REYNOLDS AND TAYLOR STARS IN MIDSUMMER HANDICAP AT MERION

By WILLIAM H. EVANS THE honors in both the midsummer handicap and the class' tournament yesterday went to B. Irving Taylor, a tall, slim, sandy-haired youngster from North Hills, who not only won the midsummer handlcap with a net score of 70 and the class tournament in Class A with a gross score of $2, but who in a stroke competition (being unable to addition registered the third lowest gross and a marker) should they be disquali-

Taylor Is Junior

Taylor played in the last junior championship and he has a tremendous wal-lop. He defeated Herbert Calves in the opening round, but went down to de-feat in the second battle. He played some very excellent golf yesterday and, with a card that had no birds or threes and only two sixes, and both of these on par five holes, he was as steady as a on par five holes, he was as steady as a ock. He had ten fours and six fives. While Taylor was still out and with nost of the cards returned, it looked as if the honors would go to R. L. Mishler, of the Country Club of Lansdowne. He had the best outgoing round of the day, a 41, and while it took him three more a 41, and while it took him three more strokes coming home, his gross of 85 looked good for Class A and his net of 74 seemed an apparently sure winner of the handicap. As it was, he won second prize in Class A. The great majority of the players took more strokes for the harder outjourney than the barden and he was one of the Taylor had the best score for the last nine holes and he was the only player to break forty on either journey. I am referring only to the players who con. that the players turned in higher scores for the midsummer event than would have occurred if the tournaments had tested in the class tournament.

Reynolds Low Scoring Star

The gross honors of the day went to Walter Reynolds, the Aronimink star, who has been playing some very fine golf this year. Reynolds was out in 39, and when the gallery above the thirteenth green heard this it was ready to wager that his score would be the lowest of the day, as Max Marston had already turned in a trial of 51. In the class tournament there were eighty-three entrants and in the mids numer handlcap the total was eighty-five. The golf association permitted the players to play in three and four ball matches but the change in medal play scoring is a poor one. It is distinctly contrary to the rules of golf. Under Special Rules for Stroke Competitions. Rule 1, Section 2, reads as follows:
Competitors shall play in couples; if from any cause there is a aingle competitor, the committee shall either provide him with a player who shall mark for him or select a marker for him an allow him to play alone.
