PAYMENTS ARE DUE

Forty Thousand Coupon Books to Be Delivered to Subscribers Today

The first payment of War Chest subscriptions is due today. Forty thousand coupon books, provided for the payment of subscriptions, have been or will be delivered to subscribers today. Each coupon book contains a coupon and stub for each month until June, 1919, and payment may be made at any bank or trust company in the city.

A force of nearly 100 clerks worked until midnight Saturday preparing the books for subscribers.

Persons who subscribed through firms and industrial plants, in almost all cases, will make their payment of the books before subscriptions were made.

Books and trust companies are prepared to handle the cash for the fund, and to disburse the amount of the fund to a subscriber will not be detained more than five seconds in making his payment.

The month's payment the bank teller will accept the stub of the coupon marked Payment No. 1. The bank will retain the coupon, which will be sent to the War Chest headquarters, where it will be credited to the subscriber's account. The bank will hold the money until the coupon is cashed. The War Chest officers say, will add materially to the fund.

Mackay, of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. Jurisdiction is assumed by it over the southern part of New Jersey, the eastern part of Pennsylvania and all of Delaware. The object of the commission is to speed up all war contracts and to utilize the resources of the district to the maximum. The commission decided to increase its staff. It has authorized the employment of an executive secretary and the establishment of offices, as well as the creation of a finance committee to provide funds for the performance of office work.

PENN OPENS SCHOOL FOR BOYS FROM NAVY

Men From Ranks Chosen for Special Training and Commissions

Classes organized from candidates in the ranks of the navy took up their work in the Officer Material School of the University of Pennsylvania under the auspices of the Navy Department today. The course will run six weeks, the classes meeting in the engineering building of the University, in Thirty-third street below Walnut. Two hundred men have been selected for the first school. Barracks for the men in training have been established in the Rodney and Cox houses on the University campus. As soon as the first classes are graduated others will be formed to take their places.

During this war the University of Pennsylvania has contributed more than any other institution in the State. Last summer the campus was used as a camping ground by the Ninth Engineers, the Sixth Pennsylvania and other small units. Classes in French were conducted in Hofton Hall, and various parts of the campus were used for drilling. The classrooms of the Law School have been frequently used during the year for conducting examinations of candidates for promotion.

There are being conducted at the University, under government auspices, special schools for training army medical officers in oral surgery, neurological surgery, general surgery, orthopedic surgery, a school for training men for navigating the seas; an army ordnance school, besides special courses for nurses, the signal service, etc. Most of the members of the aviation examining boards throughout the United States were trained at the parent unit organized at the University. Besides this the University has organized among her sons three ambulance units, a base hospital, several Red Cross units and various detached units. The University Hospital has also set aside 250 beds for the special use of the army and navy. A number of the University's laboratories were turned over to the Government for the use of its special experts. During the spring of 1917 there were almost 2000 men enrolled in a voluntary student battalion, who pursued a course on military tactics under Colonel William Kelly. During the winter of 1918 a new research program in physics was established under Major Charles T. Griffith, in which about 900 students were enrolled.

"WORK OR FIGHT" IN EFFECT, IDLERS SEEK EMPLOYMENT

Jurisdiction in Carrying Out Rule Left to Local Draft Boards. Nonessential Positions Being Vacated.

Fair Sex in Jobs

The "work or fight" ultimatum to persons within the draft age employed at "non-essential" industries went into effect today.

Contrary to general impressions hundreds of those affected by the edict, recently issued as a war-time necessity, have already taken up war work, which is evidenced by the appearance of the fairer sex and men above the draft age in places formerly held by the twenty-one to thirty-one-year-olds.

Entire jurisdiction in the disposition of the registrants in the work or fight order is left to the local draft boards. Samuel I. Buck, chairman of local draft board No. 46, Fourth street and Snyder avenue, today explained the mode of procedure the boards are taking.

Mr. Buck said that every registrant will be called before the boards and inquiry made as to what he is now doing. When he is willing to take up a war work instead of his present position his name will be placed upon a card and registered. But, however, where there is no inclination toward this direction, the question of taking the registrant from his present deferred rating will be taken up.

ICEBERGS IN SEA LANES

Great Fields off New Jersey, Reported by Vessel Captains

Incoming ships are reporting immense icebergs in the Atlantic in latitudes due east of this city. Bergs floating in the sea lanes are said to be making it extremely difficult for navigation and ships are often forced thirty miles off their usual course. Some of the bergs are of immense size and height, masters of ships report. A ship captain who recently arrived in port reported encountering an ice field of considerable proportion due east of this city. He said some of the bergs were a quarter of a mile long and in some cases nearly 100 feet in height. He said he was forced to steer his vessel southward to find an opening in the field through which it could be driven.

MOTORBOATS HERE MUST BE INSPECTED

Investigation Ordered to See if Federal Laws Are Being Observed

Inspectors of navigation have been ordered to start an investigation of all motorboats operating on local waters, to ascertain if Federal laws regarding their equipment are being complied with. Charles R. Kurtz, surveyor of customs, has issued orders for the inspection, along with a statement regarding the requirement of the laws with regard to motor launches, and has ordered a strict patrol of the rivers during the next three months.

A statement made by Mr. Kurtz said: "All motorboats, when operating, should have the following equipment: Approved appliances for extinguishing burning gasoline; an approved life preserver, or similar appliance, for each person on board, capable of sustaining afloat for a continuous period of twenty-four hours a weight of not less than twenty pounds; a whistle, foghorn or bell, capable of producing proper signals which can be heard at least one-half mile; carry two copies of Pilot Rules aboard. In addition, proper lights must be displayed at night when operating or while at anchor. The Philadelphia district embraces the eastern portion of Pennsylvania, all of Delaware and all of New Jersey, excepting the territory adjacent to New York. It includes all navigable waters along the New Jersey coast from Bay Head south to Cape May, the Delaware Bay, the Delaware River, the Schuylkill River and the Susquehanna River.
