Arrangements have been made to have busses meet the trains at Berwyn.

ANOTHER delightful offsi, which is in the planning is the Evening Song on the Green, which will be given in the Bo tanical Gardens of the University of Pennsylvania on the evening of June 25 for the benefit of the Pennsylvania Aux illary, Naval Relief Society.

The recital will be "In a Persian Garden." and the Orpheus Mixed Quartet will sing, dressed in costumes appropriate to the song cycle. The quartet, you know includes such well-known singers as Edna Harwood Baugher, soprano; Elizabeth Dickson, contraito: Philip Warren Cooke tenor, and members of the Philadelphia Orchestra. William Silvano Thunder will reside at the piano and Mr. Nicholas Douty has arranged the orchestration.

The song cycle will start at 8:30 o'clock. and will be followed by dancing from 10 until 12 o'clock. The dance music will be provided by the Navy Yard Band.

JOHN and Ted had gotten into a wonderful habit of asking from what kind of a tree the various fruits served at the table each day grew. You know how simple you can get yourself when asking questions generally on certain lines. Well, one day recently they were much perturbed when a dish of cream puffs was brought on by the maid. This was a new idea, and John looked at it several times rather warily These were certainly not fruit and could not grow on trees. Suddenly a thought came to him, and as Ted piped up quickly, so as not to be stumped by having to an-"What tree does that grow on?" John thoroughly disconcerted him and threw the family into delighted grins by remarking quickly, "Oh. pan-try, of course.

State College Experts Assigned Permanently to Philadelphia to Continue Work

Instructions and demonstrations in making war breads and in the use of substitutes for wheat, which was begun several weeks ago by an army of young women from the home economics department of State College, will be continued indefinitely, according to plans announced today by Jay Cooke, food administrator for Philadelphia County,

Arrangements have been made whereby two of these State College experts have been Arrangements have been made whereby two of these State College experts have been assigned permanently to Philadelphia and will maintain their headquarters at the war-information booth in City Hall courtyard. Any one desiring demonstrations in the making of war bread, the use of wheat substitutes, meat substitutes or in canning or drying may communicate with these workers directly or through the United States food administration for Philadelphia.

Two hundred and eighty-eight demonstrations were given. The attendance on these occasions was frequently as high as 290. An interesting feature of the demonstration was the noon-hour talk at the mills and factories in Kensington and Manayunk. The settlement houses co-operated in the campaign with great success, especially among the Polish and Lithuanian populations. An in-
