

AUTO WRECK VICTIM IS EXPECTED TO LIVE

Miss Margaret Taylor May Survive Accident When Train Hit Motorcar

Miss Margaret Taylor, of the Delmar Morris Apartments, Germantown, the only one of six women passengers in the touring car struck by a train on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, at Cheltenham yesterday who was not killed, will probably recover, to tell how the tragedy was caused. She rallied strongly at the Abington Memorial Hospital after midnight, and this morning, when her brother left the hospital, physicians expressed confidence that she would live.

When the suburban authorities got into communication last night with William Neville, of Conshohocken, recent appointee as Coroner of Montgomery County, they were advised by Mr. Neville that, while he had been notified of his appointment, his commission had not yet been sent him, and he had no official standing that would enable him to act. Therefore, the county is virtually without a Coroner, and there is a possibility that the local health registrar may have to conduct the investigation, and possibly the inquest.

The bodies of the five women who were killed outright were taken to Helweg's morgue, at Jenkintown, and in the event of the selection of the Jenkintown registrar, Charles D. Wright will be in charge. If the matter of handling the case falls upon the registrar for Cheltenham township, in which the tragedy happened, Harold C. Pike, secretary to the Cheltenham Board of Health, will be in charge.

The funerals of Mrs. Margaret Ewell, 437 Walton avenue, and Mrs. A. M. Longacre, 4933 Walton avenue, two of the women killed, will be held Thursday.

The Rev. Dwight W. Wylie, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Ewell. Interment will be at Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Monsignor Crane, St. Francis de Sales Church, Forty-seventh street and Springfield avenue, will officiate at the services of Mrs. Longacre. The interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery.

Arrangements for the funerals of Mrs. H. J. Maroney, Mrs. Harry Phillips and Mrs. J. M. Ryan have not been completed.

In view of the gravity of the tragedy, the number of persons killed, and their prominence, and other features of the case, it is considered likely that Mr. Neville's commission will be rushed to him.

At the June meeting of the Board of Commissioners of Cheltenham, there is no doubt that the question of forcing action to remove the Cheltenham Mills death-trap crossing will follow.

MILLS AND WILSON DIFFER

Acting Superintendent of Police Against Reinstating Policemen

Captain Mills, acting superintendent of police, as an individual, today approved the reinstatement of three policemen who resigned just before the recent primary election and campaign for the Vares against Select Councilman Harry J. Trainer, Third ward. Captain Mills washed his hands of the whole business, saying: "I am absolutely opposed to such practices, but I am powerless to prevent them. It is entirely up to Director Wilson."

Director Wilson, of Public Safety, who ordered the men reinstated, was told that Mills had said "Nothing to say," he declared, smiling.

BONDS FOR SINKING FUND

Commissioners Will Bid for Block of City's $5,500,000 Issue

The City Sinking Fund Commission decided at its meeting today to enter bids for a large portion of the $5,500,000 city bond issue to be sold June 12. The issue has been authorized by the government.

CHILDREN AID RED CROSS

Benefit Given by Erie Avenue Youngsters Nets $30

Children of Erie avenue and adjacent streets last night gave a musical farce, minus the chorus, for the benefit of the American Red Cross. The proceeds amounted to $30.

HELD FOR ROBBING WOMAN

Negro Accused of Snatching Handbag Containing $300

Charged with highway robbery following an alleged attempt to run away with a handbag containing $300 and carried by a woman, Hurie Potee, negro, 108 Race street, near Front, was held for court, without bail today.

The handbag was carried by Mathilda Cole, 2133 West Norris street, who was on her way from bank to the office of the Eastern State Packing Company, where she was carrying the money. When the negro grabbed the bag, Miss Cole fainted. Elwood Parker, 2346 Federal street, saw the attack and chased Potee. He returned the bag to Miss Cole. Magistrate Meclary held Potee.

EXPORTS TO FRANCE JUMP

Shipments From Here in May Four Times Those of Last Year

Shipments to France from Philadelphia for April increased fourfold, as compared with reports for the same month last year. This was announced this afternoon in the report of the statistician to the Commissioners of Navigation.

