

(THIS PAGE IS FULLY PROTECTED BY COPYRIGHT)

SCHOOL DAYS

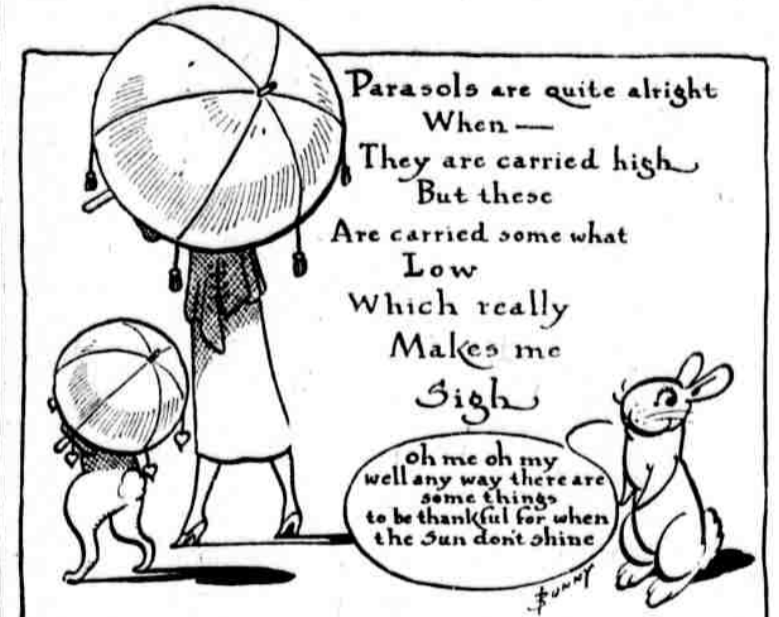

By DWIG

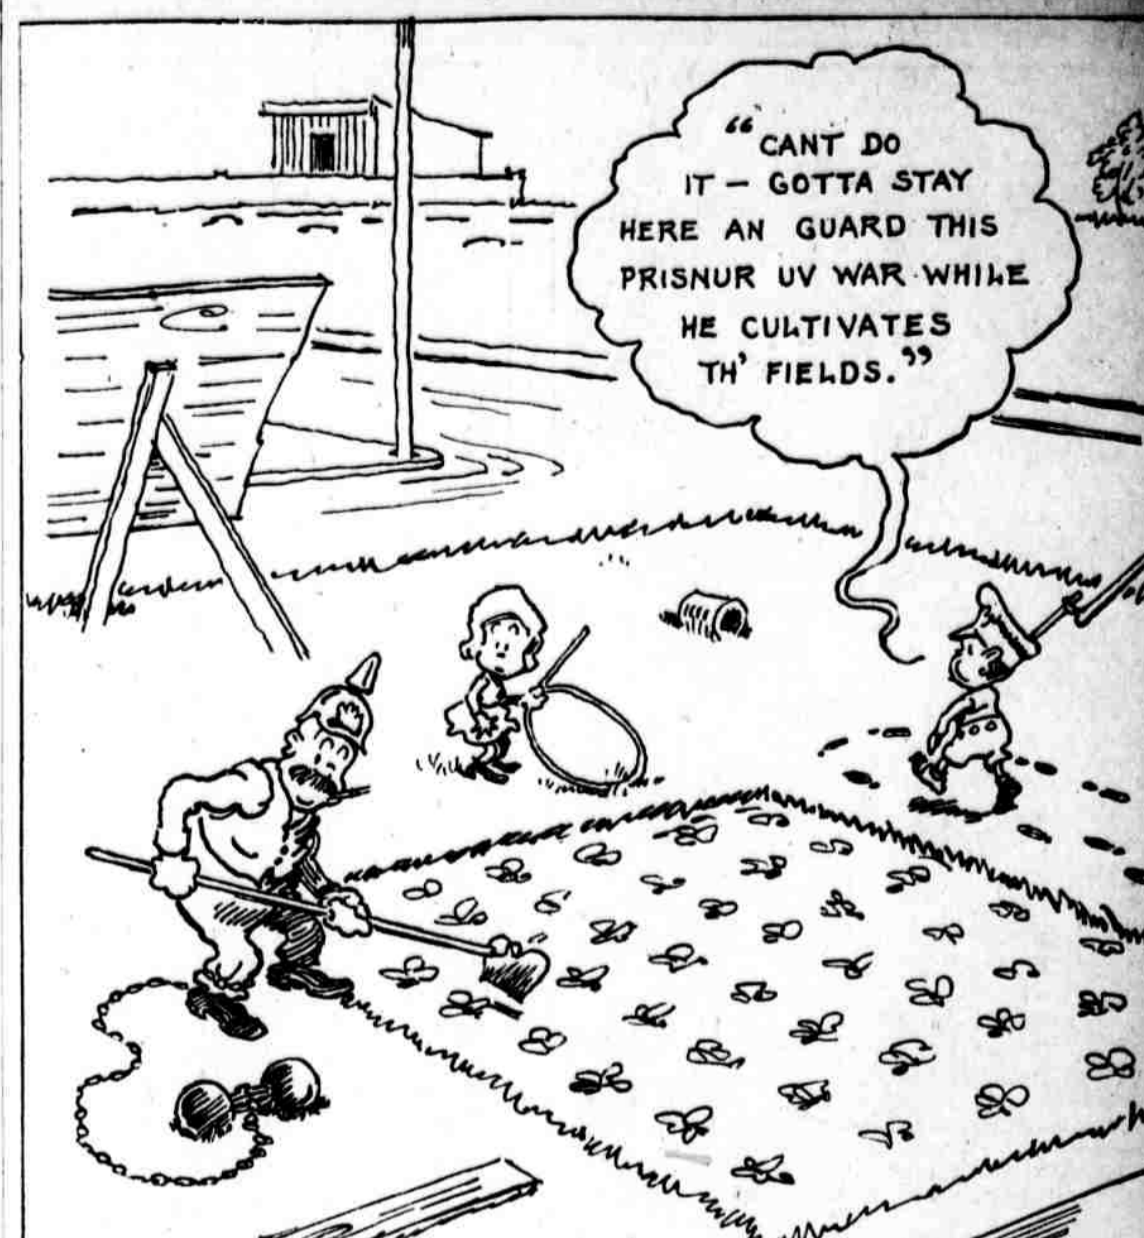

Tommy—You're the colonel's groom, ain't yer?
Groom—Yus, mate.
Tommy—Well, what's happened to them two lions of his?
Groom—Ho! Why, the oldest is a staff capt'n at the War Office—an' the young 'un is still in the barracks!

Tommy—You're the colonel's groom, ain't yer?
Groom—Yus, mate.
Tommy—Well, what's happened to them two lions of his?
Groom—Ho! Why, the oldest is a staff capt'n at the War Office—an' the young 'un is still in the barracks!

BROAD AN' CHESTNUT By BUNNY

DAD HAS INVENTED A NEW GAME WHICH ALLOWS HIM TO WORK IN THE GARDEN AND AT SAME TIME KEEP WILLIE IN SIGHT AND OUT OF MISCHIEF By FONTAINE

