Apparently there is no prospect of stalled. Construction of a railroad siding for the more convenient transportation of the wounded also would be undertaken. The day started out scorchingly hot, cellpsing even the temperatures of yesterday. At 11 o'clock this morning the mercury, pausing for a brief while in its flight, stood at 30. Yesterday, at the same hour, it was 88.

The humidity today is 68 per cent. Yesterday it was 48. What little air there was stirring came in the form of a fickle breeze from the south.

The high temperature for this date is 36, which was recorded in 1914. It is likely the temperature today will equal, if not exceed this mark. Yesterday's maximum of 34 was the highest for that date since 1885, when a record of 97 was established.

The plan to build new structures supersedes the one of turning over to the Government five city buildings which are now nearing completion on the farms. These, a Government expert says, are fine for the purpose for which they are planned, but not suited for convalescent hospitals.
