Commencement Exercises of Medical College at Garrick Theatre

Twelve men received their degrees in medicine at the seventeenth annual commencement of the Hahnemann Medical College in the Garrick Theatre at noon today.

The small number of graduates was due to the calls to military service. All members of the graduating class are enlisted in the medical reserve.

Jeanette Rankin, of Montana, a member of Congress delivered the principal address. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, rector of Holy Trinity Church, and Prof. Ralph Kinder, of the same church, played the organ.

Charles D. Barney, president of the Hahnemann College and Hospital, awarded the degrees and prizes. The Rev. H. E. Purcell pronounced the benediction.

Short addresses to the graduates, their relatives and friends were made by Walter E. Hering, chairman of the college committee; Dr. Ralph Bernstein, secretary, and Dr. William Pearson, dean.

The annual alumni banquet will be held at the Adelphi Hotel tonight. Dr. John A. Evans, of Baltimore, Md., the acting president of the alumni association, will be the toastmaster, and the principal speaker will be Francis Little Maguire, a prominent Philadelphia attorney. Captain Curran, medical corps of the British navy, will also speak at the banquet. Captain Curran was for sixteen months in a German prison. He will tell his experiences.

Dr. Norman Roberts, a member of the graduating class, will also speak.

SUFFRAGISTS WANT MRS. PANKHURST HERE

English Hunger Strike Leader Now Only Hopes for Victory in War

Efforts will be made by women of the suffrage parties in Philadelphia to induce Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English suffrage leader, to speak here. Mrs. Pankhurst arrived in this country unexpectedly on a French liner and announced that she had suddenly made the decision to come because she felt that it would be a good thing to bring American suffragists a greeting from the patriotic women of England.

Mrs. Pankhurst said:

"The great thing now for women is to have a country to vote in. The suffrage question in England is a thing of the past, and English women are out with one end in view—to whip Germany. I have forgotten all about hunger strikes. I have thought only about our country."

Mrs. Pankhurst will speak of the war, and tell about the work on the Alsatian front, where she has spent much time. She has given her attention entirely to the war and to the various domestic questions that are troubling England.

"I wish the Irish would only make up their minds on what they want," she said. Lloyd George has made a brave attempt to please them; but the Irish people live in the past and cherish their grievances."

Mrs. Pankhurst will stay in New York about a month. After that it is expected that she will come to Philadelphia for a short time.

MOTORMAN INJURED IN TROLLEY COLLISION

Mistake in Signals Causes Accident—Ten Passengers Escape Injury

Ten persons were badly shaken up and a motorman—Morris Aspinough—was injured today when two trolley cars collided at Sixtieth street and Girard avenue. The motorman was picked up unconscious and rushed to the West Philadelphia Homeopathic Hospital. The trolley passengers refused hospital treatment.

A mistake in signals is said to have been responsible for the crash, which brought several ambulances to the scene. Traffic was tied up for several hours. Both cars were demolished.

A car of route No. 10, which was going west on Girard avenue at the time of its terminus at Sixty-first street and Girard avenue, and a car of route No. 46, which was going south on Sixtieth street to its barn at Fifty-eighth street and Woodland avenue, figured in the accident.

As the route No. 10 car started across the street and was half way over, the other car, which was carrying the ten passengers, crashed into its midsection. The crash was heard for several squares.

Mr. Johnson Calls Attention To The Noisy Typewriters

SIX men were gathered in the conference room. Mr. Stafford, the Vice-President, started to read some important specifications.

He got as far as the third sentence. Suddenly the staccato blows of the typewriters came piercing through the walls. The typists had returned from luncheon and the daily bombardment was again in full swing.

Stafford looked reproachfully at Mr. Johnson and Mr. Johnson rose in his own defence. He'd been advocating Noisless Typewriters for three months and he welcomed this opportunity. He motioned Jones to open the door so that Stafford would get the full blast. Bang!

The vote was unanimous. Noisless Typewriters were to be put in for a trial. What pleased Stafford particularly was the salesman's willingness to demonstrate the Noisless right by his side while he was taking a long-distance call.

CHANCE FOR FARM TRAINING FOR 100 PHILADELPHIA BOYS

Fourth Class Will Begin Studies and Activities at State College Next Week—Course Is Free

ONE hundred Philadelphia boys between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one years, weighing 120 pounds or more, now have an opportunity to receive preliminary farm training in the fourth training class which will be conducted at State College next week by the civilian service department, Pennsylvania committee of public safety.

Three previous classes of high school boys have been given training, but the fourth class is open to all boys, whether they are high school boys or not. Transportation to and from the college and board and lodging during the two weeks' training course will be furnished free of cost, and positions at farm work, with pay, will be obtained for the boys upon their return.

Applications will be received all week at Room 303, Finance Building. The boys will be enrolled in the United States boys' working reserve and must agree to accept farm work after they have been trained. Consent of parents or guardians is required.

The fourth farm training class, which will accommodate 200 boys from all parts of the State, is being conducted at the urgent request of Federal labor officials. The third class of 200 boys was inspected yesterday by Mr. C. C. Kendall, farm service chief of the United States employment service, William K. Hall, national director United States boys' working reserve, and directors of the reserves from Rhode Island, New York, Delaware, Indiana, New Jersey and other States.

The inspection was by invitation of Director Hall to enable reserve officials of other States to witness the "Farm Plattsburg" in operation. It has been intended to close the camp with the third class, but at Mr. Kendall's suggestion the fourth class was undertaken. Instructors at the college volunteered their services for another two weeks of training.

ORPHANS HAVE OUTING AS AUTOISTS' GUESTS

More Than 2000 Taken to Willow Grove by Quaker City Motor Club

More than 2000 orphans from various institutions are spending the day at Willow Grove Park, at the annual outing established by members of the Quaker City Motor Club.

Cars to convey the kiddies were donated by more than 100 motorists and automobile firms in and around Philadelphia. The cars were assigned, at the Hotel Walton, early this morning, to the several institutions, and each load of happiness in the form of boys and girls was taken to Willow Grove, either by way of Chestnut Hill or directly over the old York road.

The management, through John R. Davies, park superintendent, entertained the children on the different amusement devices. They had a substantial luncheon. The start back to Philadelphia will be made late this afternoon.

More than twenty orphanages sent delegations of children on the outing. Started ten years ago, the outing has been made an annual feature, and each year a larger number of children are the guests of the automobilists.
