GOSSIP OF THE STREET

INDIVIDUAL AND BUSINESS ECONONMY IS BEING TAUGHT TO HELP AMERICA WIN THE WAR

Richard L. Austin, Chairman of Philadelphia Reserve Bank, Distributes Information on Extensive Conservation of Resources in England-Gossip of Street

IN AN effort to preach as widely as possible the doctrine of economy for both the individual and business as an aid to winning the war. Richard L. Austin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. through the aid of banking institutions in this reserve district, has been distributing a small pamphlet entitled. "Economy a Gospel in England Now," from the pen of H. Gordon Selfridge, a large retailer of London, formerly a Chicago merchant.

This is only one of many methods used to educate the public to re member that the nation is at war and, therefore, it is essential that expenditures should be curtailed as much as possible in order that funds may be available for Federal use in prosecuting its campaign against German autocracy.

With the booklet Mr. Austin has sent a letter, in which he says: "The clear exposition in this article of England's stand on the question of economy in individual and corporation expenditures and of the conversion of factories working on luxuries or nonessential products into factories for the production of products which are absolutely essention naturally raises the question of the progress which we are making along similar lines in this country.

We know of certain outstanding examples of the conversion of manufactories from nonessential to essential production, but, as a matter of further information, we would appreciate it very much if you would write us concerning your views on the subjects referred to in this article and the extent to which such conversion has taken place in your community, referring specifically to other steps which you believe should be taken in order that all the country's resources may be concentrated upon the single endeavor of winning the war in the shortest possible

Economy of Individuals in England

In his article Mr. Selfridge lays special stress on the need of individual economy, and on this subject writes, in part:

"Spending for oneself in such a time of national need is now recog nized as a distinctly unsocial act, and treasonable if carried to excess What difference is there between having cargoes of needed materials sunk by enemy submarines or having them consumed at home for mere personal gratification? It took us some time to see the truth of this,

"Every thinking Englishman, before spending for himself or his fambut every manufacturer and merchant in England today knows the gospel or 'Goods and Services,' and the curtailment of domestic spending is everywhere advocated.

ily, stops to consider, not whether he can afford it, but whether the nation can afford to have him spend. Economy is being constantly urged by the newspapers, even though for the time it means less advertising revenue. But they realize, as do the merchants, that the war can not be provisioned, munitioned or financed from personal profits in business not essential to the war."

Big Banks Conserve Credit

From New York comes the information that directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank system have adopted resolutions instructing officers of that institution to express to the banks throughout this district the importance and necessity of conserving credit. The suggestion is made that this can be done in three ways, namely, by endeavoring to procure gradual reduction of loans now carried for nonproductive or nondistributive purposes, by gradually reducing the amount of credit granted for the purposes not clearly necessary for the prosecution of the war, or the health and comfort of the people and by requesting borrowers of all classes to keep their demands for credit down to the minimum.

This action is in sympathy with the views recently expressed by the Federal Reserve Board at Washington, in a letter addressed to all banks and trust companies in the system.

A concerted campaign of action by the banking institutions of the New York district, according to the statement issued by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, will lead to a spirit of economy in credit transactions and enable the Government to command the credit thus saved and apply it with full force to the winning of the war.

At the same time, banks are cautioned that nothing should be done to cause undue embarrassment, or affect necessary credit.

Liberty Loan Notes Mature

Liberty Loan notes given by borrowers to banks to carry purchasers the third Liberty Loan mature today, and some selling of the bonds is believed to be due to this fact. The third Liberty Loan is dated May 9, 1918, and many subscribers made payment in full on that date, paying in many cases 10 per cent of the subscription and borrowing the remaining o per cent from their banks.

The leading banks in this city, New York, Boston and Chicago, and in other cities, extended ninety-day loans to Liberty Loan purchasers at the same rate of interest as borne by the bond, or at the rate of 414 per cent per annum. It is these notes that become due today, and the tight money market and the fact that renewals where extended will be made at a higher rate of interest, may have led some subscribers to sell their 414s in the market.

