

THIS MONTH'S GREAT PROGRAM

Director Says Promised Vessels Will Be Supplied or He'll "Eat His Hat"

It would not give the ships this year that we promised the War Council, I'll eat my hat, said Charles M. Schwab.

The Emergency Fleet Corporation will turn out more ships during this month than the War Department's program calls for. This is the optimistic prediction of Charles M. Schwab.

Mr. Schwab's prediction came during an address to 300 members of the Emergency Fleet Club at a dinner in the Bellevue-Stratford last night, after he had declared that, despite the fact that the month of July showed a decrease in tonnage turned out, as compared with the month of June, it exceeded the program considerably.

Chairman Edward N. Hurley, of the United States shipping board, and United States Senator Duncan P. Fletcher, of Florida, were among the guests.

Mr. Hurley and Senator Fletcher both preceded Mr. Schwab on the speakers' list. Chairman Hurley declared that the fleet must have more ships for supplying the American overseas forces. Senator Fletcher declared the creation of the shipping board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation the wisest and most vital move possible for the safety and well-being of the country. He lauded the work being done at Hog Island.

Says He Is an Optimist

Mr. Schwab, in opening his address, declared himself an optimist, but never in enthusiasm and "go-aheadiveness."

"In the last four months we have placed 1,000,000 tons of shipment into commission, 800,000 tons of which were delivered in the last three months," he said.

"What if we did not produce more ships in July than we did in June? It produced more than the schedule called for and I predict that the month of August will show the same result. Don't believe in losing one iota of our nerve and our energy."

"Take our western trip. Everywhere we went we marveled at the spirit of enthusiasm of the shipyard workers, and the fact that they were working day and night. Joe Tynan and Dave Rodgers are turning out from 50,000 to 60,000 tons of ships per year per yard. Why can't we do the same? Hog Island and Bristol are not doing as well as they should, but they soon will be ready, and know that we shall be in the race for tonnage honors."

"I would rather be easy with the men and get ships than be unpleasant and not get them. I am a great believer in the human psychology of work. As a man of great business experience, I do not wish to complain about anything, but we shall more than fulfill our program for this year and next and I promise Senator Fletcher here that we shall do so."

"We have given the War Department the same kind of assurance that we have given to the shipping tonnage flying the American flag out of 135 shipyards, a single one of which has fifty ways, turning out five ships each, with a capacity of 1,750,000 deadweight tons."

"That yard has been built in nine months and nothing like it has ever been in history. Fifty ships can be turned out at the same time, and the same wet basin can berth twenty ships. It is a fact that America is not a beggar ship of ships with a paralyzed, a fettered and emaciated trafficker."

"They have come to make the banner the tallman of a world's shipyard."

STATE HOUSE OPEN SUNDAY

Service Men Get Chance to See Independence Hall

Independence Hall is to be open every Sunday hereafter.

This action is taken by Wilfred Jordan, the curator, especially to give visiting soldiers and sailors an opportunity to visit the historic building. Most of these men are at leisure on Sunday and hundreds have been disappointed to find the building closed.

A big percentage of the service men at liberty here on Sunday desire to visit the State House and the fact that it is closed has held them away from the enjoyment of their holiday.

"LOGUE OFF TICKET," BONNIVELL DEMAND

Democratic Nominee for Governor Insists on Having "Wet" Running Mate

Another demand for the withdrawal of J. Washington Logue as the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor has been made by Municipal Judge Bonnivell, Democratic nominee for Governor. Judge Bonnivell wants Logue to withdraw so that a "wet" from western Pennsylvania can be named to balance up the Bonnivell ticket.

Judge Bonnivell won the Democratic nomination on a "wet" platform. Logue, who won the nomination for Lieutenant Governor, is a former president of the Catholic Total Abstinence Society, and prior to the present election committed himself in favor of the Federal prohibition amendment.

"Logue was nominated for Congress in the Sixth District," says Bonnivell in his latest demand for the withdrawal of Logue, "by an overwhelming majority, and since the President needs Democrats in Congress to uphold him in carrying out his policies, it is Mr. Logue's duty to withdraw from the State ticket and run for Congress."

Judge Bonnivell announced that he was going to reorganize the Democratic party from top to bottom, and branded the Palmer-McCormick faction a "paper organization." He indicated that he would not give the offer of the State committee to help draft a State platform.

"I will give the committee the copy-right in the platform already submitted to the people of Pennsylvania," was his answer.

Judge Bonnivell just returned from a tour of Pennsylvania. He is accompanied by William J. Brennan as head of the Bonnivell organization in Allegheny County.

Two members of the firm of Dagenstein and Arch, Larkin Building, Twenty-second and Arch streets, this city, were arrested today by agents of the Army Intelligence Bureau following their indictment by the special grand jury which has been hearing draft evidence here, on charges of selling remnants of goods used in army contracts.

