Former Vice President and United States Senator Nephritis Victim

LONG POLITICAL CAREER

Charles Warren Fairbanks, former
Vice President and former United States Senator from Indiana, died last night at home here of chronic intestinal nephritis, which recently became acute. His entire family was at his bedside ept Major Richard Fairbanks, who is

Messages of condolence were received from former Presidents Taft and Roose-velt; Charles E. Hughes and other lead: rs with whom Fairbanks was associated political life.
Funeral arrangements had not been empleted early today. Charles Warren Fairbanks was born near Unionville Center. Union County, Ohio, May 11, 1852. His father was one of the early pioneers of the Buckeye State, whither he moved from Vermont in 1836 and helped to carve Ohio out of wilderness. Early in his life young Fairbanks developed a fondness for the law. At fif-teen years of age he had saved enough money to enable him to enter Olio Wes-leyan University, at Newark, O. and was graduated in 1872. Then he took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar of the Ohio Supreme Court in 1874. Shortly after he removed, with his wife Cornelia, a daughter of Judge P. B. Cole, of Marysville, O., to Indian-apolis, where he opened a law office.

Mr. Fairbanks did some newspaper work, having edited the Western Collegian during his senior year at college, and afterward acting as representative of a news association in Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Elected to Senate

Mr. Fairbanks was elected United States Senator from Indiana in 1896. He was chosen one of the American commissioners of the United States-Canadian International Commission in 1898 and served as head of the commission, which dealt with the Alaskan boundary, lake fishing and other ques-

The Republican party nominated Mr. Fairbanks for Vice President in 1994 on the ticket with Roosevelt, and he re-signed from the Senate on March 4. 1905, to take up the duties as presiding flicer of the Senate. At the expiration of his term Mr. Fairbanks returned to Indianapolis and resumed the practice of the law. In 1998 and in 1916 Indiana presented the name of Fairbanks as the choice of that State for the Pres-dency. In each instance he failed to be selected as the national standard bearer. A Successful Lawyer.

Mr. Fairbanks was eminently successful as a lawyer and had accumulated a fortune estimated at considerably more than a million dollarg. Having ample means for recreation he began a tour of the world in 1909 in company with Mrs. Fairbanks. It was during this journey that what is known as the "Vatican episode" took place. This caused much comment both in this country and abroad. An audience with the Pope had been arranged for Mr. Fairbanks either must give up his audience with the Pope had been arranged for Mr. Fairbanks either must give up his audience with the Pope are give up an announced address in the American Methodist Church here.

Mr. Fairbanks did not hesitate. He declared that of all the personages in Rome the Pope was the one he most desired to see, but that there could not even be a question of choice or of fair judgment.

The Senate today adjourned a few minutes after convening out of respect to former Vice President Charles W Fairbanks, dead at his home in Indianapolis.

A resolution submitted by Senator Watson, of Indiana, asking that this mark of respect be paid the former Vice President and member of the Senate.

Was unanimously adopted.

Senator Watson and Senator Martin, of Virginia, Democratic leader, paid tribute to the ability of Vice President Fairbanks as a Latesman and his character as a man.

Carliste, Pa., June 5.—With maps and blue prints, said to be of factories and Government plants in this section in his possession, a man who gave his name as John Dare was arrested by Trooper Jackson, of the State Police, and held in faif here pending the arrival of secret service men and an investigation by Federal authorities. The navy needs an eye or two it does not now possess; and it is really up to you the evil to redress. Or, plainly to set forth the whys and wherefores to all classes: The navy has the willing eyes, but it is needing glasses.

We make them and we have the stuff—both men and good machines—but cannot make them fast enough to spot all submarines. And so the fact we advertise to patriotic masses: the navy has the willing eyes, but they are needing fasses.

Mays Landing with both feet in June, will have a sister pretty soon, for Bethelem's stars declare they will be soon completing Belcoville. Ah, happy work-four rooms and bath!

Jes' be a sport, by gravy! Jes' raise your glass with loud acclaim!—and sent it to the navy!