Although there was no agreement among the cities, the first loans for ninety days were generally upon the same terms. It is expected that many borrowers will be able to pay off their notes in full, or where renewals are asked that the amount of the loan will be substantially reduced. The fact that the banks will charge a higher rate on the renewals will tend to bring this about, and a reduction in loans is necessary to clear the way for the fourth Liberty Loan, the campaign for which is to be started next month, and to prevent the banks from carrying an undue proportion of the load.

Where renewals are asked the leading banks in this city will charge of 1 per cent above the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank for loans on Government securities. This rate at present is 414 per cent, so that the renewal rate will be 4% per cent.

It was reported that some banks may charge more than 4% per cent. although no figures were mentioned. At the time of the third Liberty Loan campaign it was reported that Chicago banks had agreed to charge a uniform rate of 41, per cent for ninety-day loans, but the loans must mature on or before September 1. Where necessary, the banks agreed to renew loans for another ninety days at 5 per cent. No reports have been received here lately as to whether any change will be made in the Chicago program or what rates banks in New York and other large cities will charge on renewals.

Public Utilities Get Much Help

State Public Utility Commissions and other local rate-regulating bodies continue to act on the recommendations of President Wilson and other high governmental authorities by granting relief to public utility corporations in the way of increased rates to compensate for the largely increased cost of operation.

The Illinois Public Utility Commission has approved an increase of 271/2 per cent in the rates of the Peoples' Gas Light & Coke Co., Chicago. This advance is 21/2 per cent less than the amount asked, the company having applied for an increase of 30 per cent in its rates. The new rate for gas in Chicago. 88 cents a thousand cubic feet, an advance of 18 cents a thousand cubic feet over the former rate, took effect August 1.

Charles E. Hughes, former Governor of New York, and the author the New York Public Utility law, who was appointed as referee in the complaint of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company against the 80-cent gas rate, has declared that rate to be unconstitutional and confiscatory.

Mr. Hughes, in his decision, called attention to the high cost of all materials entering into the manufacture of gas and said that prospects for the year 1918 were for no improvement in conditions.

Public, utility subsidiaries of Cities Service Company have already obtained a number of increases in rates and applications for numerous other advances are now pending.

Among the advances which have been granted subsidiaries of Cities Service Company are the following: Danbury-Domestic and power rates increased 10 to 20 per cent; Alliance-Power rates increased 20 per cent; Warren-Steel power rates (which comprise the larger portion usiness) are taken care of adequately by coal clauses which to date automatically raised the rates by 35 per cent; Massillon, lic Service Company and ays and Light impany—Have been granted increases *ichlan Toledo s amounting to from 20 to 30 per cent; Meridian has put creases in domestic and power rates ranging from 20 to into effec 40 per ce Bristol Gas and Electric Company-Power rates raised 20 per cent

BUSINESS CAREER OF PETER FLINT

Gilleppie. This is what she wrote:

Dear Peter—Lucy and I are coming to New York tomorrow to do a bit of shopping. Your mother wants Lucy to get a few things for her and doesn't want her to take the trip alone, so she asked me to go with her.

Three days ago, Lucy said she was going to write to you and let you know, but up to now she hasn't done so, and, fearing that she wouldn't get around to it, she told me to write to you. So I said to Lucy, "But, my dear, he is your brother and I am only a friend of the family." "But," quoth Lucy, "surely a friend of the family can write for me," so here I write.

Why don't you try to meet us? We are coming on the sleeper and if you were to meet us at the Grand Central at 7:30 we would allow you, to take us to breakfast. We will look for you by the information rotunds. If you aren't there by quarter of eight, and if you aren't there by quarter of eight.

Mary has such pretty hair. It is light chestnut color, awfully fine, and she has a funny little wisp of it which keeps coming over her forchead, and every now and then she has a habit of tucking it back. Then, when she gets excited, it pops out again. I like to see her get excited—her eyes seem to dance so. I was possessed with an insane desire to pinch the end of her ear, which was sticking out from under her hair. Her little ears lie flat against her head -they don't stick out like a couple of bat's wings, as Rosie's do; that isn't fair, for Rosie's ears only stick out a little bit-and when Mary laughs, somehow I think of a summer afternoon and a little brook running over the pebbles. Gosh! I guess there's something the matter with me. I'll be breaking out into poetry or pimples or something nex: But, just the same, Mary is a I wish Rosie could dress as nicely as Mary does.
