Continued from Page One... Parade and Demonstration The program includes a mammoth parade, participated in by United States marines and sailors from the navy yard, various other military organizations, such as the home defense guards, and civic and fraternal organizations.

Officers had great difficulty in holding back the victorious doughboys in order to keep the line straight... "We were so busy chasing Germans we haven't had time to pay any attention to the show, believed to be scheduled for daybreak."

The element of surprise has been the great factor in the Franco-American success... "The American reserves received orders to move to the battline at 5 p. m. Wednesday. Rushed forward in trucks and camions, they arrived without marching distance about midnight. They began their hike without delay and reached the front only a short time before the zero hour, when they advanced and started chasing the boches they apparently were as fresh as ever."
