COLONEL'S WIFE EAGER

Mrs. Kemp Receives Letter From Commander of 110th, Praising Command

South Philadelphia, "home town" of the gallant old Third Regiment, now the 110th Infantry, is aflame with interest today in the big Allied push beyond the Marne, where the "old Third" boys are making history.

Fresh from the fighting front today came a letter from Colonel George E. Kemp, commander of the 110th, to his wife, at 2626 South Sixteenth street. In it was a laudic reference to the behavior of his men under fire in the present big drive.

"The men behaved well under fire," he wrote. "We feel our men are of a much higher type than the Germans. Brief as was the reference, it was as an accolade for the men of the regiment most of whom hail from southwestern Philadelphia.

Pride, Hope, Anxiety More than a thousand mothers and fathers in that section today have their thoughts turned overseas where their sons are in action. A dozen neighborhoods from Broad to Eleventh or Nineteenth streets, and from Morris street to Snyder avenue are like children when their pride, hope and anxiety are bubbling.

A pardonable pride, tinged with just a bit of anxiety marks the "colonel's lady." Mrs. George E. Kemp, who is the friend and confidant of every soldier's mother in that section. Most of the "boys" she knows personally, and she has scanned the casualty lists anxiously every day for several months, but her pencil has checked up only a few as killed or wounded.

Mrs. Kemp today received her fourteenth letter mailed abroad by her husband. It was numbered seventeen, but she never received the first, second and third letters sent by the colonel. Last Saturday she received six letters in one bundle.

The letter that arrived this morning was dated July 16.

Colonel Praised Men "On the French Fourth of July (July 14) I had dinner with the French general," the colonel wrote. "I had a little rumble, I suppose the papers have a little account of it. We got no sleep that night. We have had some casualties, but that is to be expected. The men behaved splendidly under fire. We feel our men are of a much higher type than the Germans. We have had the opportunity of overlooking about 200 prisoners."

Colonel Kemp said he was billeted in a French chateau about 500 yards from the front. The French are very good to the Americans, he said.

The 110th regiment, Colonel Kemp's command, is made up of what was the Third Regiment of the National Guard and the Tenth Regiment of the National Guard. A large proportion of the Tenth Regiment was composed of men from the western part of the State.

SAVED FROM NIAGARA FALLS

Two Men Imperiled When Scow Breaks From Tug

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 7.—After being marooned on a scow for several hours, two men were rescued from the brink of Niagara Falls for sixteen hours. George Harris of Buffalo, and Gus Lofgren, Swedish immigrant rescued by the Youngstown life-saving crew this morning.

The scow, heavily laden with lumber, was being used in dredging operations. A sheving rack off the head of Goat Island caught the scow, and it held it, swinging the men from quick death. The life-savers succeeded in getting a line to the scow, but the scow was so low in the water that it was impossible to operate a derrick.

This morning a second line was shot across the wreck from the roof of the power house, where the sheving rack of the cable was anchored. The scow was hoisted out by the two men.

CHARGE MALONEY WITH CONSPIRACY

Defense Witness in Fifth Ward Case Tells Startling Story

WM. BURNS IN COURT

Former Val O'Farrell Detective Gives Damaging Testimony—Tells of "Plot"

By a Staff Correspondent West Chester, Aug. 7.—The first link in the conspiracy chain the defense in the Fifth Ward case on trial here hopes to forge about Samuel C. Maloney was made today by James B. Anderson, a lawyer, and Police Lieutenant George Bauewine.

William J. Burns, the detective, was in the crowded courtroom as Anderson and Bauewine testified. With Burns was a man believed to be the Allan Olds Meyers, whose name Maloney claims to "bring" as one of their trump cards.

Anderson and Lieutenant Bauewine testified that they met Maloney on the night of the primary election, September 19, at Broad and Chestnut streets. Maloney told them that he was "feeling sorry that poor fellow was killed." Maloney told them "if it had been me, I would have been there."

Neither Bauewine nor Anderson were cross-examined by the prosecution. Damaging testimony against Maloney, which purpose was to show that Maloney engineered the gunmen's visit to the Fifth Ward, was given by Henry H. Simon, a former Val O'Farrell operative, who worked under Maloney's direction in a Secret Service operative of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Simon testified that he met Maloney in response to a telephone call on the evening of September 18 in front of the Real Estate Trust building.

Thomas B. White, who stands next to Maloney, Simon said, Lieutenant Bennett came along and shook hands with Maloney and then went on to City Hall. Maloney and Simon went to the office of Maloney, Simon said. Lieutenant Bennett asked Simon to do a favor. "Do you know Jim Clarke?" Simon testified Maloney asked him. "I know," Simon testified. "You go down in the vicinity of the station house, Third and Delaware streets," Simon testified Maloney told him.