SCHOOL FOR MAIMED SOLDIERS DISCUSSED

Steps Are Taken to Establish Course for Teachers at Meeting

Definite steps toward the establishment of a school here for the instruction of teachers who want to teach crippled soldiers vocations by which they may make a living were taken this afternoon.

A meeting of the executive committee of the executive board of the Philadelphia Branch of the National Women's War Service League was held in the league headquarters, 1702 Walnut street.

Reports on how much money will be needed for the establishing of the school were read and ways to get the needed funds were suggested.

Samuel B. Fieisher is chairman of the committee. Other members are Mrs. Frederick Rockwell, Miss Margaret Neall and William C. Ash.

Another matter reported on by the committee was things to be included in the course of study and the equipment necessary for the conducting of the school.

The executive committee made its report to the board, which body took under advisement the recommendations of the committee and decide finally what the action will be toward beginning the school.

One of the principal things discussed at this afternoon's meeting was the attitude of the government toward the proposed school. The sponsors are anxious to have Federal approval of the project before going too far with arrangements.

Backers of the schools in New York, Boston and Washington proceeded without governmental indorsement and are instructing teachers in how to teach injured troops when they return from France. So far, the government has not made any move toward recognizing the three established schools.

Dr. G. G. Davis, head of the rehabilitation of soldiers work in this State, addressed the meeting today and outlined the Federal attitude toward the local movement. Another physician interested in the plans for the school is Dr. Owen Copp, of the Pennsylvania Hospital.

No location has been determined as the headquarters for the school. The selection of a site has been left in the hands of the executive committee for recommendation. After this body has determined what it believes to be the best place to establish the school, the executive board will pass on the question.

There are a half dozen schools in the city which have offered their equipment for the use of the proposed institution.

It is reported that the executive committee has narrowed its choice to one of four, but which one leads in favor could not be learned.

TO DISCUSS DAY NURSERIES

Conference Begins Here Tonight. Many Addresses Scheduled

A conference of day nurseries of the National Confederation of Day Nurseries will be held, beginning tonight at the Art Alliance, 1823 Walnut street.

Mrs. J. Willis Martin, chairman of the committee of the Council of National Defense, will make an address, which will be followed by a talk on recent experiences with children in the war zone by Miss Martha M. Russell, director of the Paris nursery service of the American Red Cross. The proceeds of the evening will be for the benefit of the Council of National Defense.

NOT TO HURRY BAIL

Deutsch, Bennett and Patrolmen to Be Given Reasonable Time

A reasonable time will be allowed Reich, Lieutenant Bennett and the five other patrolmen under indictment in the Fifth Ward murder and election irregularities to re-enter their bail for trial in West Chester, Chester County, in accordance with the order made yesterday by the Supreme Court, but today District Judge J. J. Cannon ruled that if the bail was not entered shortly he would order the arrest of the defendants.

Deutsch and Bennett are each under $10,000 bail, while the patrolmen are each under $5000 bail.

WORDS OF GOOD CHEER FROM BOYS IN SERVICE

DREAMS

The soldier in his hours of ease Allows his busy thoughts to wander; And for a moment plainly sees Home scenes that make his heart grow fonder.

Right merrily his fancies rove. To former trips his mind is straying. He sits awhile in Willow Grove And listens to the music playing.

He flies at memory's command To where the fountain's waters glisten; And there with Pryor and his band He takes delight to "look and listen."

Then in the tabernacle he Sees Rhody brighten up a corner. Ah, dreams can make a fellow see A plan for every Jack Horner.

We take delight in all his joys; We sympathize with all his yearning. And so God bless our soldier boys And may they home be soon returning!

