GOSSIP OF THE STREET LITTLE CHANGE IN MARKET

EXPECTED FOR REST OF WEEK UNLESS GERMAN DRIVE OPENS

Fixing of Price of Copper Fails to Produce Response Looked for-Bethlehem Steel Plans Cause Comment-Gossip of the Street

IF ANY ONE expected the stock market to be very much different from the average pre-holiday session he was doomed to disappointment on Wednesday. The bulk of business was comparatively small, although prices remained firm. Not much change is looked for in the general trend of stock prices for the remainder of the week.

Some disappointment was expressed in certain quarters that the copper stocks did not respond as much as was expected on the announcement of the new fixed price of twenty-six cents a pound. Some brokers say that all the copper companies were making money at the old price and that there was every reason to expect a sharp advance on the publication of the revised price. The increase, however, was received very favorably by a majority of bankers and brokers, the usual comment being that it showed the honest desire of the Government to help business.

United States Steel, as usual, kept the lead. As showing the condition of the market, a prominent house said it had never so many accounts on its books as at present or fewer stocks. It ascribed the prevailing conditions largely to a new element in the stock market, which has been and is being recruited from the ranks of the Liberty Bond buyers, and who are in the market for investment and hot for specu-This element, it says, is largely made up of persons who never lation. owned a bond or any other security before.

The war news, which continues favorable, had little or no effect on The market this week, and unless the Germans begin their big drive at once it is possible that war news may cut no figure in influencing the market for the remainder of the week.

Bethlehem Steel Plans Stir Interest

Among the few subjects discussed in the financial district on Wednesday was the new financing contemplated by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Some bankers are of the opinion that the Bethlehem Company is not in any particular need of new financing at the present time, but that the officials of the concern are wisely looking ahead so as to be prepared to take up $14,000,000 of the $50,000,000 notes which mature in February, 1919. The remaining $26,000,000 will be met by the maturing of that amount of British Treasury notes which are a part of the collateral behind that note issue.

It is said that it will be much easier to arrange for its 1919 maturities at the present time rather than to wait until the coming fail, when the flotation of another and larger Liberty Loan is being arranged for. The remainder of the proceeds of this $50,000,000 proposed issue, it is said, will go to provide additional working capital.

When commenting on this proposed issue, a well-known broker said he understood it will take the form of a note and will embody several novel features which heretofore have not been a part of bankers' plans for the financing of industrial concerns. In the past the Bethlehem Corporation has successfully financed its needs in the open market and any advances made by the Government have been for small amounts.

An authority on the matter said that the Bethlehem Company has at present unfilled orders for $500,000,000 on its books, made up mainly from Government contracts for ships, munitions, etc.

The report of the Federal Trade Commission accusing in almost violent terms the officials of certain large concerns with the grossest and most high-handed methods of profiteering is still finding an occasional echo of denunciation in the financial district, where, if half true, it should have produced a revolution. A prominent banker in the middle of a discussion on the subject asked where the line should be drawn between fair or even good profits and profiteering. He contended that the relative value of the dollar today compared with its purchasing power at the beginning of the war had not been taken into consideration by the Federal Trade Commission in making its report, otherwise It would not appear so drastic.

"But it is more difficult still to draw the line between profiteering and patriotism," he continued. "There is a tendency to denounce men and corporations for making liberal profits, when as a matter of fact the concerns that have made the most money out of this war have at the same time done most for the Government, because they used their excess profits as a basis for extending their business so as to further Increase their services."

While this is acknowledged in the main as being correct, the prevailing opinion in financial circles is that in some well-known instances there has been a shameless orgy of profiteering, whose punishment should be brought about at once by the Federal Government.