The Young Lady Across the Way

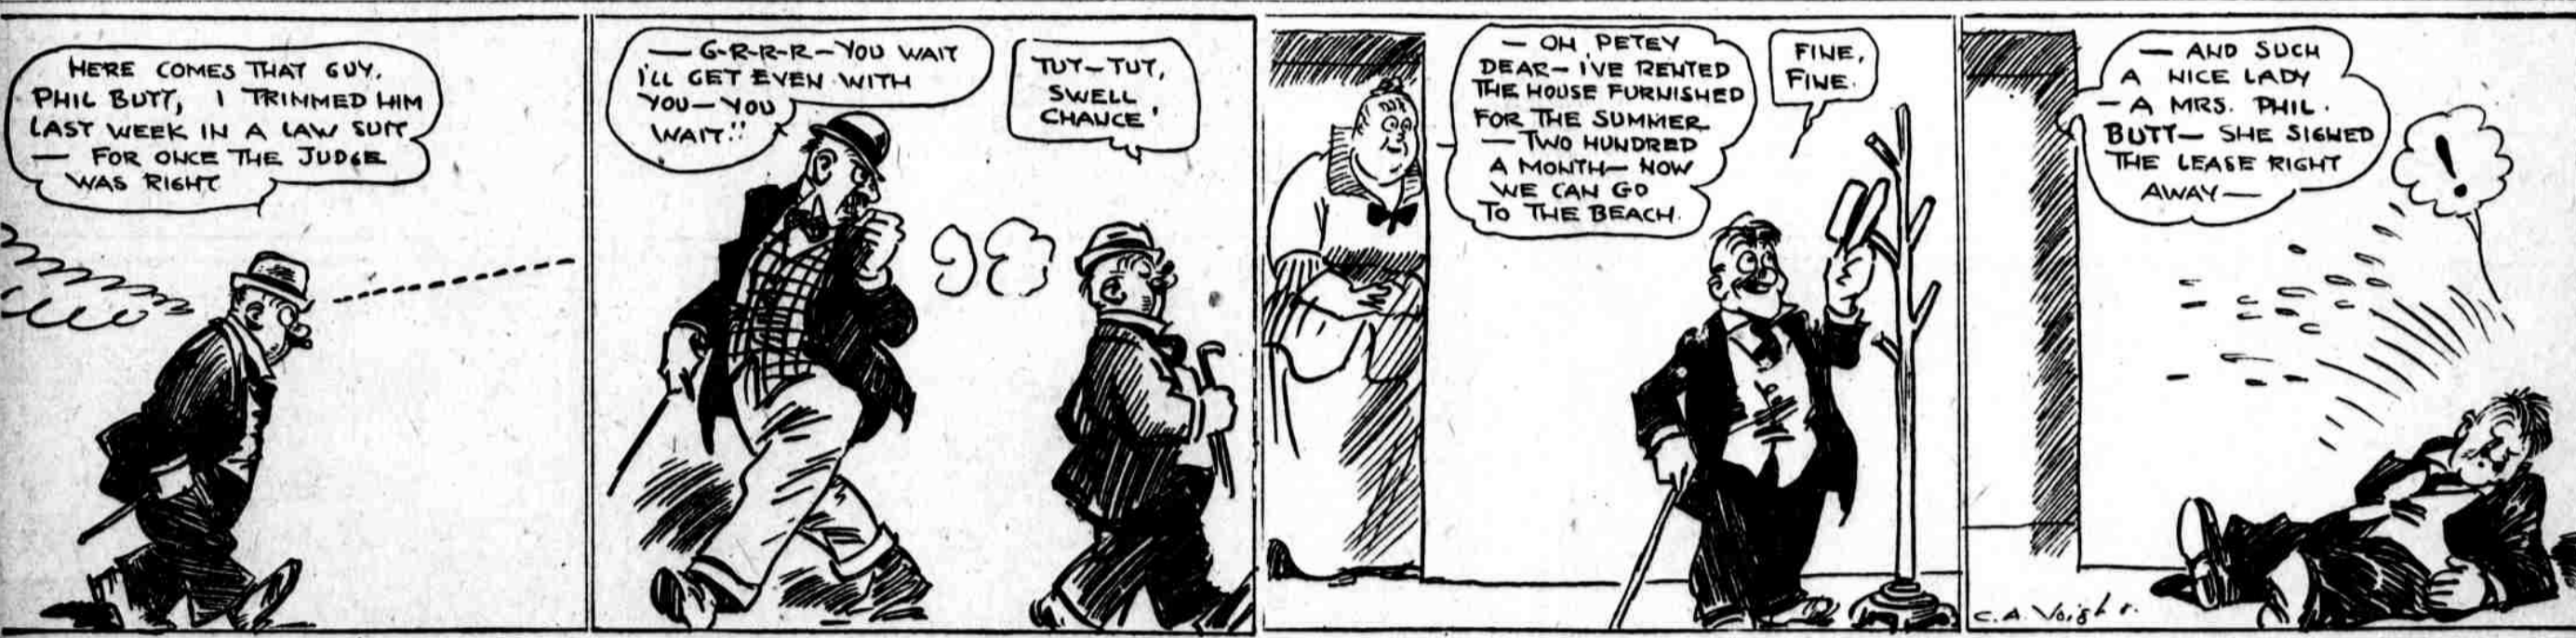

THE GUMPS—Lizzie—She Comes to Learn Once a Week

By SIDNEY SMITH

PETEY—We Hope the Butt Family Leaves the Roof, at Least

By C. A. VOIGHT

GEN. NUISANCE By BUNNY

"CAP" STUBBS—Cap's Alibi Was Perfect

By EDWINA

I ordered them a Little bit The place I need not Name The waiter Glared At All

Mr. and Mrs. Farro called for a bath and enlistment. He served as captain of the St. James basketball team in the War. Mr. Farro is now in the U.S. Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Farro called for a bath and enlistment. He served as captain of the St. James basketball team in the War. Mr. Farro is now in the U.S. Army.