FIRST LIEUTENANT HAROLD TAYLOR ANTHIM, medical officer attached to an engineer department in France, is a son of former Select Councilman Clarence D. Antrim. Following are extracts from a letter received from him at the Antrim home, 1947 North Thirteenth street:

"Today, I am sitting under the music pavilion in Willow Grove. Victor Herbert is there with his orchestra and he is playing one of his entrancing light operas. It is bright, warm and sunny. Again, I am sitting listening to Pryor and his band, and I can see the fountain playing on the lake. Then again, I am in the Tabernacle and I can see 'Rhody' leading the choir in 'Brighten the Corner.' No, I am not wandering, not that, but we have our Y. M. C. A. going in a big tent 25 by 75, and it is a glorious day. A real talking machine is playing the pieces I have referred to and I have been just reveling in imagination that I was in the places mentioned. But when the music stops, I am playing the pieces I have referred to and I have been just reveling in imagination that I was in the places mentioned. But when the music stops, I am playing the pieces I have referred to and I have been just reveling in imagination that I was in the places mentioned.

This Y. M. C. A. is certainly a God-send. They have furnished us with eighty chairs, eighteen tables, a whole kitchen containing every article, a library of the best and latest books, a table for each man, magazines, a talking machine and many records, various national flags, and I am now sitting under the old 'Stars and Stripes' that we took over to defend and to bring back, flying full and high into the air, because it ought to have the highest place of them all. We will have a night, last night, to see the play, 'The Deciding Battle' which will be on this way. I am as sure as there is a sun that this war will be over before the winter sets in. Yes, every day we are going to do it, even if we do some of our boys are working their heads off to close this war up quick, some of us working night and day and never a whimper.

MR. PRIVATE LOAFER, BEWARE

General Public Urged to See Idle 'Work or Fight'

General Public will soon see to it that Private Loafer does setting-up exercises with the Awkward Squad. Every idle Jack Horner is to be called to the front and put to work. The habitually lazy are to be made habitually industrious.

By the new rule each local board is created into what is virtually a court. It will meet weekly. When a case is presented the board will give notice on the registrant of not less than three days nor more than seven days. He may then produce whatever evidence he cares to submit.

In every case the board must send the complete record to the district board for each man, magazine, a talking machine and many records, various national flags, and I am now sitting under the old 'Stars and Stripes' that we took over to defend and to bring back, flying full and high into the air, because it ought to have the highest place of them all. SERVED UNDER THREE FLAGS

Rogeri, Veteran of France and Italy, Now Aids Uncle Sam

J. Rogeri helped stop the Germans at the first battle of the Marne. Then he went back home, in Italy, and joined his own army. Next he came to the United States, and is still after the Kaiser, though in a different way. Instead of handling a rifle, he is helping to build ships to rush men and supplies to the battlefronts of Europe.

A dispatch from the "work-or-fight" rule. All citizens are urged to report to the nearest local draft board names of men within draft age who are habitually idle or who are employed non-productively.

By the new rule each local board is created into what is virtually a court. It will meet weekly. When a case is presented the board will give notice on the registrant of not less than three days nor more than seven days. He may then produce whatever evidence he cares to submit.

NEW CAFE "MAKES GOOD"

Hungry Shipbuilders at Sun Yard Storm Restaurant

NEW CAFE "MAKES GOOD"

Hungry Shipbuilders at Sun Yard Storm Restaurant

Feeding thousands of men in the noon hour looks like a pretty hard job for a restaurant when a new one attempts it on opening day, as was done at the Sun Shipyard, Chester, today, and its away with it, why that's so, some.

The company took cognizance of the fact that thousands of workmen were not being properly fed at noon. Some brought food lunches, while the remainder had to take the best they could get in the public restaurants. So the company built a special house in the yard and equipped it with modern appliances.

MARK MOTHER'S DAY AT GIRARD COLLEGE

Elaborate Program of Physical Training Exercises and Exhibits Given

Girard College observed Mother's Day this afternoon with a program beginning at 1:15 o'clock and closing after 5.

It is an annual affair, and the first part of the program—physical-training exercises—was given in the open. From 2 to 4 o'clock exhibitions of wood-work and drawing of the elementary schools were shown in the library of the main building, followed by a display of the work of the various departments.

The program for the physical-training exercises, held north of the main building on the parade grounds, followed. Apparatus, third year high school; tumbling, second year high school; free-hand exercises, first year high school; games, first and second grades; callisthenics, third grade; ring exercises, fourth grade; wand exercises, fifth grade; dumbbell exercises, sixth grade.
