy ourselves.

"Let me say here that every one of us fellows," no matter what has been our train-ing or environment, has the instincts of a gentleman and will carry himself as such And, no matter where we may be, we fel-lows will always look back on our visit to Philadelphia with pleasure and look forward to the time when we may be once again in the 'City of Brotherly Love'-the burg where they treat a fellow right."

PRETTY JUNE WEDDINGS

Miss Sylvia Blanckensee and Mr. Arthur Taub Married in North Philadelphia

A very pretty June wedding took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Blanckensee, 3124 Diamond street. when their daughter, Miss Sylvia Blanck ensee, was married to Mr. Arthur Taub, of Germantown. The Rev. Marvin Nathan, of the Beth Israel congregation, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a white satin gown with a veil of princess lace caught with orange blossom sprays and carried orchids and lilies of the valley arranged in a shower. She was given in marriag her father and was attended by Mrs. Taub, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, who wore a beaded robe of taupe georgette crepe draped over satin of the same shade.

and Jenkintown Plan Food Conservation

Women of Cheltenham and Abington ships and the borough of Jenkintown today in the offices of the Philadelphia urban Gas and Electric Company, York and Summit avenue, Jenkintown, for 6 orous opening of the canning campaign.
There has been a general awakening the importance of food conservation women who heretofore, perhaps, had little idea of the price of a pound of steak have brown themselves into the work with the desire of lending the greatest service and wasting the least time.

With the prospects of a war of indefinite length and the inevitable shortage in food-stuffs, even though the greatest economy is practiced, it is felt that the slightest waste or loss is a serious thing; that no fruit or vegetable should escape the efficiency of canning experts, which many Philadelphia women have already become. Exhibits have shown the skill attained in dealing with difficult phases of preserving food by the women of various districts around Philadelphia. It is believed the work through this summer will show splendid results. Women have grown accustomed to the work and have attained a much greater speed; plans for settained a much greater speed; plans for get-ting the food to the canning centers have been properly developed and added to the facility gained in last year's work is the increased seriousness and a realization of the vital importance of the work.

The scope of this activity is a wide one and includes a district where many wall-known Philadelphia families live. Contain have been established which will give every woman an opportunity to carry on the work on different days.