"You find the man who stands there," Maloney continued. "Tell him to get the boys together and clean out the Finletter Club." Simon testified he met Sullivan near the station house. Sullivan told him to get something from a number on Pine street, which is the headquarters of the Deutsch Club. Simon testified he did not find Sullivan there, but the Magistrate for the Borough told him to go back and tell Maloney. "The Finletter Club has been cleaned out, and they have made a clean job of it," Maloney told him. Maloney told him he had made his report.

Simon testified Maloney told him to go to the next day Maloney told Simon to keep his mouth shut. Simon testified that when he proposed to tell the truth he was discharged. He said he testified that he made a sworn statement to Attorney Robert prior to the hearing before Judge Brown, but it was never used. He was subpoenaed for the trial and called. While in the courtroom, Attorney Robert entered the courtroom with his counsel, James Scarle.

Attacks Rotan's Methods. Rotan, one of the defendants in the case, discharged from the United States naval reserves as "an undesirable," because of his connection with the case, gave today.

He was the last of the seven defendants to take the stand. The witness denied completely in any conspiracy, and declared that he had taken no active part in the Fifth Ward contest, nor had he seen any other officers active in the contest. He knew Maloney and Bennett only by sight prior to his transfer to the Third District. Feldman, who appeared to be the calmest of any of the defendants on the stand, testified that he has been in service in both the army and navy.

The witness said he enlisted in the naval reserves on December 11, last year. He said he was in the 110th Infantry, and was discharged from the war department last night. He was in the 110th Infantry, and was discharged from the war department last night. He was in the 110th Infantry, and was discharged from the war department last night.

Feldman admitted on the stand that he had been discharged from the army and navy. He said he was in the 110th Infantry, and was discharged from the war department last night.

THIEVES RANSACK MAIN LINE HOMES

Enter Residences at Cynwyd and Ardmore While the Owners Are Away

LOOT VALUED AT $4000

Robbers paid a week-end visit to the Main Line Sunday, while owners of handsome residences were at the shore, and got away with $4000 worth of jewelry, clothing and nicknacks.

The thieves evidently had read the society columns, according to the Lower Merion police, because they only tackled homes where the families had gone away. Another feature was that the bulk of the articles taken were such as could be broken open and the contents strewn to old clothes men, rather than the kind that would appeal to the average pawn shop proprietor.

The "clean-up" was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Wilbur, 11 Colwyn road, Cynwyd. The house was ransacked from top to bottom, every locked drawer or closet was broken open and the contents strewn over the floor. Mrs. Wilbur has been unable as yet to provide the police with a complete list of the articles taken, but the value is estimated as between $2000 and $2500.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur were entertaining a party of guests at their cottage at Cape May, N. J., Sunday. Mr. Wilbur came on Monday to get something from the house and found it looking as though a German shell had exploded inside.

Mrs. Wilbur was formerly Miss Eleanor P. Williams and is a sister of Mrs. Randall Morgan. She is a member of the Acorn Club. Mr. Wilbur is a member of the Merion Cricket and Racquet Club.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Norman McMillin, 115 West Montrosser avenue, Ardmore, was entered some time between Saturday and yesterday. The thieves stole $1500 and $2000 worth of clothing and other valuables taken.

Mr. McMillin, hurrying back from Cape May, yesterday, the morning of the Wilbur robbery, found his house also had been ransacked.

In both instances the thieves had gained entrance by jimmying a side window.

50,000 CHINESE READY TO HELP IN SIBERIA

Army Prepared to Help Allies, Says Doctor Tang

The Chinese Republic has an army of 50,000 men, well drilled, fully armed and equipped and with an up-to-date commissariat organization which is in the disposal of the Allies for the Siberian campaign.

This is according to Dr. Tang Huan-Lung, former Minister of the Interior under the first Republic, who is touring the United States studying military and agricultural methods.

Doctor Tang arrived in Philadelphia last night and spent this morning inspecting the University of Pennsylvania. He held a formal call on Provost Smith and later lunched at the Hotel Normandie as the guest of the Chinese students of the University.

This afternoon he visited Independence Hall, the Betsy Ross House and Franklin's Tomb and finished off with a motor trip through Fairmount Park. Tomorrow he will spend the morning at City Hall, examining the workings of the various departments. In the afternoon he will motor to Valley Forge, and will leave for New York tomorrow night.

Doctor Tang was Speaker of the first House of Deputies created in China, and has held office under both the first and second republics. He is a man of independent means and is making his present tour of this country at his own expense.

The present central government at Peking is very friendly to the Allies, said Doctor Tang, as is also the Governor of Manchuria. The regular army, controlled by the Peking government and under the nominal command of the Governor of Manchuria, is an efficient fighting unit, added Doctor Tang.

The committee of Chinese students having charge of the arrangements for Doctor Tang's comforts while in Philadelphia is headed by S. V. Yang, and includes C. L. Sen, Y. C. Yew and P. K. Wong.
