ORR CONTINUE Inspectors Will Instruct Business Men in Meaning of Plan -A campaign of education to impart to merchants and business men generally the real significance of "lightless nights" and how they are to be carried out will be undertaken by the eighty-two inspecbe undertaken by the eighty-two inspectors who look after violations of the ruling.

The next "lightness night" is on Monday and between now and then Thomas Lahady, who superintends the enforcement of the plan, believes the inspectors will have an opportunity to explain it to all in their respective districts and that there will be no violations.

The only persons who did not live up to the plan this week, he said, did not understand the order, but promised co-operation when the inspectors explained it.

To the Point Breeze Amusement Company, operating an amusement park in South Philadelphia, goes the honor of making the greatest cut in lights, he announced. The company cut the electricity ration by about 8000 lights. Some parts of the park were so dark last night that inspectors ordered the relighting of some lamps.
