

Evening Public Ledger

Philadelphia, Tuesday, June 25, 1918

HOW THE WOMEN OF THE ALLIES ARE AIDING THE WAR BY DOING MAN'S WORK AS WELL AS THEIR OWN

PERCHED NEARLY 200 FEET IN AIR, this girl steeplejack, Mrs. Thomas Wessella, of San Francisco, has taken her husband's place, that he may fight.
International Film Service

THE WARTIME MILKMAID is not only modern in methods, but reflects the martial spirit of the day by donning khaki.

FRENCH MOTHERS DOING WAR WORK leave their youngsters with nurses before they start, and then tackle their tasks with untroubled minds.

HUNDREDS OF TELEPHONE GIRLS AT THE FRONT are bringing a feminine touch to the grim business of making war in France.

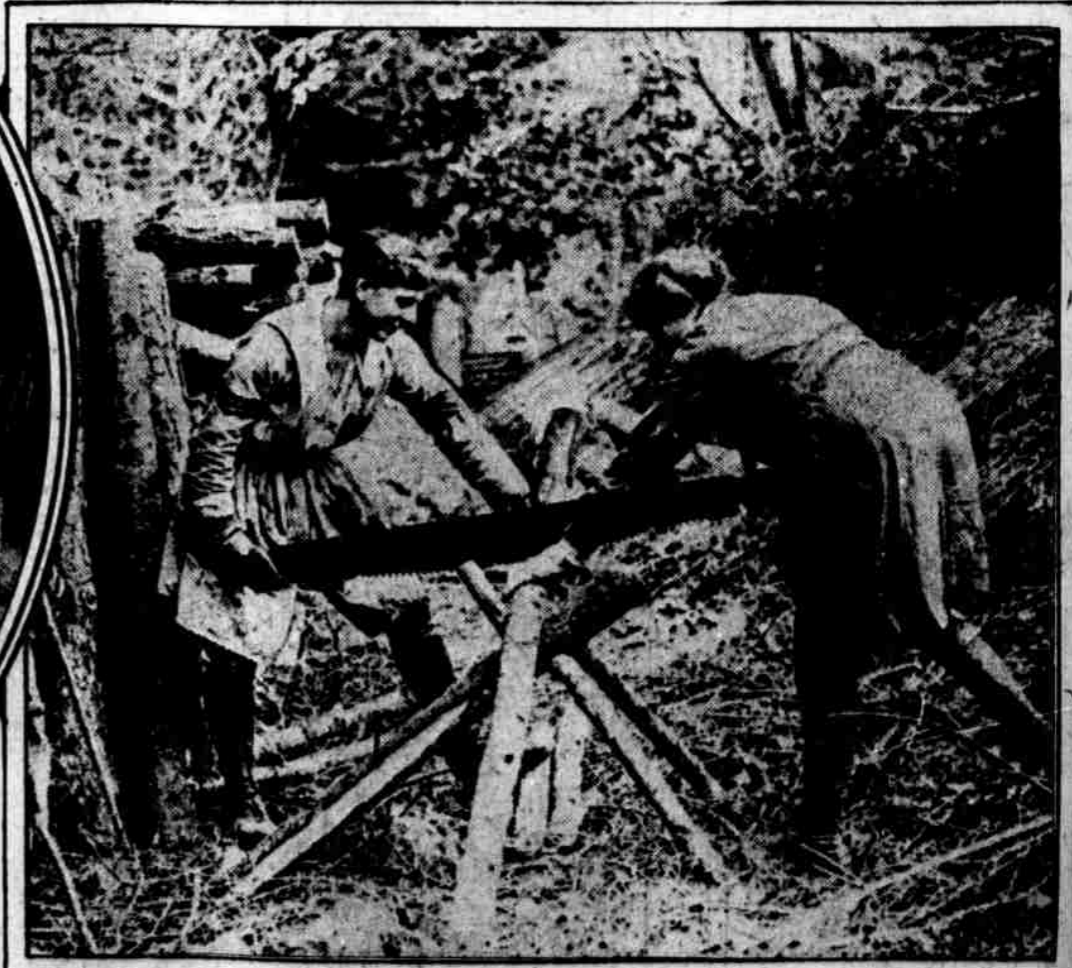

IN EVER-INCREASING NUMBERS the American Red Cross women nurses are on their way to the front to care for our wounded soldiers.
Kadel & Herbert

THE SALVATION ARMY LASSIES in France are busily making cakes and doing many other housewifely things for the boys "over there."
Committee on Public Information

NEARLY ALL THE WORK in the French munition factories is done by women and girls, including the heaviest and most intricate tasks.

EVEN THE ROUGH WORK OF THE LUMBER CAMP is now being done by women. These girls in the Brentnor forest fell the trees, as well as saw them.