Danville, Pa., July 24—Mickey, a famous cat that was submarined with the Texel and held up the captain of the Hun sea wolf for five minutes, came near to losing another of his nine lives last evening. Mickey was saved only by an operation performed at the Gelsinger Hospital. Dr. H. L. Foss removed a needle from the cat's throat. Later Mickey came out of the ether and was taken back to his home.

"Marshall and Riley had been in a ruined hut that was within hailing distance of No Man's Land and which occupied the first floor of an old dwelling from which the roof had been bombed some time ago. Here they were operating from behind a bulwark of sandbags as they served the troops. In this locality no person can appear above ground except at night. Marshall and Riley sallied forth from behind the sandbags at night whenever the signal came, after a raid, to retrieve what wounded they could from No Man's Land. Just a few days before they moved up to supplant the women an old stable next to their hut was bombed clean off its base. The debris covered them but did no great damage.

How Fruit Flies Spread

The Bermudas probably would not now be infested by the Mediterranean fruit fly had not a sailing vessel, bound for New York from the Mediterranean region during Civil War times, been blown from her course and forced to unload her cargo containing infested fruits at St George. The Mediterraneau fruit fly did not become established in Australia until steamships and cold storage made it possible for the infested Mediterranean countries to ship oranges to Perth and Sydney. With the pest established in eastern Australia the ships plying between Australia and Hawaii carried the maggets to Honolulu. and today inspectors of the State of California and the United States are intercepting infested fruits on ships arriving at San Francisco and San Pedro from Honolulu and Hilo.