The men arrested are David Dagenstein and Max Willis. According to the authorities, they have been living in Atlantic City. They were arrested in the office of the firm.

The firm, according to the Federal authorities, has been engaged on contract for some time, making overalls, breeches, used in training camps, barrack bags and bed sacks. They are charged by the Government agents with selling the leftover pieces of goods, which are Government property.

Detective Seem and Coy, formerly of the bomb squad of the New York detective force, who were recently loaned to the Government to investigate cloth frauds, investigated the case against the local men.

By gaining access to the plants of rag dealers they say they obtained the evidence upon which Dagenstein and Willis were indicted.

Both Dagenstein and Willis are said to have made emphatic denial of the charges against them. They admit, the Federal agents say, having sold remnants of cloth, but deny that they were engaged in selling the leftover pieces of goods, which there was no stipulation regarding the disposal of the leftovers.

"But I'm prouder of him than you will ever know. I'm sure he must have killed his share of Germans and maybe John's, too."

Recalls Lincoln's Letter

Listening to such a mother's about her could only remember the words of Abraham Lincoln when he wrote to Mrs. Bixby, after being notified she had lost five sons in battle during the Civil War: "I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they have died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

FRENCH PRAISE VALOR OF RAINBOW DIVISION

Glorious Place in Battle Foreseen by General Duport. MacArthur Comes Home

By the Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 2.

Striking tribute to the valor and fighting efficiency of the Forty-second (Rainbow) Division of the American Army by General Duport, commanding the French Sixth Army Corps in Lorraine, to which the Forty-second was attached up to the middle of last June, is contained in general orders issued by the French commander on June 15 bidding farewell to the Americans when they set out for the battlefront on the Aisne-Marne lines, where they are today proving their mettle in attack.

General Duport said the division was ready to "take a glorious place in the new line of battle" and paid tribute also to the skill of Major General Menoher, commanding and of Colonel (now Brigadier General) Douglas MacArthur, divisional chief of staff. The text of the orders follows:

"As a moment when the Forty-second Infantry Division is leaving the Lorraine front, the commanding general of the Sixth Army Corps desires to do homage to the fine military qualities which it has continuously exhibited and to the services which it has rendered in the Baccarat sector.

"The offensive ardor, the sense for the utilization and the organization of terrain, as for the liaison of the arms, the spirit of method, the discipline shown by all its officers and men, the inspiration animating them, prove that at the first call they can be ready to take a glorious place in the new line of battle."

"The commanding general of the Sixth Army Corps expresses his deep gratitude to the Forty-second Division for its precious collaboration; he particularly honors the distinguished commander of this division, General Menoher, the officers under his orders, and the brave soldiers recruited by Colonel MacArthur."

"It is with a sincere regret that the Forty-second Division departs. But the bonds of affectionate comradeship which have been formed here will not be broken; for us, in faithful memory, are united the living and the dead of the Forty-second Division, men who are leaving for hard combats and those who, after having nobly sacrificed their lives in the east, now rest there, guarded over piously by friends."

Reminiscence of Warm Esteem

These sentiments of warm esteem will be more deeply affirmed during the impending struggles where the fate of free peoples is to be decided. Each soldier of the Forty-second, contribute valiantly to the triumph of justice and right."

General Duport, in a separate report, commanding the Sixth Army Corps, said the Forty-second Division departs. But the bonds of affectionate comradeship which have been formed here will not be broken; for us, in faithful memory, are united the living and the dead of the Forty-second Division, men who are leaving for hard combats and those who, after having nobly sacrificed their lives in the east, now rest there, guarded over piously by friends.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR LAUNCHING

Hurley and Bowles Announce Details of Hog Island Event

MRS. WILSON SPONSOR

President, Diplomats, Statesmen and Officials Will Attend Ceremonies Monday

Final details for the launching of the Quisconk, the first freighter to be built at Hog Island, were announced last evening at a luncheon given at Governor Hurley's residence by Mrs. Wilson, wife of the Governor.

At first it was determined to keep the Delaware clear of all vessels for an hour before until an hour after the launching, but it is likely that this edict will be modified, and that a certain number of private motorboats will be allowed to lie out in the stream, so those aboard may see the proceedings in comfort.

Foreign diplomats, members of the House and Senate, high officials from Washington, Mayor Brumbaugh, Governor Brumbaugh and city and State officials, shipbuilders from the Middle West and Far West, are included in the list of those who will be present. The employees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation will make the journey from the city to Hog Island in specially chartered motorboats, and will, in all probability, view the launching from the crowd.

