Though you can hardly call the life of a soldier on active duty dull, mail livens things up more than anything and it is more appreciated over here than anywhere. I am going to try to get into the X-ray department, so I will have some-thing fleady and instructive to do when we are not up on the front line with litter teams or ambulance work. At the present time my work is very promiscuous, and I hardly know what I will be called upon to do next. You would laugh could you see me with my hair cropped close, but it's a food scheme to keep your head clean and thus prevent cooties.
