

UNCLE SAM SAYS:

“Help Win the War by Sticking to Your Job”

Workers of Philadelphia, you have a man's part to play in this desperate struggle against the Hun. The success of the war, the lives of your comrades “over there,” depend on how well YOU do your bit here at home.

Uncle Sam needs more ships—he must have them—and at once. He needs rifles, ammunition, clothing, locomotives and a thousand and one things vital to maintaining a vast army in the field.

Workers of Philadelphia, It's Up to You to Supply Them

The man who sticks to his job these days, who throws his whole heart and soul into his work, who bends every energy to complete the task in hand in record time, who gives his employer the best there is in him—that man is serving his country just as faithfully and as well as though he were fighting in the trenches.

You are the armorers of liberty, forging the weapons that will free the world from Prussian barbarism. Every blow of your hammers is a thrust at the heart of the Kaiser. Strike—and strike hard—you soldiers of America's invincible industrial army.

And remember this—by sticking to your job you not only help to win the war, but YOU ADVANCE YOUR OWN BEST INTERESTS.

Turn a deaf ear to the “lure of the elsewhere,” the glittering promises that higher wages and an easier job await you in some other town.

Nowhere else in the entire United States can you earn such high wages as now are being paid right here in Philadelphia. Nowhere else are living and working conditions so ideal. In no other city will you have such a golden chance to save money and own your own home as in

Philadelphia, the City of Opportunity

This campaign is supported in the interests of the “Win-the-War” movement by Lukens Steel Company, Coatesville, Pa.

A. F. Huston, President