FIFTH WARD DENIED MISTRIAL

Newspaper Reports Unfair, Withdraw Juror, Defense Asks Court

SCURRILOUS, SAYS GRAY

Judge Doesn't Agree With Counsel and Orders Case to Proceed

By a Staff Correspondent

West Chester, Pa., Aug. 2.

The defense this morning asked Judge J. Frank E. Hause to declare a mistrial in the Fifth Ward conspiracy case because of "absolutely unfair" newspaper reports of the trial, now nearing the end of its third week. The Court overruled the motion, which was presented by William A. Gray, attorney for the seven defendants.

The defense counsel offered in evidence copies of two Philadelphia morning newspapers of yesterday and today.

"The defense has contended," Gray told the Court, "that much of the publicity gained by the Third District public during the time preceding and about the trial of this case has been caused by scurrilous and untrue newspaper articles."

"I refer to that because, generally speaking, certain Philadelphia newspapers have been absolutely unfair and tendentious in their reporting, and I feel naturally to prevent a fair trial."

Gray said his attention this morning was called to the fact that two Philadelphia newspapers, the headlines and articles, he asserted, were based on matter that "is pure fabricating."

"My suggestion," he continued, "in no way to the effect that I have proof that these articles would influence the jury, but when we consider human nature it is possible."

Court Overrules Gray

"My suggestion," he continued, "in no way to the effect that I have proof that these articles would influence the jury, but when we consider human nature it is possible."

Gray then moved a juror be withdrawn and a mistrial be declared "by reason of these articles." The defense attorney offered in evidence copies of the newspapers of the issues of August 1 and August 2.

"The motion is overruled and exceptions noted for the defense," ruled Judge Hause.

Several patrol sergeants and patrolmen who served under Lieutenant Bennett testified this morning at the defense hearing. They were unanimous in declaring Bennett a good police lieutenant.

Police Deny Political Correlation

This morning's session was occupied almost exclusively with testimony of police officers who served under Lieutenant Bennett testified this morning at the defense hearing. They were unanimous in declaring Bennett a good police lieutenant.

Warranted Annoys Judge

A wrangle occurred between Taulane and Gray during the examination of Patrolman Dennis Barry. A side remark by the defense counsel caused it. Taulane complained to the Court the comment was unbecoming, but Judge Hause merely said "Taulane, Taulane."

"It is so utterly foreign to Chester County soil," the jurist added, "it is a pernicious practice peculiar to Philadelphia," he rejoined in a staccato. Gray smiled broadly.

Patrolman Thomas Eden proved a beligerent witness under Taulane's cross-examination. He had been in the force five years, he said; had taken no interest in politics for twenty years, and never heard politics discussed in the Third District since his appointment as patrolman. Taulane asked Eden if his legal residence was in Camden. To first asserted he had a "summer home in the country," but admitted the house was in the city of Camden.

Club Membership as Camouflage

Patrolman Boyd, the eighth witness called, asserted he voted for Carey, but joined the Deutsch club. He was never threatened with transfer, he said, from the Third District.

Taulane seized on the first admission. Judge Hause smiled.

"You don't blame him for that," he said, "I have to camouflage these days."

DIX MODEL SOLDIER

Sergeant John Faith, Held on Old Chicago Charge, Has Excellent Record

Held at City Hall awaiting transportation to Chicago where he must face a charge of murder, John Faith, twenty-eight years old, a soldier, arrested at Camp Dix yesterday, has the good wishes of all his comrades, and the commendation of his commander, who wants him back if he is acquitted.

Faith, his commander says, has made an excellent record as a soldier. He enlisted with the 312th Engineers several months ago and by his good qualities earned first a corporality and then a sergeantcy and was slated for lieutenantcy, the officers say. But the latter honor must await the pleasure of the court.

Faith was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Morrison on a five-year-old murder charge. In 1913 a mail carrier named Bennett was held up, robbed and murdered in a Chicago park. A man named John Rose was arrested at the time and charged with the murder. In connection with the case, Faith was arrested on a charge of murder. SOLDIERS' DANCE A SUCCESS

Men at Harriman Decide to Repeat Entertainment Weekly

Debutantes in Philadelphia, New York and elsewhere, are invited to attend themselves in the dreary mazes of the wait with officers and men, 100, of Company of Cavalry Battalion, 2, 8, 2, 8, N. A., at Harriman last night.

The soldiers who guarded the Merchants' shipyard had the time of their lives and everybody enjoyed the evening so thoroughly that hereafter every Thursday evening is to be devoted to the same sort of amusement.

The dance took place in the company's barracks and one sergeant who stood at the door said today the girls arrived so fast he could not keep track on them, and the society women appeared at their best. With many of the soldiers it was a first experience of dancing talent that had never come their way, and while some were a little nervous at first, all soon struck the new stride and stepped around the big floor with ease and grace.

