Pershing Reports Names of 203 Soldiers Killed in Marne Drive—Marines Announce Ten Names. New List of 300 at Hand

Washington, Aug. 5.—Casualties among the American troops in the severe fighting in which they have been engaged since July 15, when the German offensive was launched and halted at the Marne, are now being reported in daily lists from General Pershing, thought no estimate of the total has yet been received.

Today's army list contained 407 names, the largest number reported in a single day. Of the men named 203 were killed in action, 37 died of wounds and 148 were wounded, 48 seriously and 100 degrees undetermined. The missing in action numbered only three. In addition to the army list the marine list today contained ten names—nine killed in action and one died of wounds.

Men from forty-six States were named in the lists, with the predominating number from any one State. This was taken to indicate the casualties were scattered throughout many units. The States not represented in the lists were Arizona, and Delaware.

An additional list of 259 names, bringing the total for the day to 716, was checked at the War Department today in preparation for publication in morning papers of tomorrow. It was learned that this list contained 256 killed in action and 43 wounded.

GERMANS RETIRE TO SAVE TROOPS

Ludendorff Explains Stand in Present Field Was Not Worth Cost

RESPECTS AMERICANS

Amsterdam, Aug. 5.—The enemy vacated us on July 15, and we thereupon, as early as the evening of the sixteenth, broke off operations. It is always our endeavor to stop an undertaking as soon as the stake is not worth the cost. I consider it one of my principal duties to spare the blood and strength of our soldiers.

General Ludendorff, first quarter-master general of the German army, said this to an assemblage of German newspaper correspondents, who were received by Field Marshal von Hindenburg and himself, according to dispatches received here.

Referring to General Foch, General Ludendorff continued: "His plan was undoubtedly to cut off the entire area of our front south of the Aisne by a breakthrough on the flank. But with the proved leadership of our seventh and ninth armies that was quite impossible.

"We reckoned with an attack on July 18 and were prepared for it. The enemy experienced very heavy losses and the Americans and African auxiliary troops, which we do not underestimate, suffered severely.

"By the afternoon of the 19th we already were fully masters of the situation and shall remain so. We left the abandoned ground to the enemy, according to our regular plan. 'Gain of ground' and 'Marne' are only catch words without importance for the issue of the war. We are now, as before, confident."

Field Marshal von Hindenburg also dilated on how economically the troops of Germany had been used. He said: "This circumstance and supply con-

Fatalities Total 155, Setting New Low Record

Washington, Aug. 5.—Figures on army aviation fatalities in this country, made public today for the period between September 1, 1917, and July 20, 1918, show a total of 155 deaths, an average of 660 for each hour of actual training flight. Officials believe this is a new record, equaling if not bettering the lowest marks of the Allied air service and being far lower than the German and Austrian aviation records.
