PATRIOTIC SPIRIT PERVADES COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

real worth in my environment, but that I was interdependent, and there quickly followed a realization of the meaning of the word loyalty.

"Interdependent" Proper Word

"There are those who dislike this word. They hold that it is impossible to be loyal to any one or to anything. They claim to be independent and not interdependent. It is a part of that doctrine of individualism—a strange philosophy which no true college life will sustain. In this very hour every one must recognize the supreme necessity of loyalty. Our forefathers were master workmen. They erected in this country a great and mighty fabric; and how we have succeeded to their patriot toils. Will we be loyal as they were loyal? If so, then must we be alert, prepared and industrious.

"The glory of this country and of every country is its liberty, its progress and advancement in science, in the arts and in religion. But like the worm at the root of Jonah's gourd, idleness, indifference, disloyalty are a strong poison, eating out the vitals of all. They exhaust wealth, famish learning of every sort, destroy religion and sell liberty and human rights for a morsel of bread.

"Be not offended if I ask that, for a moment, you look back to the 'rock from whence you were hewn, and the pit from whence you were digged.' Note the steps by which your forefathers became prominent and distinguished, and you shall find scarce one who ever attained eminence but by steady application, industry and loyalty to lofty ideals.

Quotes Carlyle

"You will agree with me that in college days, if at all attentive, earnest and loyal to the best within us, we learn to think. The dictum of the world is that thinking men are scarce—and it is heralded far and wide that the good workers and the thinkers are the silent men, which prompts me to call your attention to the words of Thomas Carlyle, who said:

"'The great silent men!' Looking around on the noisy inanity of the world, words of little meaning, actions of little worth, one loves to reflect on the great empire of silence. The noble silent men scattered here and there, each in his own department, silently thinking, silently working, whom no morning newspaper makes mention of! They are the salt of the earth! A country that has none of these is in a bad way—like a forest which has no roots, which has all turned to leaves and boughs, which must soon wither and be no forest. Woe for us if we have nothing but what we can show or speak! Silence, the great empire of silence! Higher than the stars, deeper than the Kingdom of Death.'

"As you step forth into the busy world, at every glance Elysian scenes and fairy prospects will rise before you; seemingly so variegated with pleasure that the choice will perplex you! But remember that pleasure derived from pursuing phantom after phantom, expedient after expedient, will be found at last 'a bed shorter than a man can stretch himself upon and a covering narrower than he can wrap himself in.' Pleasure of this kind is sure to seduce you from the path of virtue, drawing you on through meads of unreal bliss to the fool's paradise—a deceitful region—where snakes lurk under the glass

"'And, mid the roses, fierce repentance rears
Her horrid crest.'

True Pleasure to Think

"But true pleasure is to think, to consider what you are, whence you came, whither you are going, what is given you to do and whether you are prepared to act your part worthily. It is to come forth on the human stage, in the sight of mortal and immortal powers, full of energy and action; rejoicing to fill any sphere assigned you with a quiet dignity and ceaseless diligence.

"You, like many of your companions, have heard our country's call; you have seen corruptors or the corrupted stealing in upon the unguarded hour of liberty, undermining the fundamental civil and religious principles of the world; and because you are sworn foes to every species of bondage, whether of body, mind or soul, you have become all eye and ear and heart and voice and hand in the glorious cause of freedom, humanity and righteousness.

"Rest assured that in such deeds your best efforts—even the sacrifice of every personal advantage and privilege—will leave no sting behind, but be a source of eternal exultation.

"Surely, if there be anything in this world worthy of fighting for, it must be to advocate the cause of truth and righteousness, the preservation of the rights of mankind and a government of law's fully consented to by the governed.

"I am confident that with such aims dangers will not daunt you. Whither the voice of public righteousness and public liberty calls, thither will you follow, whether to life or to death. With a manly and intrepid spirit, with a burning and enlightened zeal, you will persevere to the end, even though all about you be blind to your sacrifice and courage, knowing it often happens that

"'The suns of glory please not till they set.'