The women all heartily assisted. Lieutenants Stanton, Little, Withers and Rourke were also there and "right in it."

The barracks was decorated for the occasion with a regular weekly affair. The women all heartily assisted. Lieutenants Stanton, Little, Withers and Rourke were also there and "right in it."

PARTNERS ARRESTED IN ARMY FRAUD CASE

Contracting Firm Sold Remnants Belonging to Government, is Charged

URGED TO SPEED SHELLS

Employees in Frankford Plant Told Importance of Work

A patriotic meeting designed to impart to every man and woman the importance of speed production of shells was held at noon today at the plant of the Frankford Arsenal.

The meeting, attended by several hundred enthusiastic workmen, was arranged by the army ordnance department. Captain Frank Stewart, of the British field artillery, who has just come from France, was the principal speaker.

"Every one of you men," he said, "your job and put your whole heart and soul into it. You are making shells for the British and the Germans would be glad to take over your shells."

SHIPWORKERS DINE

That one hundred men of the engineering department of the Metropolitan Shipyard at Langhorne, took in a "shipyard dinner" at the Bucks County Club at Langhorne, Pa., last night, was reported by a shipyard official.

Among those present were W. W. Bloom, president of the company; J. C. McKeon, general manager; and C. C. Keenan, assistant general manager. The dinner was a grand success and the shipping departments were all well represented.

The men sang themselves while others were singing and dancing. The peaches, pears, apples, cantaloupe and other things were served. The dinner was a grand success and the shipping departments were all well represented.

SHORTAGE OF POWER

To Be Taken Up Today

Baker, Daniels and Hurley to Attend Conference in Washington

Shortage of electric power for shipyards and plants here engaged in war work has become so apparent that a conference has been called at Washington today, at which Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Chairman of the Shipping Board Hurley will discuss relief plans.

Charles F. Pies, vice president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, announced that the current shortage has become menacing. Unless radical means remedy the situation are at once adopted, ship production, particularly in the Delaware yards, will be hard hit, he said.

"The fuel situation is very bad," Mr. Pies said. "The immense and unprecedented expansion of pre-war plants, coupled with the tremendous creation of new war industries and shipyards, has resulted in too great a drain upon electric power-furnishing facilities."

"In addition, the fuel situation has complicated already existing evils. From the fact that the Philadelphia Electric Company has asked the Government for $20,000,000 to enlarge its generating plants, it is probable that the conference in Washington will have to bring up this request for its decision.

"I expect immediate action will be taken to determine whether or not the Government should take over the electric power-furnishing facilities."

12,300 CLASS 1 MEN IN NAVY AND MARINES

Murdock Furnishes Figures Showing How State Has Contributed

Pennsylvania has sent 12,300 men who are in Class 1 of the draft to the navy or marine corps, according to figures compiled by Major W. G. Murdock, chief draft officer for the State. This is a total greater than the last big movement to Camp Lee, the largest single movement this year.

Major Murdock's figures show that of 9500 of the 1917 draft class and 2800 of the 1918 class were released either to the navy or the marine corps. In Philadelphia alone, there were 4250 of the 1917 class and 950 of this year's class given releases that they might go to the sea forces.

On Sunday and Monday, 2168 negroes will leave this city for Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O.

The quotas for 600 men to be sent to Syracuse on Monday for special training as guards at ports of embarkation will be taken from Camp Meade's territory, owing to traffic conditions. The movements to Camp Custer for Class 1 men are now under way and men are being made ready to start for Camp Wadsworth Monday.

Major Murdock has issued a circular calling attention of all local boards to the difference between slackers, delinquents and deserters.

A slacker is officially defined as "one who wilfully fails to register, or a delinquent as a registrant who fails to file his questionnaire or having filed his questionnaire fails to report for physical examination."

A deserter is "one who has been reported by his local board to the adjutant of the army on form 1018 in accordance with the provisions of Article 14, 38, R. or one who has been reported to the adjutant of the army by the adjutant of the State through his delinquency."

SOLDIER'S BODY IN CREEK

Authorities Believe Was Camp Dix Man

A body of an unidentified soldier, believed to have been Michael Jowitz, twenty-second Infantry, was found floating in Big Timber Creek between the city and the shipyard. It was in a badly decomposed condition, and had been in the water about a week, it was determined. The body was sent to the morgue at Woodbury.

In a pocket of the man's uniform was a letter from a brother-in-law to the dead man, addressed to "Michael Jowitz, 1212 Locust street, Philadelphia." The letter had been canceled and the letter was sent from the camp to an address in Gloucester, when Company K was shipped out a few days ago, when it was sent to Syracuse, N. Y.

Walter E. Bloom, of Gloucester, was in charge of the recovery of the body, which he asked be shipped to Dorchester.
